

Making walkways for Banshees

Making non-skid walkways for airplane wings might not seem like a difficult problem. But keeping any kind of coating on jet-powered wings is next to impossible . . . the windstream tends to peel it off.

The McDonnell Aircraft Company, makers of the Navy Banshee jet fighter, asked 3M for a product that would stay on, yet be flat enough not to set up wind resistance and affect the plane's flight characteristics. 3M engineers suggested this: a primer coat of adhesive and a final coat of Corogard #22, a non-skid coating. The new walkway passed all flight tests, and is now part of the airplane.

Modern adhesives engineering is solving problems in many industries. When you investigate the possibilities of adhesives, come to 3M, leading producers of more than 1000 adhesives, coatings and sealers that do a top-quality job in all industries.

AUTOMATIC CONTROLS

Prove dependable in combat and transport operations

An Aerotec
Dual Float Switch
Top Mounted

Republic, Boeing, and other leading aircraft manufacturers are using many types of Aerotec Automatic Controls in increasing numbers. These controls are custom designed and built to meet specific problems of high speed and high altitude flight in today's aircraft. Each Aerotec automatic device passes rigid tests duplicating actual flight conditions to assure its efficiency and dependability.

The planes shown above are typical designs that incorporate Aerotec Automatic Controls. The Republic F-84F Thunderjet, a combat-proven craft, uses Aerotec pressure switches and a new dual float switch suitable for tip or pylon mounted auxiliary fuel tanks. Boeing has long used Aerotec valves, float switches, and pressure switches on their famous planes.

When you are faced with problems of automatic controls for flaps, landing gear and cabin heater applications, fuel transfer, flow indication, etc., contact Aerotec. One of our instrumentation specialists is near you, ready to give prompt and able assistance at any time. Call or write.

with STABOND

When the canopy of the F-86 Sabre Jet is blasted from the plane in an emergency, the ring of inflatable rubber which seals the cockpit, stays in its track . . . it must stay for safety.

Stabond provides this security.

Peel tests proved that when primed with Stabond V-36, the bond strength of the seal increased by more than 300%, to safely resist the 2600 lb. explosive force of the canopy ejector. Now, Stabond V-36 is included in all Sabre Jet sealing specifications where a sealant is needed for a positive bond between rubber and metal.

There are more than 500 different Stabond adhesives.

TEAMWORK

The photograph shows the majority of the members of the U. S. Air Force Mock-up Inspection group for the Beechcraft T-36A training airplane, posed in front of the dummy or "mock-up" T-36A prototype.

It is estimated that the total aggregate aircraft experience of the members of this board greatly exceeds 500 years. These specialists in Structures, Aerodynamics, Aircraft Power Plants, Electronics and Radar, Flying Safety, Pilot Training, and many other phases of aviation, all made contributions to the design of the T-36A Beechcraft.

The composite thinking of this group, together with the aircraft designing experience of Beechcraft's Engineering Department, has combined to insure an outstanding new training airplane for the U. S. Air Force.

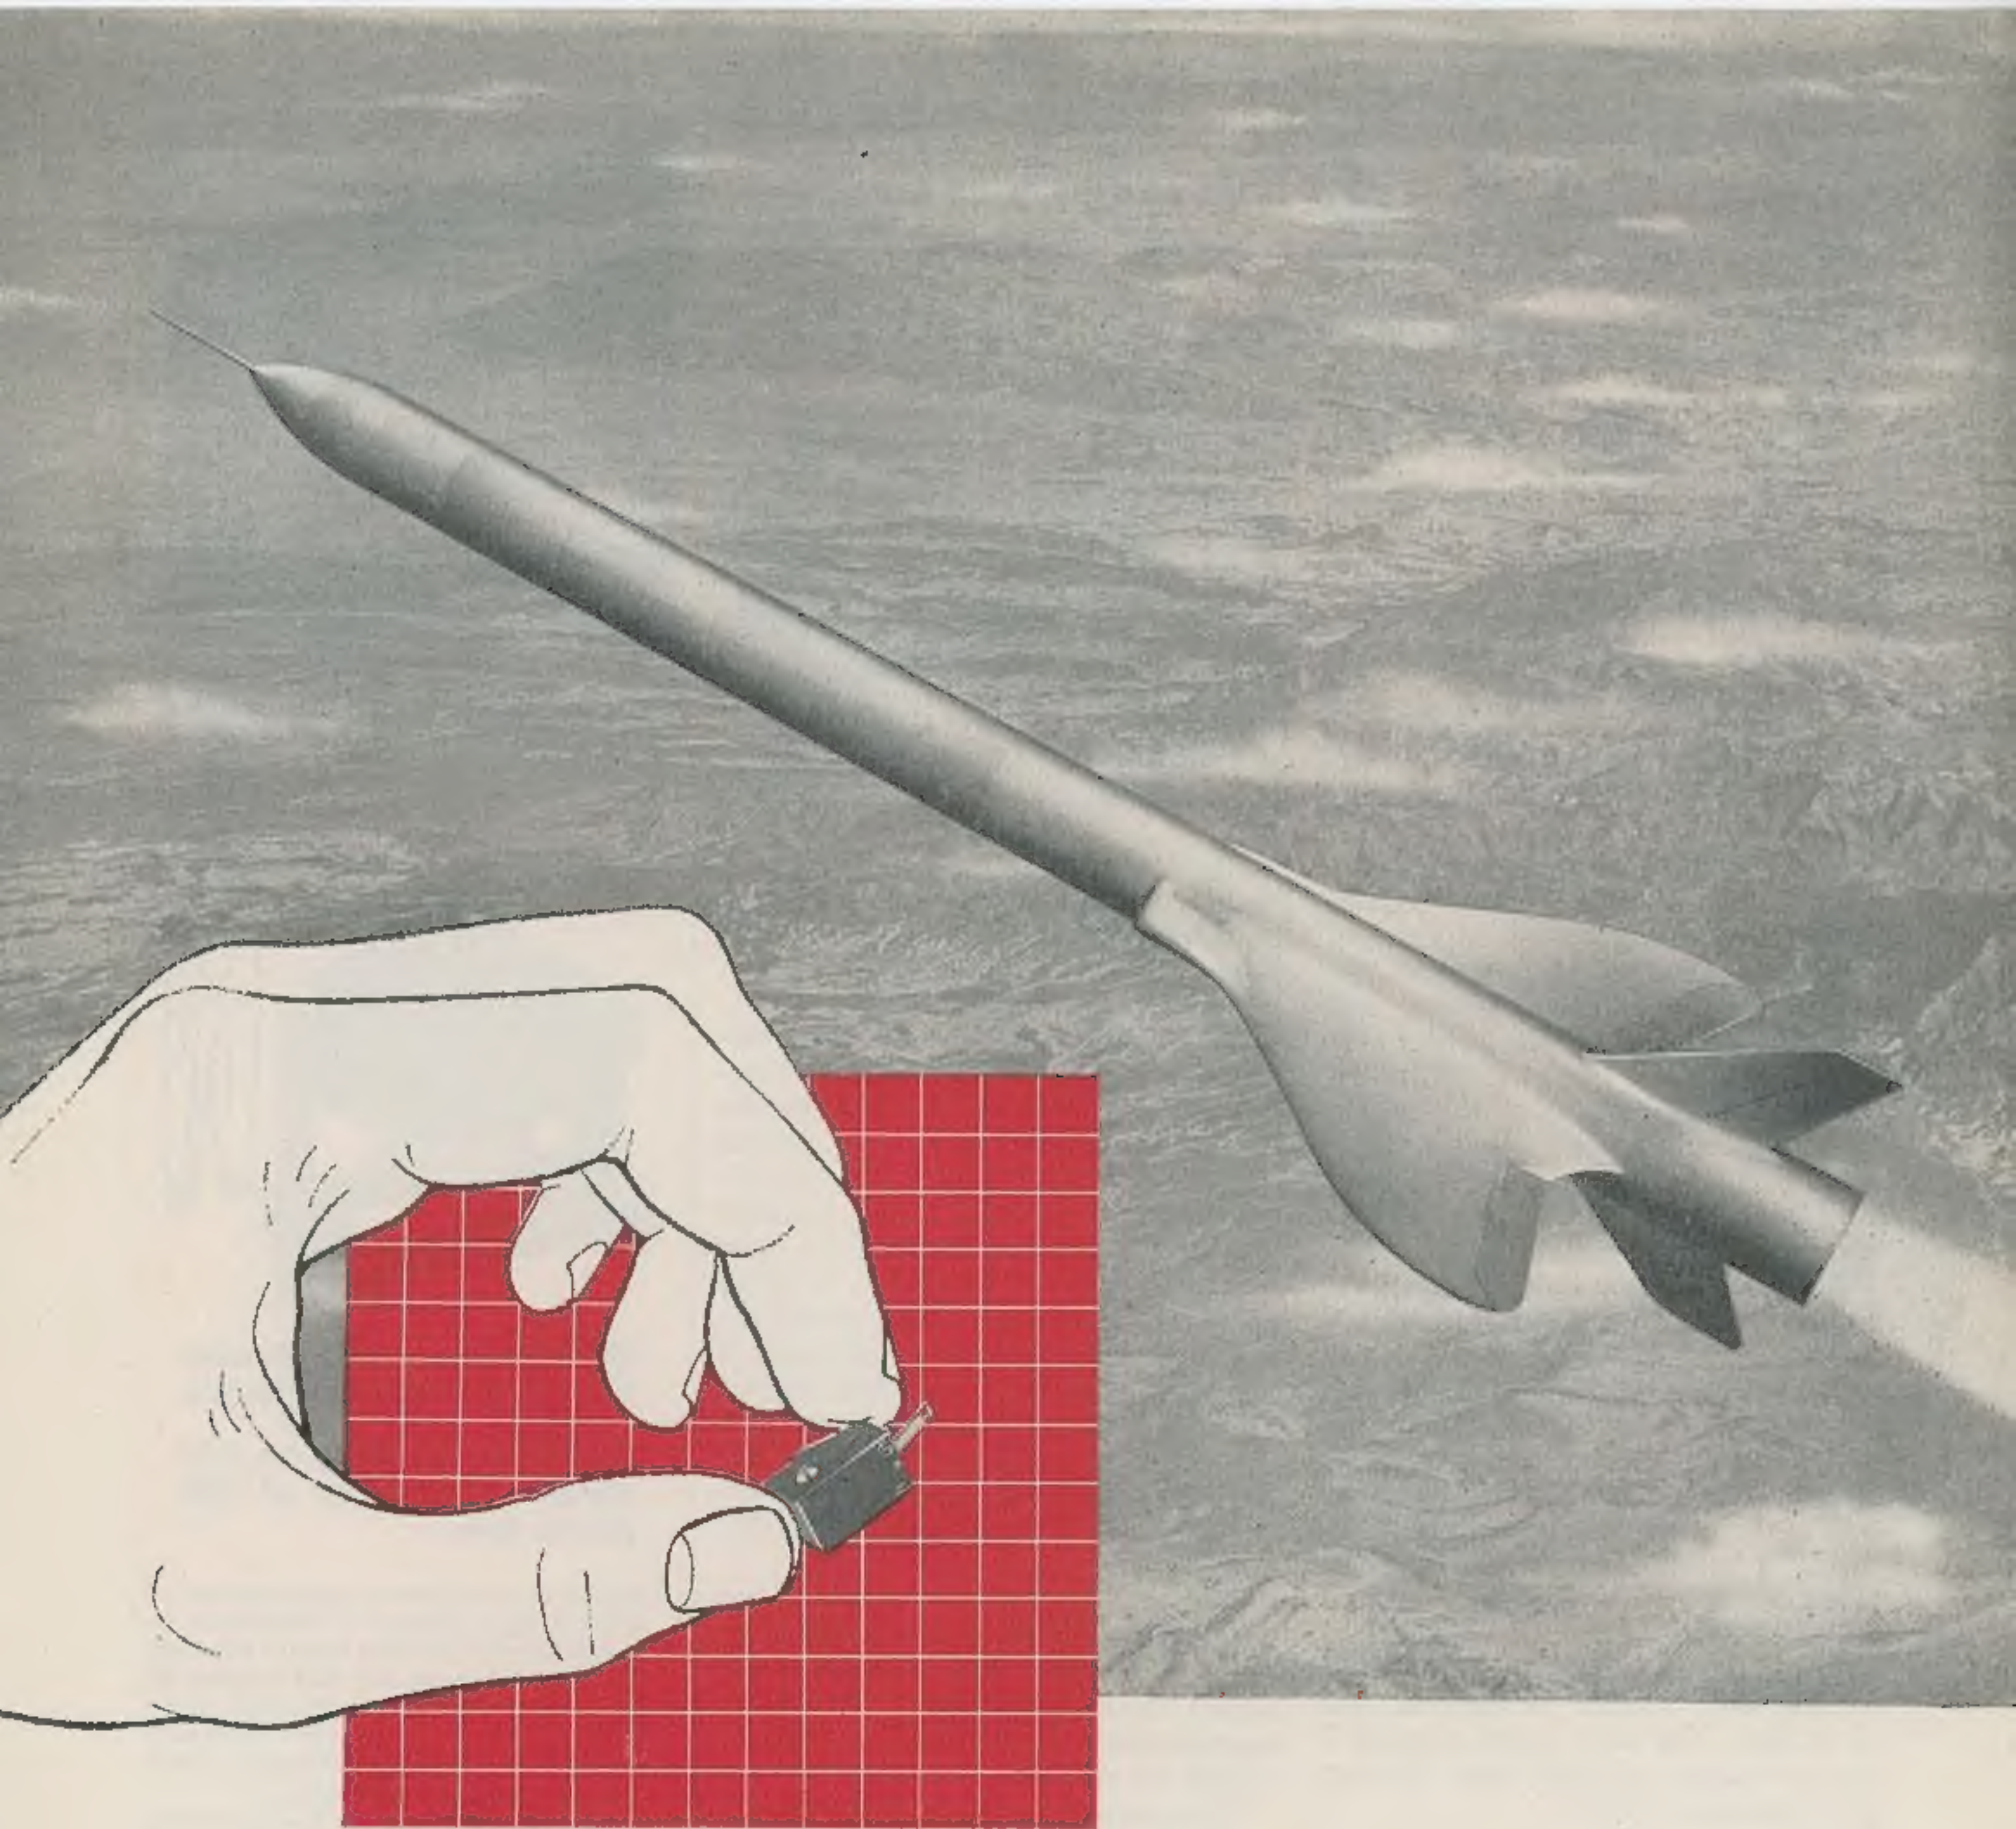

Such teamwork between Government and Industry insures maximum economy in connection with the procurement of new types of defense equipment. Less than five months elapsed between the date of the contract and the date of the meeting of the Inspection Board.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

This is an aircraft scale model in free flight. Its flight characteristics are being accurately tested — the information being picked up by a subminiature potentiometer which is smaller than your thumbnail!

Developed by Bendix-Pacific to measure wing deflection, this potentiometer has proved an important factor for the Douglas Aircraft Company in making practical free flight testing of scale models — a program which has substantially reduced the cost and time of obtaining precise aerodynamic information.

This company's leadership in airborne electronics is attested by the great number of Bendix-Pacific electronic units efficiently serving vital functions in present-day aircraft and guided missiles. Bendix-Pacific standard telemetering assemblies, radar equipment, radio-control systems and electronic servo components are recognized for their advanced design, ultra-compactness and reliability.

Your company, too, can profit from the many years of diversified experience built into every piece of electronic equipment bearing the Bendix-Pacific nameplate.

You are invited to write for a free copy of the booklet illustrating Bendix-Pacific developments.

PRECISION-BUILT BEARINGS

SPEED MODERN JET PLANES!

Jet planes flying faster than the speed of sound . . . turbines spinning at a rate of 12,000 RPM . . . temperatures as high as 500° F.—with a minimum of lubrication! Those are the punishing demands today's modern aircraft put on bearings! Small wonder then that major manufacturers of jet engines standardize on Bower aircraft bearings. Precision-built to tolerances measured in millionths of an inch, these quality bearings operate with complete efficiency at peak speed and temperature loads. What do you make? If your product demands top-quality bearings you'll be wise to specify dependable Bower bearings.

B.F. Goodrich

How rubber helps a bomber stretch its range

B-47 BOMBERS are refueled in flight by the Flying Boom—new telescoping pipe for in-flight refueling, developed by Boeing. Its vee-shaped ruddervators guide it into a fueling receptacle—special opening in the receiver ship. To make the boom practical, Boeing engineers faced three problems which they brought to B. F. Goodrich:

1. Ice forming in flight might choke up the receptacle, make it impossible for the boom to enter. B. F. Goodrich engineers suggested electric rubber—thin, tough rubber heated by a core of electric resistance wires. To fit snugly over bulges and around curves, BFG built the rubber in twelve molded sections. It fitted skin-tight over the contours of the receptacle, kept it ice-free.

2. Control surfaces of the ruddervators had to be kept free of ice. B. F. Goodrich again recommended heated rubber. Bonded to the leading edges of the ruddervators, pads of electric rubber supplied spot anti-icing heat, permitted accurate control of the Flying Boom.

3. Sudden shutting off of fuel at the nozzle of the boom would deliver a kick which might damage the fuel pipe. Boeing had an idea for a "surge boot"—one rubber sleeve inside another with an air chamber between, which would act like a shock absorber to cushion the jolt. BFG came up with a boot of man-made rubber on nylon fabric. It was light in weight, didn't stiffen from cold, had the strength needed to take the kick of the surging fuel. It prevented damaging jolts to the pipe.

These are typical of the aviation developments that have come from B. F. Goodrich, leader in rubber research and engineering. BFG products for aviation include tires, wheels and brakes; heated rubber; De-Icers; Avtrim; inflatable seals; Pressure Sealing Zippers; fuel cells; Plastilock adhesives; Rivnuts; accessories. *The B. When You Fly These Airlines You Fly With

CHAMPION

Spark Plugs!

Being associated with aviation you undoubtedly have come to place a tremendous premium on engine performance and dependability.

You can, therefore, appreciate the significance of the fact that all major scheduled air lines in the U.S., plus most overseas operators, use Champion Spark Plugs—the majority of them exclusively.

As a group, the airlines are unquestionably the world's most exacting buyers of spark plugs.

Since all Champion Spark Plugs are built to one single standard of excellence in quality, value and performance, you may be certain that Champions for your car, your private airplane or boat—as well as for truck and tractor—will assure you top engine performance and dependability.

Executive aircraft now number in excess of 10,000 planes, including 1500 multi-engined craft.

Two types of Champion aircraft spark plugs have been outstandingly successful in meeting the requirements of the vast majority of equipment in this category. In addition, Champion produces other types which cover the full range of privately owned and operated aircraft.

They are available through Champion aircraft distributors and dealers throughout the nation, and insure the ultimate in dependability and long life at prices which will keep your spark plug costs down, while giving you maximum efficiency and minimum service requirements. These are facts—not mere statements—substantiated by the detailed records of the airlines which are unquestion-ably the most exacting spark plug buyers in the world.

A "CLOUDBURST" in this 100-foot water tunnel proves the effectiveness of advanced methods of sealing against moisture, dust and drafts. Bodies move past high-pressure water jets that douse them from every angle. This is typical of the thoroughness with which all Chrysler Corporation cars are built.

A CAR'S BODY TELLS A LOT ABOUT A CAR'S REAL WORTH TO YOU

Chrysler Corporation engineers, stylists, and production men work together, so that body and chassis form a perfectly balanced unit — created from the start for your safety, comfort and driving and handling ease.

The way a door latches and holds . . . the amount of head and leg room you get . . . the comfort of the seats . . . breadth of vision . . . ease of getting in and out — all these are easily read guides to the worth of any car.

In a Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler, you get a superior body — and a superior chassis — engineered to give you the greatest worth for your money. You can prove this for yourself just by calling your nearby dealer and driving one of these great cars.

To talk "plane language" by electronics faster and more accurately

—new Douglas Aircraft Computers

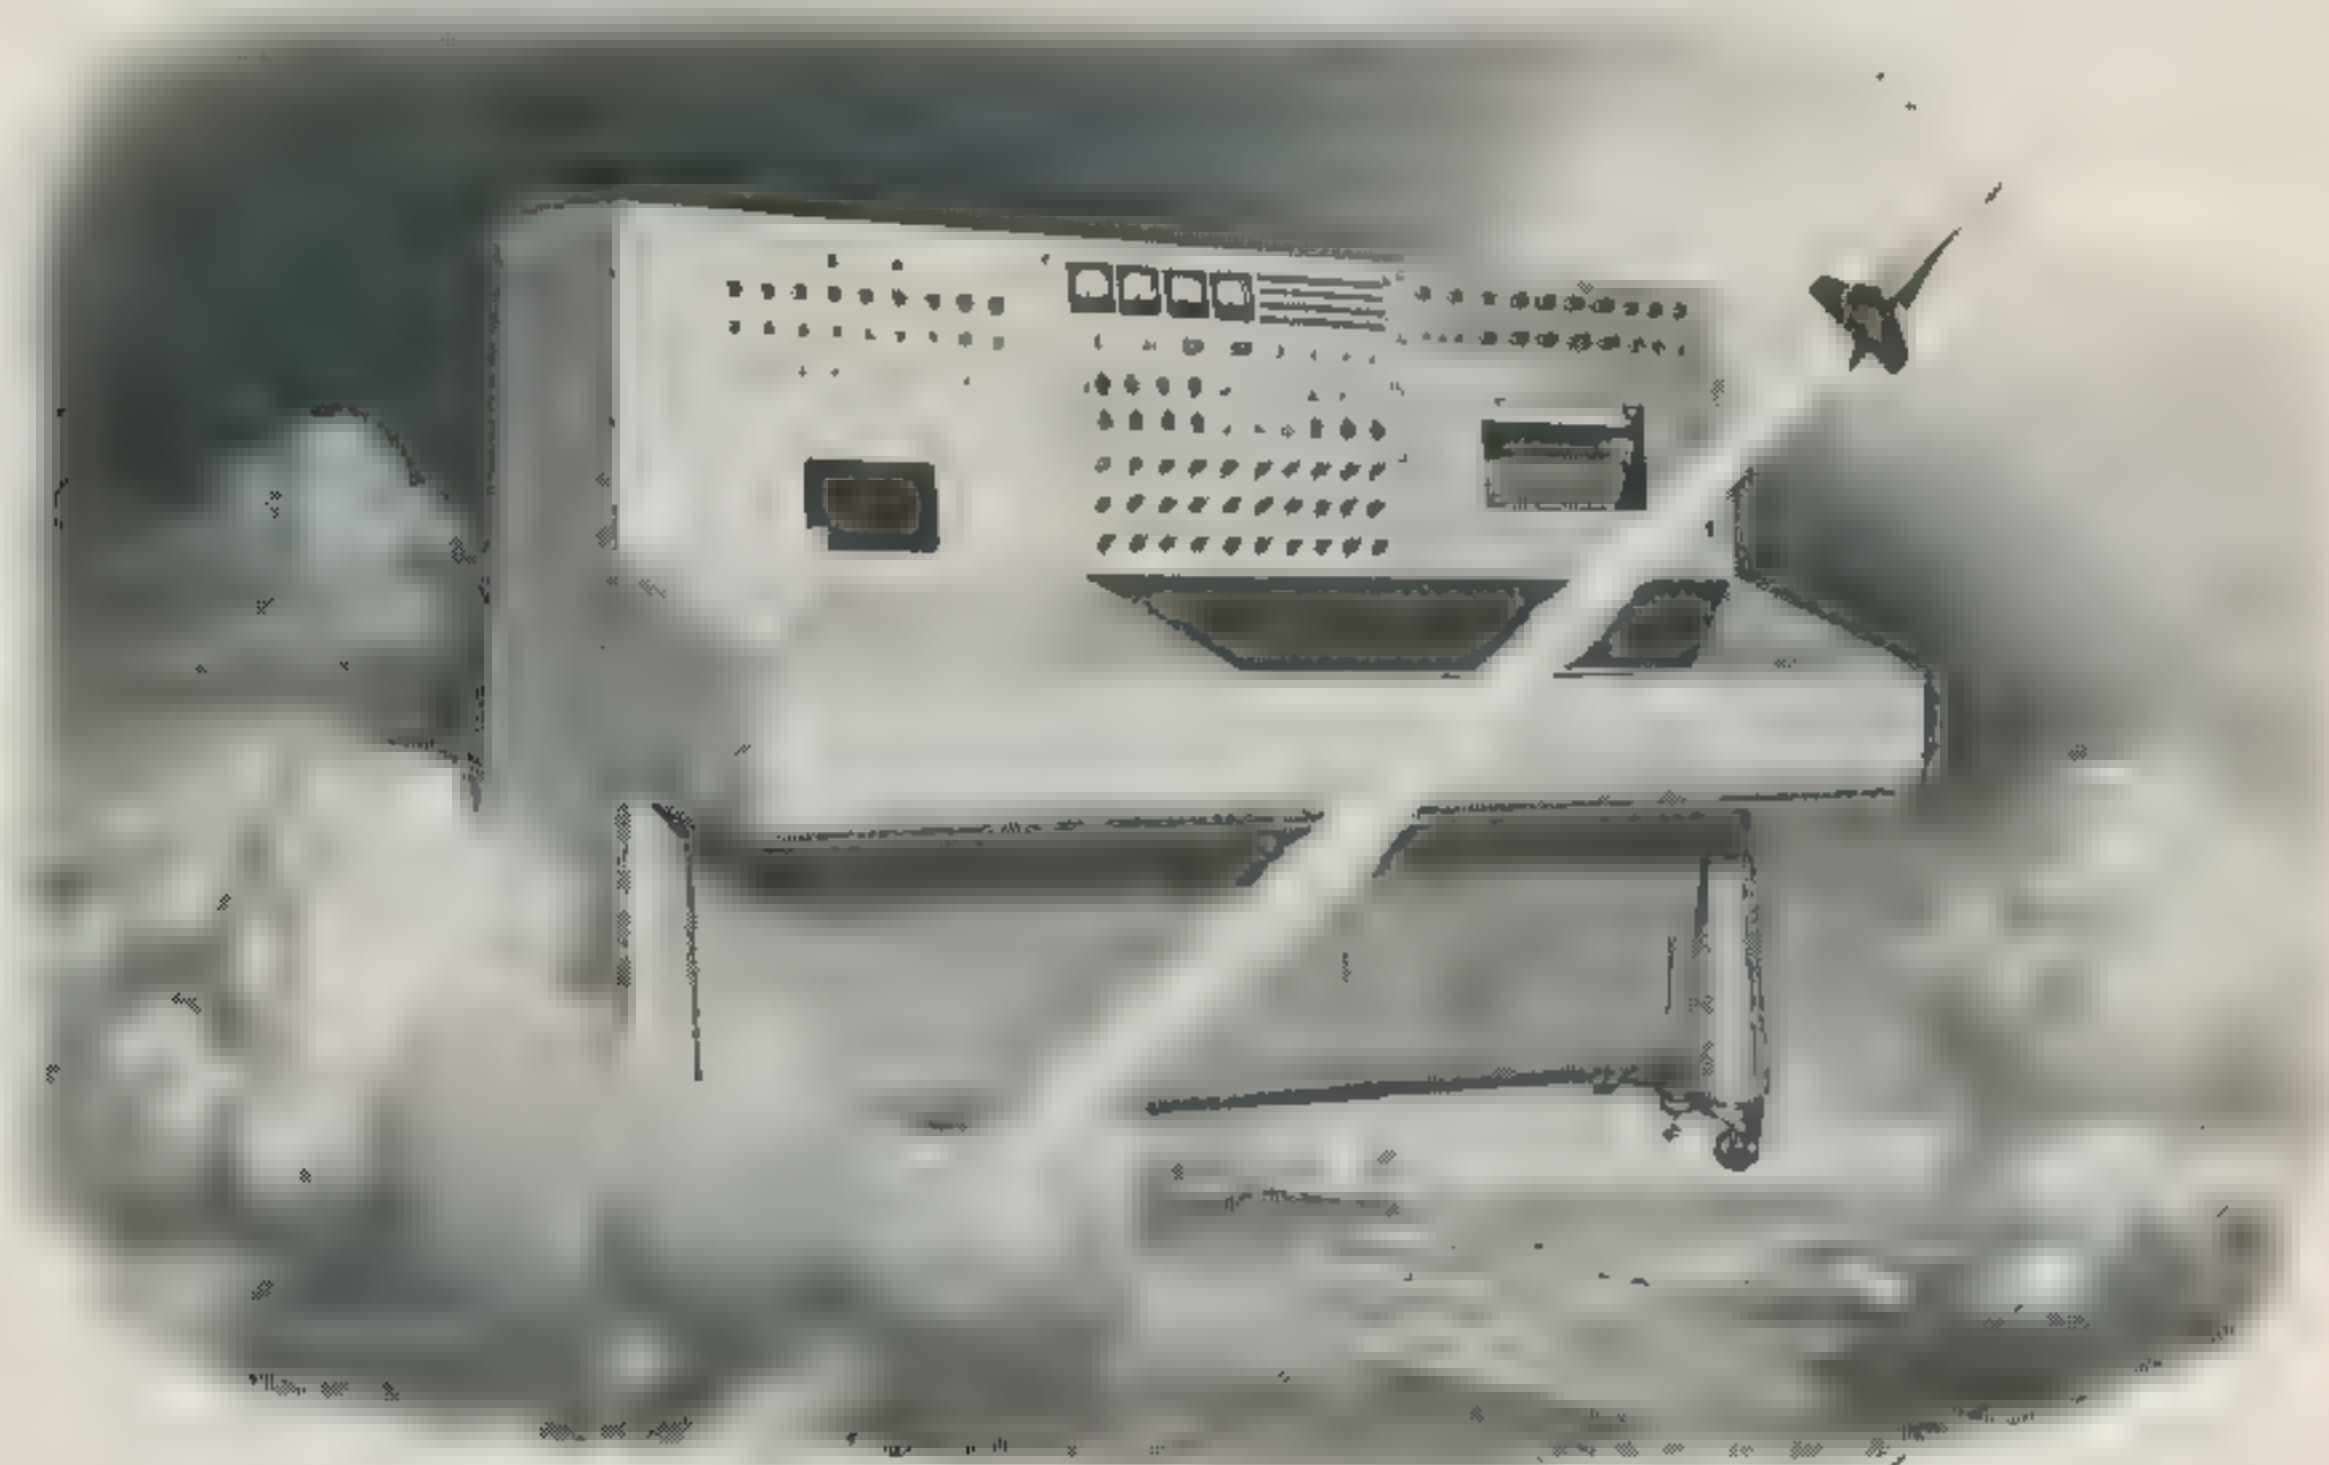

So complex have modern planes become that thousands of hours go into their design. One mathematical problem might take weeks to solve.

To shorten these steps, Douglas has developed automatic computers, analyzers, and measuring devices which work out problems faster than an engineer can write them down—codagraphs, iconologs, digital converters. Some take data transmitted electronically, while a plane is in flight, and solve it before the pilot lands—others work with guided missiles. But all are designed to simplify engineering problems, and can be used in any industry.

Development of these electronic devices is further proof of Douglas leadership, helps Douglas produce planes in quantity—to fly further and faster with a bigger payload.

First in Aviation

On Head-End Cars

Their performance in head-end cars is a good, practical illustration of the dependability and trouble-free characteristics of EDISON Nickel-Iron-Alkaline Storage Batteries.

Head-end cars are subject to more off-line operation than other passenger-train cars, with the result that the batteries receive less regular maintenance. Yet EDISON batteries, as a general average, give the same long, trouble-free life in such cars as in cars regularly assigned to the same runs.

Among their numerous trouble-free characteristics is the fact that, after a period of discharge, no injury will result if EDISON batteries are not immediately recharged, as, for example, in an express car making an off-line delivery followed by a few days' layover. In such a case, the battery usually supplies lamp loads during the unloading operation and may not be recharged until after the layover. Such a stand will not injure an EDISON battery whether it has been partially discharged, fully discharged or overdischarged.

Freedom from trouble under practical operating conditions not only makes for ease of maintenance but also contributes to long life and overall economy of operation. Edison Storage Battery Division of Thomas A. Edison, Incorporated, West Orange, N. J. Thomas A. Edison of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

Fairchild Flying Boxcar Uses 32 Thermoswitch Units

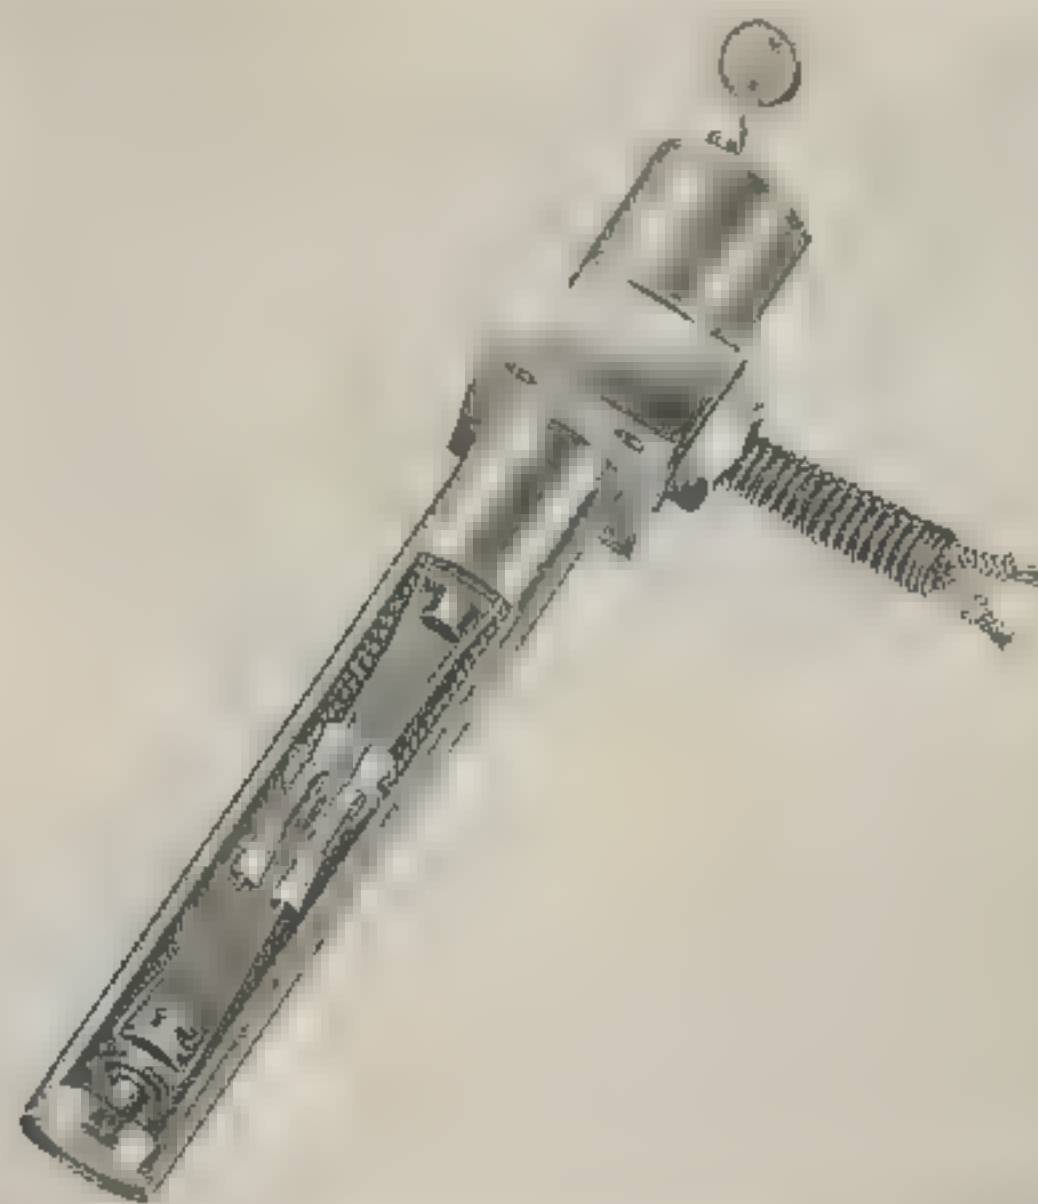

IN THIS C-119 FAIRCHILD "FLYING BOXCAR," hot air heats the crews' quarters and provides anti-icing protection for wing and tail surfaces. Eight unit heaters produce the hot air which must be maintained at a constant temperature. That job is effectively handled by 32 Fenwal THERMOSWITCH® controls . . . four to each heater CHOSEN AFTER TESTS of a series of controls, Fenwal THERMOSWITCH units have been used in Flying Boxcars for nearly three years. Fairchild praises their reliable performance, simple design and low cost. These Fenwal temperature control devices are especially developed for applications subject to severe environmental and operational conditions.

QUANTITY PRODUCTION of Fenwal Aircraft Heater Controls as shown in this picture is accomplished by well-trained assemblers who make up this assembly line. Their skill is backed up by rigid quality control methods which include X-ray inspection. Adequate and efficient production facilities keep all Fenwal THERMOSWITCH units moving in increasing quantities.

CUTAWAY VIEW of Fenwal THERMOSWITCH control shows enclosed electrical contacts. The temperature-sensitive shell expands or contracts instantly with temperature changes, thus making or breaking the contacts. Fenwal units are compact, highly resistant to shock vibration and extreme temperature conditions. For complete data on these and other Fenwal aircraft controls, write FENWAL, INCORPORATED, 129 Pleasant Street, Ashland, Mass.

The Navy's newest turboprop powered airplane, the North American XA2J-1 is equipped with two Aeroproducts dual rotation turbine-propellers. This airplane of undisclosed range and bomb load capacity is one of the Navy's most formidable weapons. And again the Navy has selected Aeroproducts for the largest and most powerful carrier-based aircraft in the world today.

These Aeroproducts turbo propellers convert the tremendous horsepower of the two Allison T-40 engines into the thrust which carries this A-bomber to its target.

Aeroproducts engineers—the same men who developed the propellers for this giant Navy plane—are ready to help you with any propeller problem.

INTERLOCKING Services

MEAN MORE MONEY — MORE SALES FOR YOU

Interlocking Services mean more money—more sales for you—because at HALSAM every part of the business is under one management . . . from the conception of the idea to the finished toys, delivered to you in volume and on time

Over Thirty-Five Years of know-how have made the HALSAM organization a smooth running winning team who closely coordinate the designing, manufacturing, warehousing, selling and distributing of HALSAM quality toys.

PLANT NO. 1 houses the HALSAM main offices and the majority of its woodworking equipment for making Checkers, Dominoes, Blocks, etc. Here the latest and most advanced ideas in toy design are developed in the experimental department and then manufactured by completely automatic, almost human, machines. These machines are exclusive HALSAM products, specifically built to make fine toys at high production and low cost, and to enable you to increase your volume of sales and your profits.

PLANT NO. 2 is the plastics headquarters where the latest and finest machines produce American Plastic Bricks, Checkers and Dominoes. It also contains the equipment for making the original American Hewn Logs. In addition, Plant No. 2 provides ample space for assembly lines, packaging and shipping.

THE WAREHOUSE gives invaluable service to HALSAM customers. Its generous storage capacity permits full speed, year around production . . . assuring you prompt delivery of HALSAM toys even at peak sales periods . . . This is how HALSAM interlocking services benefit you.

Avro Delta... Design of the Future

There's no question about it. Tomorrow's aircraft will be Deltas. And it's not a revolution. It's an evolution in design. The normal, orderly process of development which strides from today into tomorrow. Given immense jet power — the design, the shape, the planform of future aircraft naturally becomes a Delta. Here is the answer for long range, high altitude, high speed aircraft with a heavy payload. Pioneer in Deltas is A. V. Roe of Manchester. Their successful research and flight testing programmes with the 707 A and B have captured the imagination of the world. They have proved, among other things which unfortunately must be secret, that the Delta handles like any other good aeroplane, easy to fly, easy to land. A. V. Roe is a member company of the Hawker Siddeley Group, that industrial commonwealth of companies, largest of its kind, whose resources are pledged to building the prosperity and defensive strength of the Free World.

"K" Monel

may be the aircraft alloy
you're looking for!

You might think "K"® Monel was specially alloyed for the aviation industry. For what other metal has so many of the properties required by aircraft engineering:

- Age-hardenable to high strength and toughness
- Highly resistant to corrosion
- Non-magnetic
- Heat resistant
- Resistant to sub-zero cold
- Easily welded

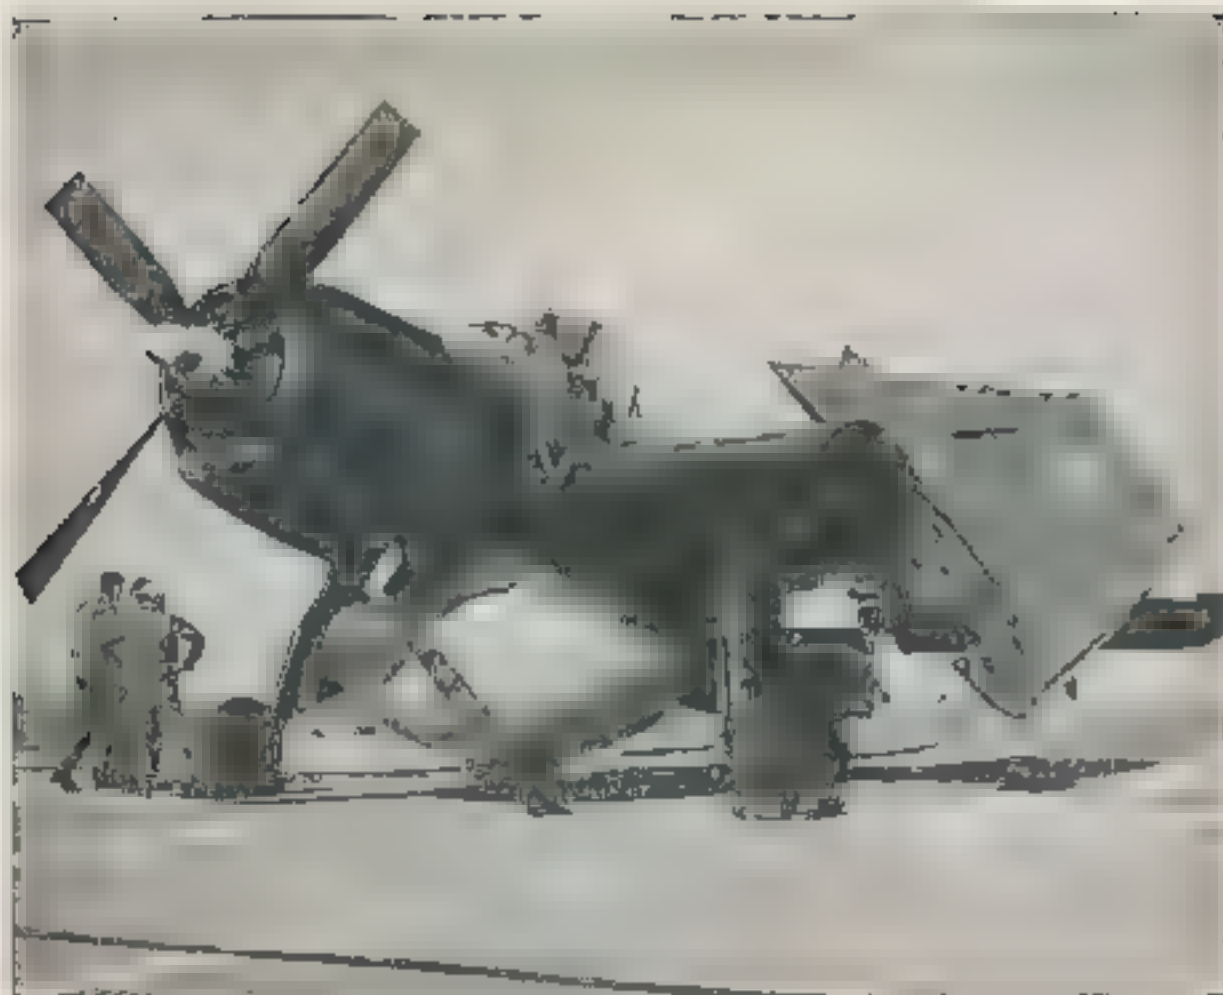

Here's an alloy you can really put to work—a corrosion-resisting wrought alloy of nickel, copper and aluminum. It offers you the excellent corrosion resistance of regular Monel®, together with the added advantages of greater strength and hardness.

Both of these added advantages are vitally necessary, for example, in an arresting hook because it is subject to violent shocks and stresses. But the hook on Grumman's radar-equipped anti-sub plane, the AF-2W shown above, also had to be made of a non-magnetic alloy.

So "K" Monel was a natural choice for the job—as it might well turn out to be for some job of yours that calls for an alloy with a hard-to-find combination of properties.

Suppose we take a quick look at a few of the principal characteristics of "K" Monel:

Age-hardenable, or capable of having its hardness and mechanical properties increased simul-

THE MAIN FUNCTION of this radar-equipped Grumman AF-2W is to locate submarines. High accuracy of its sensitive electronic devices is insured by constructing many parts of the plane of non-magnetic materials. For high-speed landings on Navy carrier flight decks, the AF-2W relies on a "K" Monel arresting hook. Not only strong and tough—as such a hook must be—the "K" Monel hook is also non-magnetic, does not impair efficiency of the plane's radar equipment.

taneously as the result of thermal treatment, "K" Monel is equal in strength and toughness to many heat-treated alloy steels. It shows improved strength and hardness at sub-zero temperatures with no loss of toughness. And it provides moderate strength at temperatures up to 900°F.

"K" Monel is non-magnetic under ordinary conditions, and remains so down to -150°F. It finds many uses in compasses and sensitive electromagnetic equipment, or where non-magnetic structural members must be placed close to them.

The working characteristics of "K" Monel are excellent, too. It is readily machined in an annealed condition, but in other conditions may be considered commercially machinable at practical (although generally somewhat slower) rates. It can be joined by the usual welding, brazing and soldering processes.

You'll find all essential engineering data on "K" Monel and its more machinable companion alloy, "KR"® Monel, in the 24-page reference manual, "Engineering Properties of 'K' Monel and 'KR' Monel." Write for your copy.

One last—and important—point. "K" Monel, like other nickel alloys, is now on extended delivery because of defense needs. So it is important to include NPA rating and complete end-use information with all orders.

Panagra specifies Janitrol

The friendly atmosphere in Panagra's luxurious DC-6 El InterAmericano is due, in part, to Janitrol heaters. Writes Thomas Kirkland, Panagra's vice-president, operation: "Their outstanding dependability has kept inspection time and replacements to a minimum. The units average 2350 hours of aircraft flight time. As a result Panagra has specified Janitrol heaters as standard equipment on its new DC-6B's." Thanks, Panagra! This outstanding airline is one of a great many who find it good business to specify Janitrol for dependability and economy on all new aircraft . . . For help on heating problems, wherever and whenever you need it, call your Janitrol representative.

Watch a plane's "lung" take a deep breath

An aircraft engine gulps 15 times more air than fuel. To control this air flow—adjusting perfectly to frequent changes in speed and altitude—requires a precision-machined "lung" that never leaks, never coughs. Producing a part so precise typifies Lycoming resourcefulness and skill, long famous in the aircraft field—increasingly in demand throughout all American industry.

Whether you require precision machining, high-volume production, product development—or air-cooled power for aircraft or ground applications—Lycoming offers extensive facilities and experience.

Whatever your problem—look to Lycoming!

For a more complete story on Lycoming's varied abilities and facilities, write—on your company letterhead—for the interesting, illustrated booklet "Let's Look at Lycoming."

To inhale 30,000 pounds of air every hour, a plane needs good lungs. For a fuel-injection body that "breathes steady," one of America's leading aviation corporations calls on Lycoming precision production.

new safety for "luxury in the sky"

Travelers who soar at 22,000 feet in the luxury of Cia Mexicana de Aviacion Super DC-6's enjoy greater safety with Monsanto Skydrol.

Skydrol, Monsanto's fire-resistant-type hydraulic fluid, serves in the cabin superchargers of CMA's big 50-passenger ships that fly the international route between Los Angeles, Mexico City and Havana, Cuba. Skydrol, which exceeds the nonflammability requirements of Aeronautical Material Specification 3150, eliminates the danger of fires due to broken hydraulic lines. It protects passengers and crews... protects multimillion-dollar aircraft in the air and on the ground.

Skydrol is stable... a superior lubricant... noncorrosive... nontoxic. Investigate the advantages Skydrol offers you. Write for a copy of the Monsanto booklet, "More Safety in the Air with Monsanto's Skydrol."

De Luxe Panagra Planes Carry Monsanto Skydrol

De luxe DC-6 planes on Panagra's El Inter-Americano service to South America now carry Monsanto Skydrol in their supercharger systems. Panagra's new DC-6B's will have Skydrol in their hydraulic systems as well as in the superchargers.

One hundred and fifty-one planes on ten major airlines have flown more than 500,000 hours with Skydrol in superchargers or throughout the ships.

Skydrol exceeds the nonflammability requirements of AMS 3150 . . . has more than double the lubricity of ordinary hydraulic fluids . . . is stable at operating temperatures and pressures . . . is noncorrosive to aircraft metals . . . is nontoxic.

The whistle heard for 6900 miles

Some people say it's the loudest whistle they ever heard. In fact, you might say it echoes all up and down the 6900 miles of railroad track that is Northern Pacific's "Main Street of the Northwest."

They blow it each time a new car rolls out of Northern Pacific's car-building shops at Brainerd, Minnesota—ready to help provide better freight service all along our line.

Sometimes that whistle blows every 40 minutes, for we're adding to our rolling stock as fast as we can. Our growing freight fleet is busier than ever right now—carrying rush shipments vital to National Defense . . . bringing you prompt delivery of the growing number of things you buy or sell in the Northwest.

What's happening in this great area is important to everyone in America. Never before has the Northwest's future been so bright. Here's just a glimpse of the future.

People: Population in just two of these Northwest states is up over 38% in ten years. A steady flow of new settlers and the nation's highest birth-rate will help us grow even faster.

Power: Water-generated electricity now produces three million kilowatts in those same two states. Completion of present hydro-electric projects will double that amount.

Resources: Enough virgin timber to rebuild every home in America. Reforestation will permit perpetual production. Irrigation water which will turn a million desert acres into farmland will begin flowing this year.

Surely an area so promising, so fast-growing, needs a railroad that can and does grow along with it. That's the kind of railroad Northern Pacific is—with $183 million worth of improvements in the last 10 years.

And that's why, when you ship or travel on "Main Street," you'll find Northern Pacific's fine facilities are just the ticket for you.

"MECHANIZED ANGELS!"

All military service records for speedy evacuation of wounded United Nations' troops in Korea have been broken by the Army's Bell H-13D helicopter, important components of which are made of OSTUCO Aircraft Tubing.

Like the majority of leading U. S. plane manufacturers, Bell Aircraft Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., specifies OSTUCO Aircraft Tubing because of favorable strength without weight characteristics and specialized forming and machining qualities.

OSTUCO Aircraft Tubing meets all Army, Navy, and AMS specifications and is widely used for landing gear, fuel lines and a wide range of other applications. Send for free Handbook A-2 packed with facts for ready reference on OSTUCO Aircraft Tubing. Airframe Stock List (revised bi-monthly) also available. The Boeing B-47 Stratojet, world's fastest known bomber, like so many other of this nation's outstanding planes, employs OSTUCO Aircraft Tubing.

A majority of our aircraft manufacturers specify OSTUCO to be sure of consistent high quality and specialized forming and machining characteristics. They know that OSTUCO also offers a favorable strength-without-weight ratio to make it the most suitable material for many applications. And OSTUCO more than meets all Army, Navy and AMS specifications.

OSTUCO pioneered "Chrome-Moly" for aircraft... today is one of the nation's leading suppliers to plane manufacturers. For detailed information, write for free Booklet A-2. Address nearest OSTUCO Sales Office, or write direct to General Office, Shelby 1, Ohio.

Two of the most attractive anchorages on the North Jersey coast are shown in this portion of U. S. Coast & Geodetic Survey Chart number 825. Draft of about 4 feet can be carried into the Metedeconk River, a quiet and protected estuary. Further south, Mosquito Cove is really away from the world

IF YOU HAVE NEVER CRUISED

THE NORTH JERSEY COAST!

Only a mile or two off the beaten track, you can find quiet harbors at the head of Barnegat Bay

By WALTER D. FULLER

WE boat people are inclined to "look down our noses" at the lines of automobile tourists who, like circus elephants, trail along behind each other on the crowded main highways. Particularly is this true if we know of alternate uncrowded roads which could be used. But are we much better when on a trip into strange waters we get away from our own local cruising area?

My wife and I do most of our boating in the Barnegat Bay area of New Jersey. This is the northern entrance to the Atlantic Inland Waterway which stretches approximately fourteen hundred miles to Miami. Every fall hundreds of boats, strangers to the Barnegat, cruise South through the Bay and each spring return North.

Now the cruising boatman is a free and independent American and, so far as I am concerned, he can tie up or anchor where he pleases, but when you see the number who spend the first night of their long cruise tied up or anchored in crowded, shallow, noisy, tidal waters or at commercial wharves, it makes one certain that they do not know that just a few miles away there are protected and attractive anchorages where there is no tidal flow and where the water is adequate, the location quiet, and where the stars and moon are brilliant beyond description.

If you happen at some time to be one of these Florida or Chesapeake-bound yachtsmen or are just a vacation cruiser to the Barnegat region, bear these spots in mind.

For example, when you enter Manasquan Inlet, keep on through the river and the short canal into the Barnegat. If you need supplies or repairs, they are available at the various boat yards in Bay Head, but if you are looking for a pleasant overnight anchorage and if a 4- to 4½-foot channel depth will serve, turn right at the second flasher beyond the canal exit. This comes quickly—don't overrun it then follow the rather narrow channel between stakes (triangles to the right coming in—squares to the left). Shortly you will come to a double marker. Ahead is Beaver Dam Creek—it is short and shallow—do not take it. Instead follow the stakes to the left, passing Metedeconk Point. Soon you approach a red flasher off the north shore at the entrance to the Metedeconk River. This is an estuary rather than a river, about one-half mile wide and about three miles long. The shore is pretty well built up, but the trees are pine and oak and the area is quiet, protected and attractive. Once you are past the red flasher at the entrance, there is plenty of water almost everywhere.

The next morning when you leave, you do not have to go back to Bay Head. Instead follow the south shore of the river and, as you reach the entrance, you will find a staked channel leading directly to the Mantoloking bridge.

If the Metedeconk sounds too populated to suit your pioneering tastes, you can pass it by and continue along the charted course down the bay, pass through the Mantoloking bridge and some miles below to the right you will see the resort town of Shore Acres on Kettle Cove. This is shallow and would hardly be a good overnight anchorage. But just beyond lies protected water which the charts label Mosquito Cove, but which the real estate men call Silver Bay. This area is really away from the world. There is a small settlement on the north shore, but otherwise the cove is pretty close to nature.

To enter, try to come in about half way between the two entrance points. On either side the water deepens gradually until there is about 4½ feet in the center. Better take it a little slow as you come in. Even if you touch in the Barnegat, it is a mud bottom, so usually no harm is done. Once inside, swing to the South, giving the shore a reasonable clearance. Right ahead is a small private cove and to the West some rising ground. You can anchor anywhere in this area and certainly you will be alone, unless a few other boats drop in for the night. This location is even more ideal for a luncheon stop or for a swim. You can get back into the Waterway in fifteen minutes.

Sometimes a cruising boatman wants to stop close to the ocean and usually this is difficult in the Barnegat area, unless you tie up at one of the towns. However, the area south from Seaside Park to Barnegat Inlet is in one private ownership. For about ten miles there are few buildings except the Coast Guard stations. This section is almost primeval in its naturalness and at one point opposite Flasher 31 (see your chart) it can be approached by boats of moderate draft. If you go in here, follow your chart carefully, sound as you go, and proceed slowly.

There are, of course, many other anchorages and boat yards with available berths in the Barnegat. Toms River is interesting and lovely. Seaside Park has good accommodations and a fine beach. There are excellent anchorages back of Barnegat Inlet, although somewhat off the Waterway. The State Marina, on Oyster Creek, is interesting and at the lower end of the Bay there are fine accommodations at Beach Haven.

The Barnegat has a charm and beauty of its own. Its charm is quiet and its beauty is neighborly. It is neither noisy nor crude, but if you seek out its pleasant anchorages, I am sure you will not be sorry.

Arbogast BAIITS

Hard-hitting national advertising and a tremendous word-of-mouth reputation with the nation's anglers...these two things have made Fred Arbogast lures "America's Favorite Bait", have made sure of fast turnover and extra profit for you. STOCK and SELL the COMPLETE Arbogast line!

JITTERBUG — The old standby. World's best hooker — day or night. Noisy surface bait with special paddling action — makes fish strike hard. Choice of body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. or $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. — \$1.25 ea. Musky size ($1\frac{1}{4}$ oz.) — \$2.00 ea.

HULA DIVER — Sensational new deep-running, open-water bait. You control amazing new wiggling action by speed of retrieve. Easy to control running depth. Rubber Hula Skirt acts alive. Ideal for trolling. Choice of 7 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. — \$1.25 ea.

HULA DANCER — Small but mighty. A deadly hooker in open water. Heavy enough to make long casts easier, it's a sinking lure that runs medium depth. Special "lip" for special action — fools smart fish. Choice 9 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. — \$1.25 ea.

HULA POPPER — Famous everywhere as the best surface popping lure made. You make it pop, plunk, twitch or jerk under perfect control. Squirmy rubber Hula Skirt imitates live bug. Choice of body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. or $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. — \$1.25 ea.

FLY-ROD HULA POPPER — Same exclusive design as larger Hula Poppers. World's best combination of noise, action, casting and hooking qualities. Choice 4 body colors. $1/16$ oz. — 75¢ ea.

FLY-ROD HULA SPINNER — Steady retrieve or little jerks give this bait a million wiggles. Makes old-style fly and spinner look dead by comparison. Choice 4 body colors. $1/16$ oz. — 75¢ ea.

FLY-ROD TIN LIZ — A honey to cast. Double action — wobbles along on its side with tail spinner whirling, acting like a real cripple. Choice 2 body colors. $1/64$ oz. or $1/32$ oz. — 50¢ ea.

NYLON LEADERS — Tough — almost invisible — molded easy-running knots. For bait: 3 or 4 ft., with snap or snap-swivel. For fly-rod: 7 or 8 ft. tapered, with snap. 25¢ ea.

...BEST SELLERS ALWAYS

HAWAIIAN WIGGLERS

No. 1 DEEP RUNNING—Use this beauty where you can't use treble-hook lures. Easy to cast. No "snag-up". Deadly for all game fish. Choice 5 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. or $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. —\$1.15 ea.

No. 1-1/2 MEDIUM RUNNING—Red-hot all-purpose bait. Wiggles through the toughest places. Easier casting, better control. Choice 4 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. —\$1.15 ea.

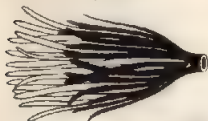

No. 2 SHALLOW RUNNING—For bass and other game fish. Put it into pads, snags & brush—comes over and through without hanging up. Choice 4 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. or $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. —\$1.15 ea.

No. 2-1/2 ("THE SPUTTER-FUSS")—A fast, noisy surface bait. Wakes up lazy bass—and muskies too! Get different action and sound effects by varying height of rod tip and reeling speed. Choice 3 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. —\$1.15 ea.

No. 3 ("THE WEEDLESS")—The famous genuine weedless bait. Weeds, rushes, fine clinging moss and "goopy"—nothing stops this weedless wonder. Casts like a bullet. Terrific action. Choice 5 body colors. $\frac{3}{8}$ oz. —\$1.15 ea.

RUBBER HULA SKIRTS—Beats bucktails, feathers, pork rind or plastic. More color! More action! More fish! Simple, quick and easy. Choice 11 colors. Regular model—large 28¢ ea., small 17¢ ea. QUICK-CHANGE HULA SKIRT ATTACHMENT (25¢ ea.) instantly snaps onto any treble-hook lure.

Just count the profit-making NEW GENERAL ELECTRIC

Here's the answer to every mixer question your customers can ask—the most modern—most advanced—most wonderful mixer General Electric has ever made. Look:

New Positive Speed Control

...forevery mixing job. Whatever the housewife is mixing—from mashed potatoes to thick cake batters—she'll get plenty of power at exactly the speed she needs.

New Beater-release

.. lets your customers remove the beaters without the usual tug-of-war. Just reverse the speed selector (it's easy to demonstrate) and the beaters easily slide out!

New Color Design

...the kind of good looks that will stop your customers and make them want to buy! Handsome all-white baked enamel finish—easy to clean and practically indestructible!

And these popular features, too:

Built-in light to shine down into the bowl—finger-tip speed-selector with twelve tested mixing speeds—three beaters (minus center shafts, which makes them easy to clean) to insure thorough mixing action. And a two- and four-quart bowl—plus a handy juicer—come with every mixer at no additional cost.

AND TALK ABOUT ADVERTISING SUPPORT!

 During the four months before Christmas, there'll be a four-color, double-spread send-off in Collier's. Then there'll be full-page, full-color ads in Collier's, McCall's and Household—the kind that really pre-sells your customers.

Lawyer View-Master

THRILLING THREE DIMENSIONAL PICTURES IN FULL COLOR

When you look at View-Master Pictures through the View-Master Stereoscope, it's like sleeping through Alice's looking glass into a new world, but a real world. Every object in every picture has the fullness, the depth, the roundness of reality - you feel confident you can touch and even reach around and behind trees, rocks, and people.

You sit at home and get the very real illusion you are actually visiting such romantic places as Hawaii, enjoying the view from the rim of the Grand Canyon, or awakening to a magic fairyland scene to life - all in breathtaking, natural full color.

The pictures are brilliant Kodachrome. They come in reels of seven full-color three dimensional scenes - actually there are 14 pictures to each reel because each eye sees its own picture as in real life. There are more than 300 subjects for you to choose from, and they range from travel pictures and wild animals to dramatizations of fairy tales and Bible stories - for both children and adults. For the complete list write Words for the View-Master Reel list.

A AND B VIEW-MASTER OUTFIT. Sturdy black plastic stereoscope (A) with changing lever, lighting unit (B) for even, diffused light for your pictures (order batteries separately), complete list of View-Master reels, cardboard storage box for 12 reels and choice 3 View-Master reels. Postpaid.

SUCCESSFUL MODEL AIRPLANE BUSINESS is BORN

Shortly after World War II, the Wen-Mac Corporation resolved to produce and market model airplanes which were (1) "ready to go," and (2) extremely durable. The members of the firm felt quite strongly that many additional modelers could be brought into the fold if it were made more easily possible for them to experience the thrill of successful controlled flight.

ORA

IT was recognized that there existed three principal deterrent factors to an immediate and complete flying model "national-consciousness." In the order of their importance they were:

(a) A lack of knowledge was evident on the part of the general public as to the vast scope of accomplishments in the field of model flying. From a cross-section of one hundred people interviewed on the matter, only a very small percentage knew of the existence of internal combustion engines weighing less than an ounce; of simple control systems permitting actual control from the ground; or of planes designed for intricate stunting or speeds approaching 200 miles per hour.

(b) A lack of patience and confidence was revealed by many potential modelers. Both young and old indicated they had neither the skill nor the patience to invest in a project of constructing a flying model. They felt that interest alone was not sufficient, and professed either inability or unwillingness to devote the painstaking care necessary to guarantee success on an initial effort at construction.

(c) Of the very small percentage of those interviewed who had personal experience with flying models, many succumbed to discouragement. They explained that at the time of their initial interest in flying models they invested time and money in the construction of airplanes which were demolished on the first attempt at flight. Hence—no further efforts in the direction of model flying.

With these important deterrent factors in mind, the Wen-Mac Corporation set the pattern for its operation.

Pattern of Operation

First, there was to be extensive consumer publicity. Every facility of the various advertising media was to be made use of. The general public must be apprised of the outstanding accomplishments in the field of model flying.

Second, airplanes were to be marketed which were completely prefabricated and totally assembled. Through the various channels of distribution an appeal must be made to that large group who had a potential interest in model flying, but not the patience or confidence to undertake the construction of their first model.

And Third, flying models were to be wholly constructed of a heretofore unused material—high impact plastic. Ruggedness and durability must be the keynote in the introduction of novices to the field.

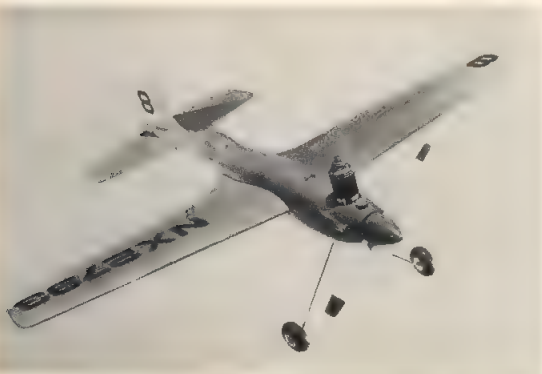

The results of the Wen-Mac program have been very gratifying. Excerpts from recent editorial comments indicate the high degree of success enjoyed by the Aeromite, first of the Wen-Mac flying models produced under the three point program outlined above:

"... modelers have taken the Wen-Mac Aeromite to heart. This ready-to-fly, 1/2A engine powered plane needs no introduction as it has sold since its introduction last summer in unbelievable quantities in hobby shops throughout the nation.

"An analysis of continued astonishingly high sales reveals two things:

"(a) The little 18" all-plastic plane has been brought to a point of perfection. It is made entirely and exclusively of high-impact material of amazing resilience and durability. It is truly a rugged ship—and with the new no-attach control lines is a cinch for both beginner and advanced precision flying. The Aeromite is not only equipped with the finest of miniature engines, but also contains, completely installed and ready-to-go, the famous Jim Walker U-Control.

"(b) No flying model has ever received the all-out national and local publicity that has been given the Aeromite since its introduction. It is currently being featured on leading Radio and TV shows all over the country. It has received public endorsement by prominent Army and Navy Air Force leaders. It has been displayed and publicized with popular stars of stage and screen. And it has received enthusiastic featuring by the foremost hobby dealers of every state in the nation, Alaska and Hawaii.

"There can be little question as to why the Aeromite is the fabulous seller that it is. It is a highly recommended and extremely attractive quality product which is receiving every advantage that accrues from a vigorous and well planned advertising campaign."

In its search for market expansion, the Wen-Mac Corporation was impressed with the need for flying models similar to the Aeromite which would be suitable for the very youngest groups evidencing air - consciousness. Since this group would include ages from four to eight years, it appeared that only the elimination of engine power was necessary. The model should still be properly designed for flight—and equipped with a functioning flight-control unit.

As a result of this line of thought, the Wen-Mac Corporation very recently released a sensational "little brother" to the Aeromite. A typical news comment on the new model is quoted:

"This newest item in the Wen-Mac line of completely prefabricated, ready-to-fly planes is a finely engineered, ruggedly constructed jet-wing which is hand-powered and equipped with a completely installed U-Control system.

"The most advanced features of recent U.S. and foreign developments in jet-propelled flying wings have been incorporated in this amazingly air-worthy craft. Its excellent maneuverability, and extreme durability make it an exciting and highly instructive medium for the eventual transition to engine powered U-Control.

"Appropriately enough, this new Wen-Mac thriller is called the Aerobat—and gives excellent promise of equalling the popularity of its "big brother, Aeromite."

The directors of the Wen-Mac Corporation feel that the future of air-modeling is very bright and intend to do all in their power to extend the national interest. Since national and world leaders are unanimous in the opinion that air power is and will continue to be a factor in determining economic and military leadership among nations, it does not appear improper to assume that the youngsters flying today's Aeromites and Aerobats will be the designers, producers, and flyers of tomorrow's most advanced aircraft. Thus will the United States retain its position as a leader among nations.

Glad to See 'Em!

• Most welcome visitors at our Chicago office on February 4 were Walt Billett, Lytton Calrow, Jim Lightfoot, Mrs. Calrow and Mrs. Lightfoot and Arnie Schultz, all from the Twin Cities. Included in the group was our good friend, Bobby Hall, of Hall's Hobby House in Dallas. . . . None of them wore an MIA badge at the time of their call, but we recognized them anyway as important cogs in the Model Industry Association, then holding its annual convention and trade show in Chicago.

THANK YOU

• "We'd like to express our sincere thanks for sending us the issues of TOYS & NOVELTIES, which we have found very interesting. Be assured that at such time as we are able to enter this vast market, we will certainly remember the courtesy of your service."—Alexander Company, scale model products, Grand Rapids, Mich.

a new, original line of mechanical action toys

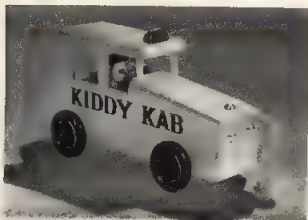

Here is a complete line of wooden mechanical action toys, designed for the age group which is responsible for more toy sales than any other—from 2 to 8 years. These colorful toys are built from sturdy woods, by the manufacturer of one of the world's finest motor boats. Century toys have everything it takes to appeal to both parents and children—eye-catching color, life-like action, realistic noise. Most important of all, they are priced to sell . . . and sell fast. Why not write us so we can have our representative show you how you can make money with these fascinating new toys?

FIRE BILLY... for every miniature "smoke-eater" every kid who wants to be a fire-chaser—here is an action toy with a bell that rings and the fire chief moving up and down with compelling, life-like action. Model 100—Size 10" long x 6" high.

TOMMY ROD... a miniature "hot-rod" with cylinders that move up and down, with real motor noise and a driver that bobs up and down with excitement. It's a fast motor car that kiddies love. Model 200—Size 10½" long x 5½" high.

KIDDY KAB... a speedy cab, with sound effects like a real motor; both the driver and the passenger move up and down, fascinating motion to delight the youngsters and entice the parents. Model 300—Size 10½" long x 6" high.

KIDDY KOP... a lively squad car with a red flasher and a ringing bell to warn the traffic and the pursuing officer bobbing up and down—was there ever a kid who did not want to be a Cop? Model 400—Size 10" long x 6" high.

Pla-Mates—More Glamorous than Ever

"WALK" THEM...SET THEIR HAIR...SEW FOR THEM WITH McCALL PATTERNS

WARD'S NEWEST PLA-MATE DOLLS, shown on opposite page are more fun than ever to play with. Now they can really WALK with lifelike steps when you take them by the hand to guide them. They can also stand alone and sit down.

THEIR LOVELY HAIR, set in attractive girlish styles, is Saran—can be washed, combed and set in any number of new styles. It can also be "permanent-waved" with the Shadow Wave Kit (S) below (or by using little curlers and sugar-water—1 teaspoon of sugar to ¼ cup water). Saran has the delicate shading, gleaming highlights and silky texture of beautiful human hair, but it is much stronger, is flame-proof and skin-resistant.

PLA-MATES ARE MOLDED OF DURABLE HARD PLASTIC. Exquisitely modeled heads, delicately tinted, lifelike features. Glossy eyes with lashes. Beautifully-made, well-proportioned bodies—heads turn and tilt; arms and legs are movable so they can stand, sit and "walk."

THEIR CLOTHING IS UNIQUELY BEAUTIFUL, with detailing to delight the lucky child who receives one. This year there are real McCall patterns (P) specially designed for these dolls. Little girls—or their mothers—can have the fun of making whole wardrobes for their lovely Pla-mates.

Wards Pla-mates are made by the American Character Doll Co., makers of nationally-known "Sweet Sue" Dolls.

FACTS ABOUT DOLLS AND DOLL WIGS

WHAT MAKES ONE DOLL COST MORE THAN ANOTHER? Doll cost is determined by the quantity and quality of materials used and by the workmanship in bodies, eyes, clothing and wigs.

DOLL BODIES. Most fine dolls are now made of some type of plastic because it can be molded in exquisite detail, is lightweight and almost unbreakable. Dolls that stand or walk, like those on opposite page, are made entirely of hard plastic. Baby dolls are made of soft plastic or of latex (not rubber) stuffed with foam rubber. This year many dolls have heads of new soft vinyl plastic; it is smooth and pliable, like actual flesh. Soft molded rubber is used for drinking-watting dolls because it is both durable and waterproof.

EYES may be stationary—painted on or plastic insets or they may be the movable, sleeping type. Best sleeping eyes are Glossene (colloid) iris over a steel base; others are only painted on metal. Fine sleeping eye dolls have real lashes; inexpensive dolls may have lashes that are painted on.

CLOTHING varies in fabric, fitting and finishing. Finest dolls have clothing of best quality fabric, finishing is detailed, dresses have button or snap fastener closings.

DOLL WIGS. Most fine wigs are now made of synthetic materials like Saran or Rayasheen (trade names), because they can be washed, combed, set and "permanent waved." Lomбак wig, used for "Tiny Tears," Pg. 125, are made of fur and can be "shampooed" with a damp cloth. Mohair wigs look realistic but can't be washed or combed. All Wards wigs excepting miniatures have "hair" that can be washed, combed and set.

The method of making and attaching wig is a large factor in doll cost. Fine dolls have a full wig sewn to a cloth foundation. Best wigs have long strands sewn to every part of the head, in less expensive dolls the hair may be stitched down only at the base of the head. Some dolls have just a "curl" or a cloth-backed lock of hair glued directly to the head. In every price range Wards select the finest, fullest wigs available; all dolls excepting miniatures have wig firmly sewn to a cloth foundation. This year some dolls have "rooted" hair set vinyl plastic permie styling strands directly into the head.

BONNY BRAIDS: Dick Tracy's adorable baby daughter is a fun-as-paper favorite and a real little charmer in doll-person. That easily recognized face is as soft and as washable as a real baby's. Those braids can be washed, set, brushed, rebraided and even made to grow! Perfectly dressed and equipped—even to a tooth-brush and a tube of IPANA Tooth Paste for her single tooth.

R_x FOR ADVENTURE

—BAJA CALIFORNIA

By CAROLYN J. WEST

Monsoon, the 105-foot diesel powered converted air-sea rescue craft, makes an ideal cruising yacht

PART ONE

"YOU'RE sure lucky!" the news cameraman said wistfully as we tossed off our last bow line. "Five weeks vacation, no work or worries..." His voice was drowned by our three diesels' throaty response to "Slow Astern" as we backed away from the dock into a black, starless night.

We "lucky" people are two families commencing a long-planned winter's cruise. Jack West, my husband, is skipper, chief navigator and over-all captain. I'm engineer and first mate; our children, Jacquelyn, 13, and Gordon, 9, are our two helpers. With us were our good friends Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Vine and their three children: Ann, 15, Jack, 12, and Jill, 11. We all took turns in the galley and the adults stood watches of six hours on and six off, with the older children helping in daylight hours. Last but certainly not least, our cat, Tiger, was with us as ship's mascot.

As we left Wilmington the night of December 7, we pondered the cameraman's words: "Lucky." Some of our friends might have shuddered and used another adjective to describe our plot of fun and adventure for a five week trip into remote harbors of Baja California with no hired hands aboard and only four adults to be responsible for our 105-foot ship, Monsoon. But that's the way we wanted it and none of us would have traded places with passengers in the finest suite aboard the luxurious Queen Mary!

"Engines started—2100," I wrote in the engineroom log. Later the telegraphs rang for "Half Ahead" and at 2135, as we cleared the Los Angeles breakwater, "Full Ahead." I synchronized throttles, changed from diesel auxiliary to tail-shaft generator and went up on deck to watch the harbor lights fade behind our wake.

The kids and alternate watch were turning into their bunks and Stan and I, who were on watch till 2:00 A. M., lashed down the last movable objects in the pilothouse, preparing for rough seas indicated by small-craft warnings, then posted. A Santa Ana was blowing and by 2200 had rolled the Pacific into huge white-combed seas. Abeam the east end of Catalina Island we changed course to lessen our roll, only to change ten degrees more an hour later, tacking out to sea. This was to be our longest non-stop run—forty hours plus to Turtle Bay.

Jack and I have owned Monsoon for four years and besides a previous trip into the Gulf of Lower California, we have taken Monsoon up the coast to Seattle, into British Columbia waters and back, made many cruises to San Francisco, Ensenada, San Diego and the Santa Barbara Islands. So we know she can take most any weather.

But to resume our voyage southward: That first night out was wild and wicked! The cat was seasick on one of the best blankets and things not too well stowed in the wardroom went flying to the floor. All night it blew, shifting to strong offshore gusts of 35 to 40 mph near San Diego.

The scenery changes gradually below the border. Verdure of the hilly shoreline thins to tans and barren browns with only a smear of purple denoting higher moorlands inland. Sunday at 1550 we dropped anchor in Turtle Bay and were all glad to hike ashore after a 43-hour run. Turtle (the chart shows it as San Bartolomé) Bay is a small fishing village dependent on exporting abalone and lobster. All fresh water here must be distilled from the ocean. We were told by the cannery foreman that they distill 350 gallons per hour. We traded bread and cigarettes for a dozen fine lobsters, finding here, as elsewhere along this coast, money is of less importance to the natives than American foodstuffs.

To arrive at certain points in daylight, it was often necessary to up-anchor at unearthly hours. So it was that we set our alarm for 0245 on the following day—destination Magdalena Bay, a run of about 15 hours.

After dawn, the sky became overcast and we had rain but reasonably calm seas throughout the 11th. The children brought out their schoolwork and arranged a contest to see who would have his lessons finished first on the trip. Wind and currents picked up considerably after dark and by midnight, though we should have, we had not yet picked up Cape San Lazaro light. We figured we had had a definite set to seaward. Changed course from 130° to 97° to run obliquely inshore and at 0100 of the 12th, picked up the light. Tired from the long run we anchored in Santa Maria Bay and waited for daylight to proceed into Magdalena. It was nearly 0400 when we finally had our anchor secure and we piled into our bunks, glad to be safely around Lazaro, which is one of the most dangerous points on the entire Pacific coast. Evidence of this is seen in several rusty wrecks of freighters piled high on the rocks near this point.

Shortly after lunch on the 12th. we left Santa Maria Bay and proceeded the short distance into Magdalena put down the small boats and took a short trip ashore where the kids found considerable whale vertebrae from a group of whales that "ran aground" a few years ago and couldn't get off the beach. Rain continued intermittently the rest of the day and night making us anxious to move on southward, so at 0510 on the 13th we weighed anchor, plotting a course for Cape San Lucas.

Land was within sight most of the day on our course of 119°, although we were from 15 to 35 miles off shore. Toward sunset the sky grew blacker and by dark thunder roared and lightning flashed around us. The rains came in earnest then—never before had we been in such a torrential downpour! Our log continues: 1935, off Cape San Lucas. Finally we were rounding the southernmost tip of Baja California. The rugged Friars, 300-foot high rocks marking the Cape, loomed dimly in the darkness. But we missed the one small light at the cannery of San Lucas harbor, so rather than turn back we anchored in the relatively unprotected Bay of San Jose del Cabo and next morning moved back to San Lucas to clear customs.

"Clear weather follows a cold front," we learned long ago and this held true on the 14th. Dawn was all blue and gold and everyone so anxious to take pictures from deck we scarcely had a helmsman left! At the Cape the water was ideal for swimming, and ashore the landscape was beautiful with its myriad of wild flowers abloom: yellow and orange cactus blossoms and everywhere the flaming reds and purples of San Miguel festooning itself over cactus and chaparral. The harbor itself is deep—90 fathoms just a few hundred feet off shore. We anchored as close to shore as we dared but even then had out all our 300 feet of chain. There is a sizeable fish cannery on the beach and inland a mile is the village. From the high sand dunes nearby, one can gaze out across the Pacific and merely turn to see the blue Gulf waters. Great gnarled tree trunks have grown into the sandstone bluffs and it presents a sight of strange wild beauty! Few yachtsmen ever see it.

There was much to explore but we were even more anxious to see San Jose del Cabo, one of the oldest settlements on the peninsula. As there is no harbor there, we had a native drive us the 18 miles up the coast. We had been warned the road was poor, but how poor we had never imagined! It must have presented quite a sight with nine of us crammed in the ancient car, rattling and banging up hill and down. It took two hours to go 18 miles, but scenery-wise it was most worthwhile. Tropical foliage abounded and on the upgrades we could see the blue-green Gulf sparkling in the morning sun.

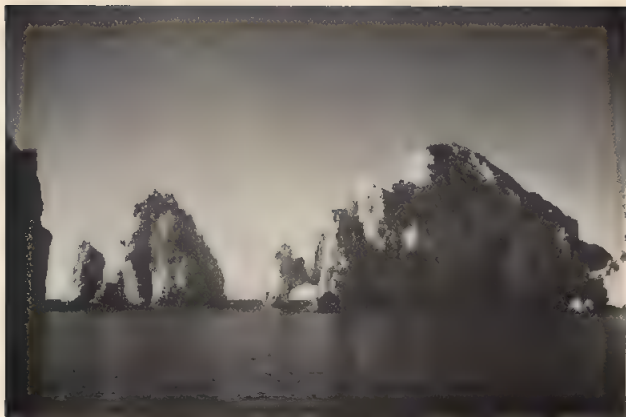

San Jose del Cabo is rich in its fertility. Sugar cane, corn, bananas, papayas and coconut palms grow rankly from the lush black soil as if Nature had tried to make up in verdure for the isolation she had imposed. There is no access from the shore, only the tortuous road through wild country. Thus the natives were shy—none spoke our language. But we did find a guide among the children and ten-year-old Carlos proudly showed us his town: the toy shop (with such pitiful wares), the Cantina for beer and soft drinks; and on the sidewalk a sewing class for girls was held by a buxom smiling teacher.

Always time moved too fast for us: "Carlos, Carlos! El taxi por nuestros! Andale, andale!" And Carlos scampered off to find our driver. The ride back to the Cape was again one of bouncing in beauty, as sunset flung a flaming crimson shawl across the ocean.

At noon the following day we left Cape San Lucas, heading for Los Frailes Bay. "A rest-stop," we called it, to ready ourselves for the longer haul up the Gulf. That night, disobeying captain's orders of "no running on deck," I slipped, stubbed and broke a toe. Donna Vine then took over on my engine room duties. After only a few dual checkouts she did a masterful job. I was certainly thankful for this, as at first it was difficult for me to walk, let alone climb the iron rungs to the engine room. Later, we took turns "black-ganging" which allowed one of us to be on deck during a landing or departure.

Much excitement next morning! The cat swallowed a baited fishhook he'd found on deck. All we could see was the leader dangling from his mouth—the hook itself completely out of sight! Stan, being a dentist, had his work cut out for him. Jack grabbed the diesel starting fluid (a mixture of ether and oil) and acted as anesthetist while Stan probed deeply in the cat's throat with long-nosed pliers. It took a while to put the cat "out" with our improvised anesthetic and not before he'd bitten deeply into the doctor's thumb. Finally, just as the men were about to give up, Stan was able to get the hook out—a skillful maneuver certainly, as it came out clean. Poor Tiger slunk into a dark corner for a 24-hour period and wheezed, but after that recovered perfectly.

Weather continued fine and at 1630 on December 16, we entered a landlocked harbor on Esperito Santo Island. This spot is wild and uninhabited and we found it excellent for fishing. We brought in a fine catch of bass, perch, cabrilla and skipjack and enjoyed the warmth of the water and the white pulverized coral beaches. "Almost everything we want here," said Stan, "except clams. There should be clams here somewhere." But if so, they hid when they saw us coming.

After lunch on the 17th, we left Esperito Santo and continued up the Gulf to San Evaristo Point. The only evidence of commerce here appeared to be a salt mine, with a large load on the beach awaiting shipment. The several dugout canoes on the beach were rigged for sail and paddle. We were told the huge logs for these canoes came from Manzanilla, many miles away on the Mexican mainland.

We all laughed at Stan next morning when he brought in the lobster trap. He was returning in the small boat, standing on the stern seat gingerly steering from between his legs. When he reached Monsoon's stern we saw to our horror a six-foot Moray eel writhing about in the bottom of the dory. It had been temporarily caught in the lobster pot and got out and started charging Stan with its horrible jaws wide open! Never have I seen a man leap up a ladder so fast before! Nor did it take long to grab a spear and assist the eel back into the briny!

At 0710 on the 18th we cruised up the Gulf through some of the most beautiful scenery of the entire trip. The mountains are high and extremely rugged in this area and, as we progressed north, they took on all the colors of the Grand Canyon country, with vivid reds and yellows predominating. At 1400 we anchored at Hidden Harbor (Escondito). And hidden it is! We entered a fairly well landlocked harbor only to see, beyond, another smaller harbor with only a narrow channel connecting.

At high tide Monsoon could have gone into the second anchorage with a narrow margin to spare, but we decided to stay outside where we could leave when we wished. We did take the small boats inside and marveled at the stillness, the isolation and strangeness of this little cove. All sorts of marine life abound in the tepid waters: sea cucumbers, blow-fish, brilliant Zebra fish and some vivid blue fish . . . all darted about our boats. The children even found a young duck they were able to pick up and pet and he pecked in curiosity at their rings.

As we started back to Monsoon at sunset, a solitary figure came barefoot across the beach toward us. We exchanged "buenos tardes" with him and he brought forth a carefully wrapped group of snapshots of American yachts. It was evident this old Indian was making a collection of ships coming into his home port so we invited him aboard and gave him a picture of Monsoon to add to his collection. With the help of our Spanish dictionary we conversed with Romaro, our Indian friend, (Continued on page 68)

Organizing West Indies Cruise

Staff Commander Bob Knapp, chairman of the USPS Cruise and Rendezvous Committee, who organized that wonderful Bermuda cruise which followed the Annual Meeting last January, has just announced another cruise. On the 20th of January 1953, the Queen of Bermuda of the Furness Bermuda Line will depart at 5:00 P. M. for Port Au Prince, Cartagena, Kingston, and Nassau. The entire cruise will take 13 days, the ship returning to New York on February 2. The minimum rate is $325 per person. Those who wish to make reservations should immediately mail $50.00 per person to the Allen Travel Service, Inc., 2037 East 14th St., Cleveland 15, Ohio. If you are in doubt about this cruise, ask those of your Squadron who were aboard the Ocean Monarch last January. You will hear an enthusiastic sales talk on the best way to enjoy a winter vacation. FRED FRANKLIN N and he told us his business was selling salt-shark in Loreto. In a rash moment of heartiness we offered to take him, his canoe and fish all aboard with us when we went on to Loreto.

The following day we met a group of local fishermen who invited us to their haciendas. They were neat thatched houses set well back in the thick tropical foliage which bordered the beach. Ann and her father went dove hunting there and bagged a fine catch for dinner that night. We also initiated the natives into the art of rod fishing—quite a lark for them!

At 0855 on the 20th we weighed anchor bound for Loreto, well loaded with Romaro, his dugout and 300 pounds of salt shark. (We had no idea it was going to be so heavy to pull up on the davits!) But Romaro was more than grateful for the lift, telling us it would have taken him two days to paddle the few miles against prevailing northwest winds. He surprised us then with a sackful of unusual seashells for the children and for Donna and myself, each a lovely black pearl.

"Por comprar?" I gasped ungrammatically. "No, no," Romaro answered smiling, "un regalo"—a gift.

And so it was in these remote harbors of Baja California, we found real people, sincere friends. These are not the natives of the tourist spas. They are, each and all, very poor by our standards but so rich in understanding and in generosity.

Age planned Toys

INFANTS TO 2 YEARS...

oh-and-ah their appreciation of vivid-colored crib toys (p. 38), soothing and soft stuffed animals and dolls to pet and hug (pages 22-24). Playtime-gifts for these youngsters should be washable, too large to swallow, free of sharp edges. Toddlers love pull-toys (pages 39-41).

KINDERGARTEN'S 4 TO 6...

love action more than anything else. Velocipedes, wagons, sleds and wheel toys for boys (pages 54-53). Girls dreams of dolls, doll-clothes, sewing machines (p. 32), tea sets (p. 28). Both love playing grown-up with store, doctor-nurse sets (page 33). See skill-developing puzzle games and simple construction sets (pages 39, 42).

8 TO 10 YEARS...

and the hobby-age starts! Boys want carpentry tools, construction and Erector sets (pgs. 82, 83). Action-games like basketball, baseball, football are wanted too! Little girls become career-conscious, want typewriters, sewing sets (pg. 33), doll houses (pg. 53), like to really "cook" with Aldens toy kitchen appliances (page 28).

NURSERY AGE 2 TO 4...

better muscular control makes it the active "let me help" group. Boys become chore-conscious with trucks, wagons (pgs. 58-59, 65). Little girls imitate mother with dolls (p. 1-18), cleaning and housekeeping toys (pgs. 30-31). Advance them musically with booming drums, pianos (p. 47-51).

6 TO 8 YEAR OLDS...

express their individuality with painting sets (p. 44), blackboards (p. 45), musical instruments (p. 47). Biggest thrill-givers for boys in this age-group are Aldens electric trains (p. 76). Girls adore miniature and bride-model dolls (page 14, 16). All love showing speed on roller-skates (p. 300), sleds (p. 59).

10 YEARS AND OVER...

brings increased hobby interest in wood-burning or plaster-modeling sets (p. 84), sporting equipment (p. 94). Pre-teens enjoy ping-pong sets, toy cameras, projectors, games (p. 88-93). Life-long photography fans start with cameras (p. 302). Year-round rink, roller and iceskates for indoor and outdoor exercise.

strain incidental to hand stringing and likewise permit turning out more uniform work in a given period.

The desired tension is set by a gauge on the machine. Most operators use the same tension on every string, but some put from three to five pounds more tension on the main center strings. In all but two machines now on the market, awls are used to prevent the gut from slipping. It is possible, however, to equip these two types of machines with special heads and metal clamps that hold the string at tension without requiring an awl. Throughout the world there are perhaps a half-dozen types of these machines in operation, all basically designed to produce uniform tension.

The reason why full pressure can be applied to the strand as it is pulled through the racket frame in a stringing machine is that the frame is held rigidly in a special metal vise in its normal shape—as though in a cast. By setting the machine at a predetermined pressure, each string is pulled at exactly that tension, and since the head cannot bend out of its locked position, the final job must come out with the head the same shape it had before being strung.

Besides assuring uniform tension throughout, the racket stringing machine makers claim other advantages through this type of operation.

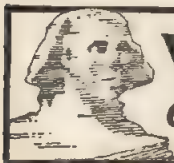

Since machine stringing eliminates the need for pull-ups, there is no chance of injuring the gut as it goes through the holes and the amount of waste or broken string is thus reduced.

With the demand for quality stringing constantly increasing, racket dealers are obliged to expand their stringing services. Low and medium-priced rackets are usually completely strung by hand at the factory, but the better player usually demands a special stringing job at a tension above average. Here is where the machine performs a very important function. It enables the dealer to handle any number of jobs at special tensions without wearing down his energy, as hand-stringing does. Some of the progressive dealers keep one or two models of each high-grade number machine-stringing to high tension for the benefit of customers who are in a hurry.

The dealer also benefits from machine stringing because of its showmanship as well as the build-up it gives the tennis department. Some stringers invite the customers to watch his racket being strung and answer his questions as the work progresses. In addition, some dealers place the machine in or near the window, so as to attract the attention of passersby.

The time-saving factor in machine stringing is noticeable in the energy it saves and the high-tension stringing it permits.

In restringing an old racket the machine is kind to the head, as the head is locked into position and never pulled out of shape. This tends to minimize warping at all times. There is no see-sawing of the gut through weakened holes and there is less stress and strain placed on the frame, particularly in the weak portions of the bow. An old frame is more apt to pull out of shape than a new one, therefore the machine, which holds the head securely in place throughout the stringing, will tend to minimize the possibility of damage in this direction.

In offering strings it is wise to consider the ability of the player and the quality of racket he uses. Today the expert player will use a 16-gauge or light 15-gauge string. The average player will require 15-gauge and the beginner will likewise use 15-gauge string.

The popular stringing pattern at present is 18 main string and 20 cross string and in some cases, in higher priced rackets, 20 main string and 20 cross string patterns are on the market.

Now, with all necessary materials at hand, secure the racket in the vise. Select the string and proceed to thread it into the frame, the lengthwise or main string first. With silk, the string may be cut, allowing 19 to 20 feet for the main string and the balance for the cross string. With gut, select a 19 or 21-foot length, as the case may be, for the main string, with a 17 or 19-foot length used for the cross string. In nearly all racket frames there are holes for either 18 or 20 main strings. Very cheap tennis frames are drilled for 16 main strings.

Fig. 1 of the illustrations reproduced on Page 666 of The Sporting Goods DEALER'S Trade DIRECTORY shows how the main string should start on a racket that has 18 main strings. The center of the main string should be at the top of the racket, and the two ends should go through the holes AA and BB, alternately through holes at the top side and throat of the racket until each string comes out at opposite sides of the bat, as shown in Fig. 3.

Fig. 2 shows how the main string should start on a racket that has 20 main strings. On such rackets you will find a hole drilled across the handle under the throat at X. The center of the string being in the hole X, put the two ends of the string through the holes CC and DD, then alternately through holes near the throat and the top, as above described, the ends coming out as shown in Fig. 3. The main string should always end this way, whether it crosses 18 or 20 times.

Awls are inserted to hold the strings in the holes as they are put in the frame, until the ends are finally fastened. These ends are then threaded towards the throat through the main string loops on the outside of the racket. Until now the clamps on the vise have not been used to hold the bow in order to facilitate threading of the strings. When the head is clamped, care should be taken that the two center strings are in a perfectly straight line with the handle. The racket is now ready for pulling up.

The tightening should be done by starting with the center strings.

help materially to twist the awl on a piece of fine emery paper or cloth to give it a cross grain, or to rub it in a bit of finely powdered resin to give added friction. Proceed to weave the string back and forth, giving a uniform tension each length and finish by securing the end of the string with a half-hitch around the nearest main string.

A word of caution here may prevent untwisting of the string, which happens most often when weaving from the right to the left side. Before inserting the string, twist it a few times between the fingers, so that when it is pulled all the way across, the strands have a tendency to twist together. The string is never pulled straight across, but is held with one hand in a wide curve, to lessen the friction as it zig zags across. With this done, straighten all cross strings by pushing them into place with a blunt tool similar to the awl.

The stringing now complete, the trimming cord is applied at the top and bottom. Two rows, for which approximately a racket's length is required, is used for the lower trim and three rows, requiring from 1½ to two racket lengths, is usually used for the upper trim. One end is inserted half-hitch around one of the strings and one half-turn is made around each succeeding string; the end then inserted in the corresponding hole on the opposite side and brought back through the next hole. The end of the trimming cord is also anchored with a half-hitch.

If you want to use short lengths of gut, such as ten feet and 12 feet, to make a saving in the cost, or when it is necessary to put in a repair of one or two strings, this is done by splicing.

The main string can be made of one 12 and one ten-foot-string. The longer string is started at the first hole past the center, as shown in Fig. 5, and a loop is made by threading the 12-foot string back through the same hole it was started in and out of. The shorter string is started here but the end of the string is put through the loop. Then, with a pair of pliers, pull on the string.

Stringing Tennis Rackets

(Copyrighted 1951 by The Sporting Goods Pub. Co.)

ONE of the most profitable departments of a repair shop of any up-to-date sporting goods store is that of stringing tennis rackets. This work can be done by hand or by machine. Besides allowing a good profit, the service the dealer thus enabled to render his trade is invaluable in building goodwill and gaining new customers.

HAND STRINGING

The equipment for stringing rackets by hand consists of a special vise, several types of which are on the market, four or five awls of different sizes, a pair of so-called parallel pliers, as well as several new types of string tension vises. Of the many vises on the market, the type which incorporates a string, hook-like clamp to go over the bow end of the racket and holds the frame securely in place and another which uses a screw arrangement to brace the opposite ends of the bow, are among the most popular. The vise should hold both the head and throat of a racket so as to avoid any undue strain. There should be two or three different sizes of awls, to suit the different sizes of holes in various rackets. Older frames usually have enlarged holes, because of repeated stringing, and for these an extra heavy awl will be necessary. The dowels, as well as the pliers, are used for pulling up the cross strings. Also some patented machines for stringing rackets are being offered, and the sources of supply of these machines will be found in this Directory under the heading "Tennis—Stringers, Racket."

Tennis rackets previously strung need no preparation, beyond a cursory glance to make sure there are no splintered pieces of wood in the holes to cause pinching of the strings. However, the stringer who takes pride in the appearance of the finished job will take a small cloth, moistened with denatured alcohol, and will wipe away the dirt and grime which has accumulated and will smooth up with sandpaper the bow end of the frame, which is usually roughened through frequent scraping of the racket on the court.

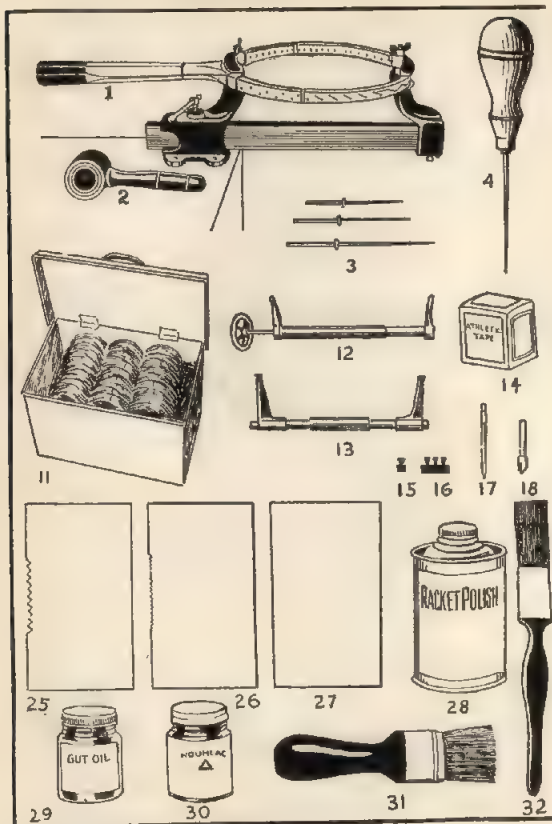

The new frame requires careful preparation. It will be found that some of the holes and grooves have sharp edges, which must be rounded off to prevent raveling of the strings. This is most easily done by passing a piece of string from among the accumulated odds and ends of gut and silk through the holes to be smoothed and pulling it tightly back and forth until all of the holes are clear and smooth. Where the edges of the racket are finished off with rawhide near the handle, the edges should be rounded with a sharp-pointed knife. Don't overlook the inside edge of the frame—here, too, there are bound to be sharp corners to be rounded off.

But first a word about the selection of strings. Unless the player specifies the kind of string wanted, or the price, he may look to you to recommend a suitable one. To help intelligently, you should know something about the player—is he a hard hitter, does he want speed or a long-lasting string; does he intend playing in any kind of weather or only on thoroughly dry courts?

There are many strings on the market, for each of which the makers claim superior merit, however, there are only three classes to be considered—gut, silk and nylon strings. The once-popular Oriental gut is no longer in demand and is not used anymore. Gut strings are preferred by the better players because of their resilience. Silk and nylon strings, on the other hand, are not affected by changing atmospheric conditions and are popular with the average player because of their low cost.

Silk strings come in rolls of 37 feet, nylon in 35-foot coils or 1500-foot reels, while gut strings are supplied in lengths from 12 to 21 feet, purposely varied to give a selection of length to meet the need of the various sized rackets. Most tennis strings are available in two gauges, namely Brown & Sharpe standards 15 and 16. Gauge 15, the heavier of the two, is the best for all-round play, as it has sufficient diameter to give excellent wear and durability. Gauge 16 is thinner and should be supplied only for tournament play.

HARBORS ON CRUISING ROUTES

Tributary rivers and picturesque islands add a touch of variety to our cruise along the Connecticut shore

By WM. H. KOELBEL

SAUGATUCK RIVER (Chart 221)

THE Saugatuck River is the approach to the villages of Saugatuck and Westport, at the head of navigation. To look at the chart one might suppose it was but a stone's throw from Cuckeneo Island to the Saugatuck's mouth, but close inspection reveals so many shoals obstructing what navigable depths there are, that it would be folly to try to cross directly from the Cuckeneo anchorage. The alternative is to sail a wide semi-circular course to the southward, using the buoys to keep clear of Dunder Rock, Cuckeneo Shoal and Georges Rock. A clear approach is possible from the eastward, about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile north of Georges Rock can buoy.

From the entrance buoys off Cedar Point (on the easterly side) the natural river channel describes a great oblique S, marked by cans and nuns only as far as Duck Creek, beyond which the stranger is advised not to venture without a local pilot, though the river continues to the railroad bridge, and thence northward to Westport through a shallow channel.

Just inside the entrance at Cedar Point a dredged channel with depths of 6 to 8 feet leads into a landlocked lagoon known as the Cedar Point Yacht Basin. Docking facilities here for a hundred boats are well taxed, though the Harbor Master can occasionally find a berth or two for the overnight guest, and fuel, water and ice can be picked up.

Above Bluff Point, the buoyed channel follows close along the west shore. Boats sometimes find an anchorage west of the point. There is a boatyard above the bridge but, to reach it, it would be wise to have the yard send a man down to pilot you in.

Three miles to the northeastward of Georges Rock can buoy, we find ourselves at the entrance to Southport Harbor

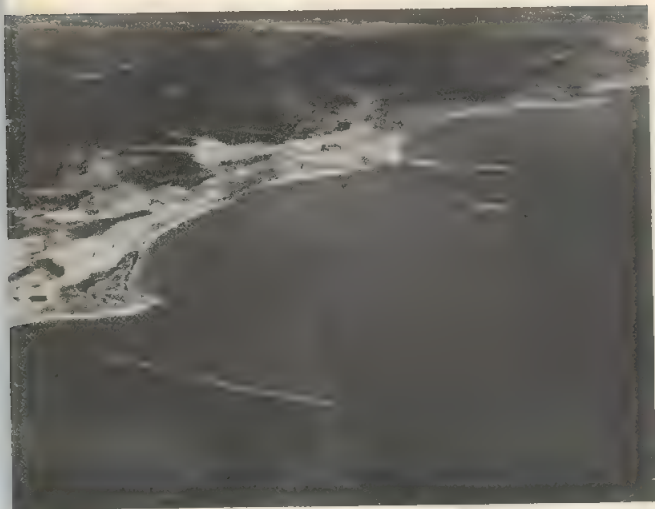

The Thimbles. This aerial view was made looking in a general southeasterly direction toward the Thimble Islands, with the breakwater off Brown Point at Pine Orchard in the center foreground. Looking toward the top center of the picture a line through the breakwater passes through Rogers, Potato, Governor, and Wayland Islands. In the top right corner is Horse Island; to the left of it Pot and Money Islands. Below Pot Island is High Island, to the left of it West Crib and East Crib. Anchorages may be found between Pot and High Islands, and between West Crib and Money Island.

Photographs by Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc

Black Rock Harbor. About a mile and a half west of the mouth of the dredged approach channel to Bridgeport lies the entrance to Black Rock Harbor. In this view—looking about NE by N magnetic—Fayerweather Island appears (right center) as a peninsula, with Cedar Creek running up along the west side of it, to the creek's forked head. Grover Hill is the point at the lower left center, Black Rock the neck above it. Bridgeport's harbor is frequented by commercial traffic, so yachtsmen generally prefer this anchorage at Black Rock.

Duck Island Roads is a favorite anchorage with many yachtsmen. Easy to enter day or night, it has been created by construction of two breakwaters extending from Duck Island toward Kelsey Point (at left) and the junction of the mouths of the Menunketesuck and Patchogue Rivers (upper center). The camera in this view looks almost exactly along the course one might lay in entering from the west, leaving the breakwater (foreground) off Kelsey Point to port and the near (west) end of Duck Island breakwater to starboard.

at the mouth of Mill River. A jetty on the eastern side projects southwestward 300 yards from Kensie Beach to provide a completely sheltered anchorage within, the approach to it passing through a dredged channel, leading almost due north (magnetic). Nun buoys delineate the channel's eastern edge; cans and a lighted aid mark the western side, while the light on the jetty is of course left to starboard.

Though narrow, and congested, Southport is an attractive harbor, where the Pequot Yacht Club extends its hospitality to visiting club members. They can assist in finding a place to moor, which in Southport by regulation is a matter of making fast both bow and stern.

Arrangements for gas, water and ice can be made at the club. A municipal dock is also available (depth 6 feet), and a boatyard is near at hand. Ice can be brought down to the harbor and supplies can be found at stores within walking distance.

BLACK ROCK HARBOR (Chart 220)

Black Rock and Bridgeport Harbors lie but a few miles apart, next eastward on our cruise along the Connecticut shore. They illustrate well the vast difference in the relative appeal of various types of harbor, from the pleasure boatman's point of view. Bridgeport, of course, is the ideal harbor for the commercial vessel, with its straight, deep, buoyed channel leading between jetties to an unobstructed anchorage area close to the centers of industrial activity. To the cruising boatman this is something to be avoided, except where the large city's better facilities for shipyard repairs or supplies may be required. Black Rock, only a couple of miles to the westward, is the yachtsman's choice.

From time to time we read of some tyro telling of the wonderful cruise he has completed, his sole navigational guide an automobile road map! If Black Rock Harbor were one of his ports of call, then Providence must indeed have been his pilot. Approaching from the west, a road-map navigator would assume there was plenty of water half a mile off shore. Off Fairfield, though, Penfield Reef extends out a full mile to clusters of rocks called The Cows and The Little Cows. Using Chart 220, it's quite obvious how the course must be laid a mile off shore to round Penfield Reef and the beacon on Black Rock.

Prominent lights mark the entrance to the harbor, the outer one to be left to starboard, the inner one off Grover Hill to port, where the dredged channel (project depth 18 feet) bends. Black Rock Yacht Club is situated on the west bank, Fayerweather Yacht Club on a peninsula to the eastward. Good anchorages can be found in many places, especially off the latter club. If this is too exposed—as it may be in southwesterly—one can run on up Cedar Creek. Services and supplies are available here; fuel and fresh water may be obtained at the club. Last reported depth at the Fayerweather dock was 5 feet.

STRATFORD (Chart 219)

The Housatonic River presents an opportunity for an exploratory side trip 11 miles into the Connecticut countryside as far as Shelton. Stratford, on its west shore, is situated about two miles above the mouth. Entrance to the river lies between Stratford Point on the south and Milford Point a mile to the north.

A breakwater, awash at the inner end on high water, juts out into the Sound in a southeasterly direction from Milford Point to protect the channel entrance. However, there are times when stiff breezes from the southeast bucking $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 3-knot ebb currents create a sea comparable with that on ocean inlet bars, even towing the buoys under at times. The channel, to Stratford, is comparatively straight, well buoyed and marked by four lights, of which all except the one on the outer breakwater are left to port.

A draft of 6 to 7 feet can be carried to the wharves at Stratford and the project depth of all dredged portions of the channel up to Shelton is 7 feet. There are several yacht clubs along the west bank, and a good anchorage can be found off the Pootatuck Yacht Club, where guest moorings are sometimes available. Protection from the weather is excellent and shopping facilities of the village are just a short distance from the yacht club. Fuel docks in this area handle large craft up to 9 feet draft at low water and free overnight docking service is provided in a protected basin. Nearby railways handle boats up to 110 feet.

MILFORD HARBOR (Chart 219)

Milford Harbor is an open V-shaped indentation in the shoreline four miles east of the Housatonic. Some small measure of protection is afforded in the outer harbor by offlying Charles Island and a reef connecting it to the mainland, but it is comparatively open to all winds from southeast to southwest. It does, however, provide a lee for large yachts at times when the wind is off the land.

Complete protection may be found by running into the Wepawaug River, the mouth of which is protected by a lighted jetty on the east side. Inside this the dredged entrance channel turns sharply to port, near the Milford Yacht Club, where guest moorings are sometimes available, though the harbor is usually full of boats.

Milford's harbor is clean and attractive, with fuel and water available at the yacht club, and stores for other supplies near at hand. The public dock is at the head of a short dredged channel through which a draft of 8 to 10 feet can be carried.

NEW HAVEN (Chart 218)

Like Bridgeport, New Haven illustrates well the type of harbor that might be excellent for large vessels or commercial craft, but with little to offer the cruising yachtsman except a refuge in emergency or possible source of supplies and repairs.

The harbor itself is practically five miles long, is dirty because of the traffic in coal, and, though protected at the lower end by three breakwaters, is so large that a considerable sea can build up in the usual anchorages behind West Breakwater or in Morris Cove on the east shore. In Morris Cove, protected from easterlies, the depths range around 8 to 12 feet. Behind the west (outer) breakwater depths run in the neighborhood of 25 feet. For large craft, this is easy of access night or day.

It's All Pleasure With The NASSAU CRUISER

America's Foremost Thirty-Six Footer

The Nassau Cruiser has the stability and seaworthiness of a craft more than twice her size, yet handles like a feather. She is fast, spacious and comfortable. She has all the attributes that make boating a real pleasure and is more livable than most boats of comparable size. There are sleeping accommodations for six on Firestone Foamex mattresses, plus all modern conveniences and necessary equipment. Available in three models: Express Cruiser, Sedan Cruiser and Sport Fisherman with standard twin Chrysler Crowns, reduction gear, giving speeds up to 22 m.p.h. (optional twin screw power with speeds up to 30 m.p.h.)

Main cabin with convertible dinette, sleeps four. Ahead is large complete galley and spacious lavatory. Forward stateroom sleeps two.

Not many 36 footers feature a 10 x 15' teak cockpit with plenty of room for all sports and fishing.

channel past City Point into West Haven where a berth might be found at one of the yards.

At New Haven, the yachtsman cruising the Connecticut shore is at the Sound's widest point, just a little beyond the mid-point of a run from New York to New London.

BRANFORD (Chart 217)

Under way again to the eastward the next probable port of call is attractive Branford Harbor, five miles from New Haven. East Haven River we have passed up along our course as the water is relatively shoal and the river is better suited to the needs of local craft of easy draft.

Though there are rocks along the approach to Branford Harbor—Cow and Calf, Five Foot, Blyn, and Bird—each is clearly marked by buoys, and the unobstructed course between them is obvious by reference to the chart. Just above Johnson Point a dredged channel with controlling depths of about 8 feet leads northeastward between Big Mermaid (to port) and Little Mermaid (to starboard) to the municipal dock on Branford Point where the hospitable Branford Yacht Club throws open its facilities to visiting yachtsmen. Inquire here for an overnight berth. This, ordinarily, will be a matter of tying bow and stern between piles. The new town dock will accommodate about 30 boats.

Gas, water and ice are available, a store is situated within a quarter of a mile, and facilities for repair may be found at yards in the harbor.

THE THIMBLE ISLANDS (Chart 217)

The area between Branford Harbor and Sachem Head is studded with rocks, reefs, islands and ledges. Prominent among these is the group of beautiful islands south of Stony Creek known as The Thimbles, highly popular among yachtsmen despite the fact that the principal anchorages under certain circumstances are subject to swells rolling in from the Sound.

Coming in from the south, the main approach is to the westward of Outer Island, leaving Inner Reef to port. Deep water extends northeastward between Horse Island, Pot Island and Money Island on the starboard hand, and High Island, West Crib and East Crib to port. The most popular anchorages lie between West Crib and Money Island, and between Pot Island and High Island. The latter anchorage is somewhat exposed to the southwest.

For fuel, supplies, water and ice it is necessary to run to the mainland north one mile to Stony Creek, or northwest about the same distance to Pine Orchard. Of the two the latter is preferred as the approach is easier and there is a dredged basin protected by a jetty. All facilities are available here. Care should be exercised going into Stony Creek as there are spots with only a few feet of water at low tide.

SACHEM HEAD (Chart 217)

Protection from easterlies can be found in Sachem Head Harbor just east of The Thimbles. The harbor is small and exposed to the west. Depths of 6 to 9 feet can be found in the harbor and guest moorings may occasionally be obtained at the yacht club, which has a float behind the breakwater at the lower end of the harbor. There is a nearby hotel where meals can be ordered, and some provisions can be obtained here. Guilford is only a few miles away.

Another anchorage sometimes recommended is in Joshua Cove, north of Sachem Head. Depths shoal at a fairly regular rate and the usual practice is to anchor in an area near the 1-fathom line. Using this anchorage it would be well to bear in mind that a reversal in wind direction could leave you completely exposed, on a lee shore.

GUILFORD HARBOR (Chart 217)

Guilford Harbor has a snug yacht basin but the approach to it should be made with great caution, chart in hand. There are plenty of rocks, not all of which are marked. Three black buoys (all to be left on the port hand, of course) mark a safe approach from the south, using the third as a turning point to head for Guilford Point light and the staked approach to East River. There is a landing at Guilford Point (reported depth 3 feet at low water) and boat yards up the river, though local knowledge is desirable in order to navigate it. Fuel, phone service, fresh water and ice are all available.

CLINTON HARBOR (Chart 216)

Extensive improvements have been made in recent years to Clinton Harbor. The harbor has been dredged to a depth of 8 feet at mean low water, approached through a well buoyed channel 100 feet wide. The town provides facilities for mooring approximately 50 boats, and additional berths are available at the boat yard and marine service station. The latter handle craft 65-75 feet in length. The new town docks are 200 feet long, with finger piers for 40 boats.

At dockside here facilities of a complete marina include lockers, showers, restaurant, boat repairs, storage, fuel, ice, fresh water, marine supplies, etc. Cars can be rented for transportation to town half a mile away, where additional shopping facilities are available.

There are two hotels and many recreational facilities in town, and cottages, motels and a golf course at the harbor.

DUCK ISLAND ROADS (Chart 216)

Duck Island Roads is unique as a harbor, with characteristics quite different from any we have yet encountered on our run eastward from New York. With many yachtsmen, it rates near the top as a desirable port for an overnight anchorage, because it is easy to enter, does not take one far off the main cruising courses down the Sound, is remote from noise and activities centering about shore life, and offers good protection from winds in most quarters.

Eastward from Kelsey Point the mainland shore line describes an arc through Clinton Beach and Grove Beach to the mouth of the Mennunketuck River, where off-lying Mennunketuck Island projects out in a continuation of the arc to provide additional protection to waters within the light. Half a mile southwest of this island and a mile off shore lies Duck Island. Breakwaters have been built northward and westward from Duck Island nearly at right angles to each other to form an anchorage sheltered against all winds except those in the northwest quadrant.

Another breakwater extends out into the Sound off Kelsey Point from Stone Island, with a flashing green light at its outer extremity. This helps to shelter the Roads as a whole from the westerlies and must be cleared when entering by laying a course well offshore to the gong buoy off the breakwater end. Between the gong and the breakwater, tide rips may be encountered. From the gong a course of NE by E, magnetic, will lead in behind the west breakwater, marked at its outer end by a flashing red light. Anchorage is usually sought well up behind the breakwaters in depths ranging from 7 or 8 to 15 feet. The bottom is mud, providing fair

SAYBROOK (Chart 215)

No one cruising Long Island Sound for the first time should overlook an opportunity to visit the Connecticut River, a picturesque waterway navigable 45 miles up the Connecticut valley to Hartford. For those of an explorative nature, there are even intriguing little tributary streams navigable far off the main river, such as Selden Creek opposite Deep River. If you propose to go all the way to Hartford, you will need U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey charts Nos. 254, 255 and 256.

The mouth of the Connecticut enters Long Island Sound well down toward the Sound's eastern extremity—almost, in fact, opposite Plum Gut and Orient Point on the tip of Long Island's northern prong, from which it is a run of only 9 miles, approximately. From Saybrook as a center, just inside the river's mouth, some of the coast's finest cruising areas are within a day's sail.

As we approach from Duck Islands Roads and other harbors to the westward, we pick up the lighted bell buoy off Cornfield Point Shoal, northward of Long Sand Shoal. From here, a 2-mile run on a course $E\frac{1}{2}N$ magnetic leads to the mouth of a dredged entrance channel, protected on the west by a lighted jetty and on the east by a breakwater on Saybrook Outer Bar. A combination of river and tidal current, on the ebb, may amount to as much as $3\frac{1}{2}$ knots.

Anchorage within the river are sometimes found above the railroad bridge near enough shore to be clear of passing traffic, though excellent accommodations are available in half a dozen yacht yards and modern marinas on Saybrook Point and two miles north in the vicinity of the railroad and highway bridges. Every conceivable cruising requirement can be filled here whether for fuel, supplies, repairs, or any other need.

There has been a movement under way for some time to dredge North Cove to a depth of 11 feet. This is a shallow pond, naturally formed as an ideal yacht harbor just north of Saybrook Point. Completion of such a project would provide a perfect anchorage for cruising craft.

Old Lyme is situated on the east shore of the river near both bridges. Just above the mouth of Lieutenant River there is a yacht yard and a marine service station. North of the highway bridge a branch of the Connecticut leads behind Calves Island up to Lord Cove. Though the current is strong, cruising boats sometimes find anchorage in this branch waterway.

ESSEX (Chart 215)

Six miles above the mouth of the Connecticut, on the west shore, lies Essex, a charming New England village deeply rooted in maritime tradition. Present-day Essex is a yachtsman's town, standing in much the same relation to mainland boating activities as Greenport does to those of eastern Long Island—an ideal port of call where one may fit out for a cruise of any duration, a day, a week or a year.

River traffic tends to follow the main dredged and buoyed channel down past Essex Shoal west of Nott Island. Plenty of anchorage room is available on good (mud and sand) bottoms well clear of the main channel in the bend of the river along the west bank above Thatched Island, in depths of 9 to 10 feet, though more is available.

In this area, clustered about the approach channel leading to North Cove, the Essex and Dauntless Yacht Clubs have their stations (the Cruising Club of America also has headquarters at the former), not far from a group of boat yards, shipyards and marine service stations. At these, full facilities for the largest of yachts will be found, including ways to above Southwest Ledge. One of the most important centers of yachting activities in these parts, New London is annually the scene of the colorful Yale-Harvard regatta, and the point of departure for many ocean racing classics.

Most of the pleasure boat activity centers about Greens Harbor, a cove in the west shore off the main harbor two miles from Southwest Ledge Light. Here, in addition to a good anchorage, will be found several modern marine service stations, equipped to cater to the yachtsman's every need. Berths can be arranged at docks and slips for almost any period, or permanent moorings can be obtained where a boat may be left in capable hands. Taxi and bus service provides transportation to New London, though supplies and repairs of practically every description may be found nearby, at or near the docks.

PITTSBURGH'S WELCOME WEEK REGATTA

The growing importance of Pittsburgh as a speedboat racing center is accentuated by the extensive plans being made by the Committee handling the 1952 Welcome Week Speedboat Regatta, scheduled for Saturday, June 7.

The unqualified preference for the 1951 course by speedboat owners and drivers alike has resulted in the Regatta Committee okaying that course for the 1952 races. It makes use of both the Allegheny and Ohio Rivers.

Seven classes of boats will be racing again. They will be the 48 cubic inch hydroplanes, 48 cubic inch runabouts, 135 cubic inch hydroplanes, 225 cubic inch hydroplanes, 266 cubic inch hydroplanes, 7 litre hydroplanes and unlimited hydroplanes. Three heats in the unlimited class and two in each of the other classes will be run with prize money to be awarded to the first five finishers in each heat. The main lure is the array of cups which have been donated by Pittsburgh companies. Most of the cups were specifically designed for the Welcome Week regatta and range in value as high as $6 500.

UNLIMITED CLASS—The Steel Cup . . . donated by the United States Steel Corporation, won in 1951 by Roy and Walter Dowin, Detroit, Mich.

135 CUBIC INCH HYDROPLANES—Glass Cup . . . donated by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, won in 1951 by William A. Ritzer, Merion, Pennsylvania.

48 CUBIC INCH HYDROPLANES—Rust Heinz Memorial Cup . . . donated by H. J. Heinz II, won in 1951 by John E. McKeever, Silver Springs, Maryland.

48 CUBIC INCH RUNABOUTS—Motor Boat Sales and Service Cup . . . donated by Motor Boat Sales and Service Company, won in 1951 by Robert J. McAllister, Ventnor, N. J.

PLANE IRONS

STANLEY PLANE IRONS FOR BENCH AND CIRCULAR PLANES

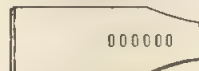

The Single Irons of the same size are identical; thus a 2½ in. Single Iron fits all Planes that take a 2½ in. plane iron. The Cap Iron (which combined with Single Iron makes the Double Iron), however, is not the same in all cases on the Iron, Wood and Circular Planes and is therefore not interchangeable. In ordering be sure to give the number of the plane, size of iron and state whether Single or Double Irons are required.

STANLEY PLANES

DOUBLE END MATCH

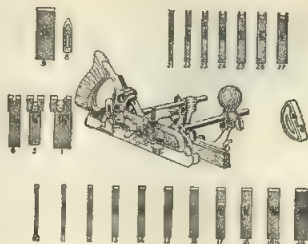

Nickel plated

These planes have two separate cutters, a plow, and a tongue tool, both governed by one permanent fence. The tongue tool has one edge wider than the other, which overhangs one side when tonguing on center. Both tongue and groove are cut by working the tool in the same direction, by merely reversing it end for end. The planes are nickle-plated and have iron handles cast with the body. Cuts 1/4-inch grooves on boards 3/4- to 1-inch.

No. 148—Centers on $\frac{7}{8}$ inch, wt. 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ lbs..... Each \$8.90
One in a box

PLOW, DADO, BEADING, RABBIT, MATCH, ETC.

Seven tools in one in compact and practical form. 1. Beading and center beading plane. 2. Plow. 3. Dado. 4. Rabbet and filletster. 5. Match plane. 6. Sash plane. 7. Slitting plane.

The plane has two principal parts, a main stock and a sliding section. The main stock carries the handle, cutter adjustment, a slitting tool, depth gauge, and forms a bearing for one edge of the cutter. The sliding section slides on the two arms secured in the stock and has a bearing for the other edge, allowing cutters of different width to be used. A fence also slides on these arms for use when working as a plow, header or filletster, to gauge the distance from the cutter to the edge of the board, and to keep the cutter at right angles to same. When used as a filletster, the fence slides under the bottom of the plane and determines the width of cutter exposed to the work.

The plane is fitted with spurs for use across the grain, etc., and can be used either right or left hand.

For heading at a distance from the edge of a board, attach cam rest (see cut at right of plane) to the front arm between the sliding section and fence to prevent the fence sagging. In certain work attach same to the rear arm to prevent the plane from rocking.

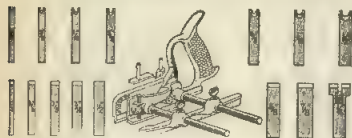

Nickel-plated rosewood handle, knob and fence.

Following cutters furnished with each plane.

STANLEY PLANES "The Fifty-Five"

The following cutters are furnished with each plane. The price is given in case duplicates should be required.

This tool, in addition to being a beading and center beading plane, a plow, dado rabbit, filletster, and match plane, a sash plane and a slitting plane, is also a superior moulding plane, and will accommodate cutters of almost any shape and size. In fact, it is "A PLANING MILL WITHIN ITSELF."

The samples of work illustrated, show some of the mouldings that can be made with cutters regularly furnished with each plane.

It has: A main stock "A" which carries the cutter adjustment, a handle, a depth gauge, a slitting gauge, and has a steel bottom forming a bearing for one edge of the cutter. A sliding section "B" with a steel bottom gives bearing for the other edge of the cutter and slides on arms secured in the main stock. This bottom can be raised or lowered so that, in addition to allowing the use of cutters of different widths, cutters can be used having one edge higher or lower than the edge supported in the main stock. An extra support or stop is necessary for cutters which first enter the wood at a point between the outside edges, and is a benefit for such cutters, which, if the plane were accidentally tilted, would tend to gouge the work. The auxiliary center bottom "C" which can be adjusted for width or depth, fulfills this requirement. Fence, "F" has a lateral adjustment, by means of a screw, for extra fine work. The fences can be used on either side of the plane, and the rosewood guides can be tilted to any desired angle up to forty-five degrees, by loosening the screws on the face. Fence "E" can be reversed for center beading wide boards.

The plane is fitted with spurs, also a special cam rest, to be located on the front arm when working at a distance from the edge of the board, to keep the fence from sagging, or on the rear arm on certain work, to prevent the possibility of the plane rocking.

The four small cuts in the corners, show how the bottoms should be set for different forms of cutters, and the great importance of having the fences adjusted so that the cutters will not run.

PARTS FOR STANLEY "BAILEY" IRON PLANES

In several of the planes, the parts designated by the same name differ in form.

In these cases the corresponding parts are given the same number; and when the part is not shown directly opposite the number of the plane, it will be found in another place on the plate.

Always give the plane number and part number when ordering cutters or parts.

(PATENTED)

All Penn reels are equipped with dustproof and waterproof lubricating nipples on the outside, from which by means of an intricate system of oil channels, the lubricant is forced under pressure to the vital points. Built-in oil reservoirs provide for complete safety. A tube of PENN REEL LUBRI-CANT is furnished with every reel, it is an easy matter to thoroughly lubricate the reel. Simply insert the spout of the tube into the sealing lubricating nipples and by squeezing the collapsible tube the lubricant is forced under pressure to the bearings and gears. This PENN oiling system eliminates all guesswork in lubricating and safeguards good performance and long life of the reel.

*NOTE: For double rings, order inside ring by part number; for outside rings, mark letter (D) after part number.

For take-apart inside notched ring for all Take-Apart Reels, mark letters (TA) after part number.

Penn Reel Parts are interchangeable and are numbered in a way to easily indicate in which Reels the part will fit. The first number before the dash is the part illustration number from chart; the number after the dash indicates the reel number (on right side of reel). If the same part number is listed for different reel numbers, this part is interchangeable. For example: Part No. 40-60 (left side bearing No. 60 Reel) fits all Penn Reels with exception of large Senator Reels and ball bearing Reels. This is very important in servicing of Penn Reels as the number of parts required is cut down to a minimum.

Penn Reel Parts are interchangeable and are numbered in a way to easily indicate in which Reels the part will fit. The first number before the dash is the part illustration number from chart; the number after the dash indicates the reel number (on right side of reel). If the same part number is listed for different reel numbers, this part is interchangeable. For example: Part No. 40-60 (left side bearing No. 60 Reel) fits all Penn Reels with exception of large Senator Reels and ball bearing Reels. This is very important in servicing of Penn Reels as the number of parts required is cut down to a minimum.

PENN REEL HANDLES are interchangeable. For OVERSIZE handle (longer than standard size) use the next larger size Length of handles: No. 24-109 (3 $\frac{1}{2}$ "), No. 24-180 (3"), No. 24-160 (3 $\frac{1}{4}$ "), No. 24-60 (4"), No. 24-66 (4 $\frac{1}{2}$ "), No. 24-49 (5"). When replacing handle screw, be sure to TIGHTEN handle screw before inserting small lock screw. If lock screw will not fit in groove DO NOT back up handle screw, but tighten more until lock screw fits in handle screw groove.

COME ABOARD THIS NEW BEAUTY!

Own an OWENS "30"

For a lifetime investment in pleasures afloat... for extended cruising with friends and family... you'll Revel in Roominess aboard this outstanding 30 footer! She sleeps six in two-cabin privacy... no cramped quarters or small deck spaces here! Compare her width of aisles; width of berths; full headroom lavatory and spacious built-in dinette. The "First Mate" will thrill with the luxuriousness of the two cabins—from gleaming mahogany main salon to the completely equipped bright and cheerful galley and the luxurious inner spring berths.

Judge for yourself how the Owens "30" combines beauty with speed in every line. Her strongly built, all-mahogany planked Everdur bronze fastened hull has a wider beam to length ratio, and higher freeboard than other boats this size. This makes her comfortable and dry... a real sea boat in any weather—at home on river, lake or open sea. Her forward sections are very sharp. The bow is wide, flaring and buoyant which means easy riding in any sea. Her framing is husky and closely spaced... and every part is perseveringly dipped after fitting and before being installed. Her twin screw flagship marine engines give her speeds "to pass the fleet" and use less gasoline at the end of a day's run.

You'll know real boating pleasure and the thrill of ownership when you skipper this all-mahogany beauty from the Flying Bridge Controls or entertain your friends in the BIG one-level cockpit.

Step aboard now! See for yourself the many outstanding advantages that makes Owens the leader in L — S — V... LIVABILITY SEA-WORTHINESS VALUE.

OWENS YACHT CO., INC., 11 Owens Ave., Baltimore, Maryland

Boat Yard and Dealer inquiries invited

This all mahogany ruggedly built 30 foot hull is also available in popular "Sedan" or "Deck Cabin" models. The Owens "30" Sedan priced from $8390.

Flagship Marine Engines are daily proving their extreme dependability, greater smoothness and lower operating costs on thousands of pleasure and commercial craft of all types. Gas or Diesel 6 cylinder engines, 100 H.P. and 115 H.P. You'll miss real engine value if you don't compare their prices and superior features.

Seagoing Dependability
RICHARDSON "33" Express

Take her out to open water or explore some little known river or inlet and you'll find that the Richardson "33" Express responds instantly to your command. Her round bilge hull makes her exceptionally seaworthy and dry. Her twin power with reduction gear assures agile maneuverability in the tightest places.

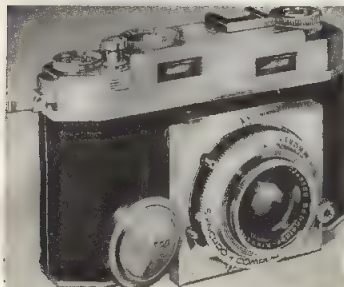

Complete living accommodations are provided for four in her trunk cabin with ample locker and stowage space for extended cruising. The extra large, airy cockpit has plenty room for fishing, lounging or entertaining.

A few Richardson Dealers have boats on order for delivery this summer. If you want to enjoy the thrill of owning a Cruiser that sets the Standard of Comparison for boating value, see your Richardson Dealer today or write

New Trophy Lighter

Diecasters, Incorporated, Ridgefield, N. J., has announced the formation of a new sales organization, the LAMAR SALES CO., 730 Grande Ave., Ridgefield, N. J.

Simultaneously, Diecasters, through Lamar, has added a new lighter—the Trophy—to its line. This new chromium clad table lighter combines the style of the popular trophy cup with the utility of a table or desk lighter. Included in the company's lighter line are the Knight, the Marine (ships wheel), the Airframe (airplane) and the Old Crow ash tray.

The new sales organization, headed by Leo Goldenberg, president, will handle the distribution and sales of the complete line of medium-priced table lighters and ash trays. In an interview, Mr. Goldenberg, who for 25 years served in various sales capacities with the Ronson Lighter Co., stated that the prime objective of the new organization will be bigger sales and greater profits to everyone—distributors, jobbers, retailers—handling the Lamar line. He also said that the new sales program will be backed by a completed advertising and promotional campaign.

New Train Accessories

Two new train accessories are being introduced to the trade this year under the brand name Emco Products.

One is an old-time handcar with two section-hands on it that pump the handles up-and-down as the unit runs around the track. The faster it goes, the faster they pump. The companion item is a trolley, complete with an operating headlight.

The handcar has a two-color plastic body with "Dinkville & Western" imprinted on the side frames. The trolley, as well, has a two-color plastic body, with "Dinkville Trolley" imprinted on the side panels.

Both items are equipped with AC/DC electric motors of 10 to 18 volts operating range and are made to run on 0 gauge, 3-rail electric train track. They retail at $5.00 each.

Another item being featured by the manufacturer is a pin-stripe blue denim engineer's cap, with "Engineer" imprinted on the visor.

A three-color catalog is available from the company EMCO PRODUCTS, E. B. MILLER ASSOCIATES, INC., 206 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

3-in-1 Jig Saw

Manufacture of the well-known Allen L. Atkins 3-in-1 Jig Saw, Sander, Filer power tool is now being handled by CLINTON SPECIALTY WORKS, 2645 N. Paulina St., Chicago, with which firm Atkins is now associated. It is pointed out that this is the U. S. L. approved, original and only saw licensed under U. S. Patent No. 2,161,025. It has been nationally advertised and has enjoyed good reception for more than three years. Retail price is $16.95.

Plastic Train Set

An accurately scaled, authentic reproduction of the modern Diesel streamliners that zoom across the country is the Dandy Diesel plastic train set of PLASTICRAFT MFG CO., 287 Laurel Ave., Arlington, N. J.

The six-car freight train consists of front and rear Diesel engines, tank car, gondola, box car and caboose. Each car in the 19 1/4" long set is molded in a different color and has movable plastic wheels and axles. The similarly, washable plastic cars can be attached to each other or used separately. The colorful set is packaged on an attractive 5" x 12 1/4" display card and retails for 29c.

BBK

Pocket Flashlight

A pocket flashlight said to be as small as three cigarettes is the Zebra Light by BURGESS BATTERY CO., Freeport, Ill.

It is molded of an indestructible plastic and is smoothly contour-shaped in design, according to the manufacturer. All working parts are as simply engineered as the case itself, and each unit is equipped with a snap-action "fool-proof" switch that is claimed not to get out of order. The light retails at 98c complete with lamp and batteries, and is packaged one dozen to a new type colorful counter merchandise display. Cells are packed right in the lights to make one convenient package.

New Toys on Parade

Musical "Sircat"

From the workshops of THE CARDINAL DOLL CO., 18 W. 23rd St., New York 10, N. Y., comes this clever new musical "Sircat." He is made of fine glossy jet-black plush with bright red plush hands, ears, tail, boots and jacket. His flexible arms, legs and long tail are adjustable to any position. "Sircat" stands 18" high and can sit, stand, beg, pray and assume numerous other positions, besides playing a sweet melodious tune from within.

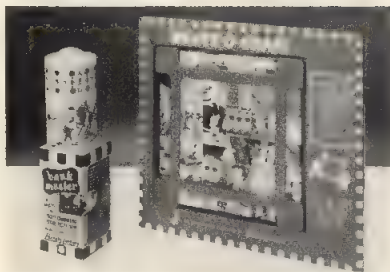

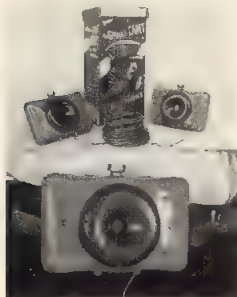

Cardinal's new toy, as well as its entire "Musical Forever Toy" line, are sold with an unconditional guarantee. They are factory tested and bear a written Life-Time consumer guarantee assuring life-time direct factory service. Retail at $5.85

New Packaging and Handles Are Feature of "Space" Telephone

Self-Contained Jig-Saw Puzzles

Weave-o-Grams are said to be an entirely new and original idea in the jig-saw puzzle field. Six colorful pictures can be formed on the same framework by means of sliding the plastic coated strips into correct position with one another.

All self-contained with no pieces to lose, they are ideal for creative play anywhere, anytime, at home, in bed or while traveling. They aid in the development of the child's imagination and memory, and coordinate mind and hands.

Three styles are available at present. Mother Goose pictures and rhymes for the younger child. Circus scenes for the older group. A third creates virtually hundreds of fascinating designs and patterns for all ages.

An origination of the Edcraft Corporation in New York City, the Weave-o-Gram is manufactured and distributed as a Thoroughbred Toy by the TOY DIVISION of the CENTURY BOAT COMPANY, Manistee Mich.

An additional Edcraft-Century creation meeting favorable acceptance is the Secret Combination Puzzle Bank—"Bankmaster" which incorporates a toy, a secret, a puzzle and bank. Made of Lustrax plastic, attractively decorated in three colors, it is priced for volume sales.

"Aristocrat" Poodles

Blue ribbon winners in all respects are these "Aristocrat" stuffed poodles—cute, cuddly, and completely captivating. Fully jointed, they'll sit, stand, beg, or sleep is offered in three sizes. The 8 1/2" puppy retails at $5.00; the medium-grown 12-inch model retails at $8.00; and the fully-grown 14 incher retails at $12.50. Manufacturer is KNICKERBOCKER TOY CO., INC., 1107 Broadway, New York 10, N. Y.

A choice of black, white, brown or grey

TOONAVISION—PLAY VIDEO SET BY KNOTT ENTERPRISES

Introduced this year at the Toy Fair, Toonavigation is a play color-television set with which a youngster can "tune in" over 65,000 different comic faces by turning the knoobs and dials. Each face can be readjusted to form 16,442 different expressions. All the features, including the eyes, noses, mouths, and faces can be interchanged. Designed in brilliant red, yellow, and blue, Toonavigation is built into an attractive three-color box measuring 11½ by 12 inches.

Designed to be an eye-catcher and an impulse seller, it is priced, at 98-cents retail, to appeal to all classes of trade. This is an all-year-round toy which can keep children occupied for many hours and is compact with no parts to lose.

Toonavigation is patented, trademarked, and manufactured exclusively by Knott Enterprises, Inc., 44 W. 88th Street, New York City. It is shipped two dozen to a cart.

CHILDREN'S STORY BOOK FROM ABINGDON-COKESBURY

Both boys and girls in the seven twelve bracket figure to enjoy the exciting story "Peruvian Indian Life," "Treasure in the Andes," written by Alfred Lewis and illustrated by Zhenya Gay. The book is published by Abingdon-Cokesbury Press of 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tenn., and relates the adventures of Pepito, a young Indian lad whose home is a one-room adobe house in the mountains of Peru.

On an adventurous trip into the mountains, Pepito and his father encounter a tucuma, escape a landslide, and discover the black-and-orange rock which means silver. A glossary of the Spanish terms which appear in the text is an item of special interest.

Alfred Lewis has twice visited the scenes of Treasure in the Andes and has spent a great deal of time in the neighboring Brazil. Author of stories for both adult and children's publications, he is on the editorial staff of two trade magazines, SUGAR and EL MUNDO AZUGARERO. Zhenya Gay is a well-known artist and has illustrated limited editions of adult classics, adult fiction, and children's books for many publishers.

The toy department at Sterling-Lindner-Davis

Report from Cleveland

DUE TO ANOTHER big snow, similar to the one experienced just before the Christmas 1950 season, pre-holiday business in the city of Cleveland bogged down, causing considerable disappointment to merchants and buyers. Until the end of December, buyers and merchandise men were unable to determine the extent of damage caused by the curtailment of sales due to heavy snow and freezing temperatures.

At Wm Taylor Son & Co., Martin Haller, buyer of toys, was quite enthusiastic about business up to the time the city became tied up, reporting sales about 2% ahead of last year during the same month. The Alice-in-Wonderland theme was used throughout the department, attracting great numbers of parents accompanied by the little ones.

A corral, a concession brought from Chicago, proved a delight to boys and girls alike. In the corral were two small and one large horse; the small ones, called the Pony Express, brought five cents a ride, while the large one, the Bucking Broncho, cost ten cents to ride on Taylor's had the exclusive rights to this concession for 1951. Every ten days during the time these horses were in the department, the large horse brought in $100 in rides, while the two small ponies brought in a proportionate sum. This in addition to an extremely effective job done in sales on cowboy suits and other items displayed in a section adjoining the corral.

Other toys figuring as best sellers were a Lionel train retailing at $33.75; De Luxe Hammer, Nail and Peg set, selling for $4.98; a De Luxe Bowling Alley, retailing at $2.98. The Talking Garage, priced at $4.98 was a good number. Armored Car sets were the choice of many little fellows, while Argo Pastry sets were sold in goodly numbers for the little girls. Sales on dolls of all types were very heavy.

According to Haller, the right kind of display was all-important in selling toys. As a stimulus for after-Christmas business, this buyer will concentrate on all types of games, puzzles, etc., to keep the youngsters interested indoors.

J. E. Robinson, buyer of toys at Sears Roebuck & Co., reported that business was better than last year during the same period, until about December 10th when it fell off. Everything in his department, according to Robinson, was selling across the board. He was of the belief that display, the right kind of display, helps more than any other one thing. He had no particular plans for right after Christmas to pep up sales he said he would just try to condense his stock and get back to normal. Then with the Spring season opening he would prepare for Easter business.

"We have a year 'round toy department here at Sterling Lindner Davis", remarked the merchandise director for this store. "We have plans under way to promote some items earlier next year. Due to the big snow last November, it was hard to plan for this year, but the toy operation has been quite satisfactory with us."

A full page ad in the Cleveland Plain Dealer one evening brought many telephone orders next day for the Cherry Sisters, SLD's name for a set of three dolls, one 24-inch doll at $5.95; one 31-inch at $7.95 and another 41 inch at $11.95. These sold in groups of three for $25. Orders came in for the group one person ordering three sets at $25 each. Poochy Dogs at $2.98 and $4.98 and a work table and bench selling at $4.98 were excellent sellers at this store.

The merchandise manager for this store remarked: "I believe if the manufacturers would work closer with the salespeople in the department it would help build up business. They might hold meetings with the personnel and acquaint them with their merchandise. Pamphlets from the manufacturer would be helpful, too. Another good thing would be for the manufacturer to send a representative to help set up displays. I feel it would be a good idea to furnish the department with a demonstrator. Cooperative advertising also would prove beneficial to both the manufacturer and the store." This store's toy department plans to push electric train accessories after Christmas to build up mid-winter sales.

Going into exclusive Shaker Heights, the Toy Chest, Inc., reported having done very well on Christmas sales. According to Blanche Roth, co-partner with Aline Allison, "just everything went" and there was "plenty of action."

Miss Roth's suggestions for better cooperation on the part of the manufacturer are worthy of mention.

(1) Boxing should be more uniform in order to make stacking easier.

(2) Some boxes are attractive and pictured but won't stack at all.

(3) Cellophane windows in boxes break, causing a loss to merchant due to necessity of reducing price on item.

(4) Triangular boxes cannot be stacked in a nest.

"We are not getting out a catalogue this year," informed Miss Roth, "because of the shortage of materials and we are not sure just what we can get. Some time before Easter we shall send our patrons cards on which will be pictured a few items."

This store uses only direct-by-mail advertising.

DISPLAYING MODEL PLANES

THAT YOUNGSTERS enjoy showing off their creative efforts is the belief of Evelyn and Oscar Behrens of the Behrens Toy Shop, 2730 West Lisbon Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and they encourage the local small fry to bring in their best model planes and boats and similar items which they have put together for the Behrens to display in their windows. Evelyn also has another means of displaying these model planes. By using thin strands of fishing wire, these planes can be hung from the ceiling in natural positions; and the wires are invisible.

"Youngsters come in to look at the planes their friends have made, and this leads to extra sales of toys, since the children get to see all our stock on display inside the store," she remarks.

In our two front display windows we use little hand printed placards bearing the names and addresses of the makers of these display models. This helps bring little groups around all the time, to look at their own and their friends' work. Especially after every performance at the nearby movie house do we notice a steady stream of people heading toward our windows," Oscar adds.

"It's won us much good will to do this," both say, "and at no expense to us. The kids come in to buy more toys and model things, and their pleased parents come in, too, to buy things to keep their youngsters' hands occupied creatively."

B. I. A. CONVENTION JAN. 18-23 AT BOCA RATON, FLORIDA

The Bicycle Institute of America Inc., trade group of the American bicycle industry will convene the week of January 18-23, 1953 at the Boca Raton Club and Hotel Boca Raton, Florida, it has been announced by John Auerbach, executive secretary. This will be the 34th annual convention of the industry.

High on the convention agenda this year will be searching discussions of the industry's production, marketing and public relations methods. Much have brought the American Bicycle industry to its highest production peak. So great has been this growth that today there are almost one-half as many bicycles in the United States as there are automobiles—a total of more than 20,000,000, according to Mr. Auerbach.

"Over the past many years we have proven conclusively that effective planning and organization efforts have been at our conventions are the best means we have for maintaining the high standards and goals of our history," Mr. Auerbach said. "Our program this year will have several innovations to be announced later. One feature that will have a prominent place on the 1953 schedule is Business Day, when buyers and sellers will not only discuss their mutual problems in private but will exchange experiences and knowledge to the benefit of each other and in the industry."

DESIGNED PRODUCTS, INC., EXPANDS COLOR CARD OUTPUT

Designed Products Inc., 4816 Harrison St., Chicago 44, Illinois, states that, due to the rapidly increasing volume of orders for their "wipe-off" color cards, they have found it necessary to greatly increase their original Fall production schedule.

Initially introduced to the trade but a few months ago, wipe-off cards have lost little time in proving their year 'round sales appeal. Made in three fascinating series including 12 sets in all, each set of wipe-off color cards contains: seven plastic covered cards with pictures on both sides, a box of 8 wipe-off crayons and a wipe-off tissue. The series cover pictures of nursery rhymes, bible stories, and fairy tales, and are packaged in a big 234-catching box, 13 x 11 1/4 x 3/8", to retail at $1.00 per set.

The firm is particularly pleased at the substantial re-orders that are coming in daily following delivery to wholesalers and dealers throughout the country of their initial orders. The line is on permanent display in New York at the showroom of Ernest Nathan, 200 Fifth Avenue.

FUTURISTIC PRODUCTS' STRATO GUN FIRES CAPS

A futuristic rocket gun that fires standard rolls of repeating caps has just been introduced by Futuristic Products, 1020 Napoleon St., Detroit. The "Strato Gun," having all the features of the "real thing," is made of strong die-cast zinc alloy and finished in lustrous chrome with red trim on cooling fins. It features a tapered barrel and finger-fit grip. The manufacturer reports choice territories remain open to agents and wholesalers. "Strato Guns" are packed two dozen to a case, with the weight per gun approximately 12 ounces.

There's not a kid in the universe who won't be thrilled to own Earth's interplanetary automatic cap gun—The "Strato Gun." Suggested retail price is $2.49.

ROY ROGERS REPORTS ON CHRISTMAS BUYING

I've held up this column right 'til press time in order to report the latest up-to-the-minute news on how retailers are backing the big Roy Rogers Christmas Promotion scheduled to break with an ad in PUCK the Comic Section of 19 of the nation's top Sunday newspapers, on Sunday, November 30, 1952.

We've had three men in the field working out of our Roy Rogers Enterprises offices, calling on the leading department stores and specialty shops in the cities where the newspapers will carry this two-page, full-color Comic Section ad. Some of their reports are in and from Boston to San Francisco, from Milwaukee to Dallas they're all the same. These retailers see this as the strongest local advertising support ever offered them on character merchandise and are booking substantial orders with our licensees for Fall Delivery to cover. They are also scheduling tie-in advertising and promotion within their store to take advantage of the local impact of this Comic Section two-page spread.

I know that you'll want to do the same in your own community. This $100,000.00 Cooperative Promotion is all for you so if you need a catalogue of our merchandise or any information on this promotion write or wire me today.

New Pedal Bike

No. 852 Pedal Bike of HAMILTON STEEL PRODUCTS, INC., 1845 W. 74th St., Chicago 36, Ill., will be introduced for the first time at the Toy Fair in Room 548, Hotel New Yorker, and in the showroom of the company's eastern representative, Max Braiman, 200 Fifth Avenue.

Frame is of rigidly welded, bright red, $\frac{3}{8}$ " tubing, welded with free running, compo bearing swivel; fork, light blue in color, is of heavy solid steel stamped with gracefully curved red handle; seat is beautifully formed, is adjustable, and is of blue steel; front wheel is of 7" welded steel, white in color, with $\frac{1}{2}$ " tire; rear wheels are white, of 5" stamped steel, $\frac{1}{2}$ " tires. All wheels are equipped with new patented, snap on, plated hub caps. The pedal bike is 19 $\frac{1}{4}$ " overall length, comes packed one to 7 lb.-weight carton.

Hamilton's No. 750 Greyhound wagon, stamped and drawn from one-piece cold rolled steel, will be in blue and red colors this year, rather than the red and ivory used in 1951. Inside is of red baked enamel; and outside of blue with red stencil. Wheels are of baked red enamel with aluminum bulkeys and large chrome finished hub caps. Rattle and handle are bright nickel-plated, and undergear is of heavy stamped channel steel. Both the front and rear gears are single units, making it easy to assemble. Bed size is 35 x 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ "; wheels, 10" spoke; bearing is compo; tires are 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ " semi-pneumatic.

Two New "Tonka Toys"

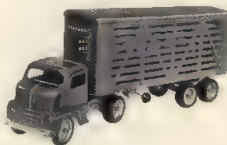

"Tonka Toys" by MOUND METALCRAFT, INC., Mound, Minn., will feature two new toys in its '52 line.

One, The No. 550 Grain Hauler, is a scale model of one of the most popular styles of tractor-trailer units today, according to the manufacturer. Trailer has rolled edges with rugged embossed steel sides and retractable stand wheels. Tractor body is plated. Tractor is red. Unit is 22 $\frac{1}{4}$ " long, 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ " high, and 5 $\frac{1}{4}$ " wide. Unit comes individually boxed, shipped 4 to a 20-lb bundle.

Another new toy is the No. 500 Live Stock Van. It is of heavy steel construction, plus 14 H. D. truck tires on plated steel wheels. It has retractable stand wheels and tandem rear axle. The van comes in "farm" red, and is 22 $\frac{1}{4}$ " long, 9 $\frac{1}{4}$ " high, and 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ " wide. Shipped 4 to the 28-lb bundle, each unit is individually boxed.

Both are "unusual" in that they are "firsts" and original in both type and design according to L. E. Baker. Extensive market surveys and research reports indicate these two farm trucks will appeal to over 70% of the potential market for this type of toy.

Eat 'N-Seat Introduced

New juvenile platform chair for use as a dining aid for pint-sized boarders, has been introduced by JESSAR MFG. CO., Philadelphia, Pa. Chair, which has been designed for eye appeal as well as durability and utility, is to retail at around $3.88, 20% to 30% less than comparable current products on the market, according to the manufacturer.

Unit is heavily upholstered and is finished in durable baked enamel. Coverings are of colorful plastic.

Manicure Kit in Plastic

New item of NOVO-PLAS MFG. CO., INC., 275 Front St., Brooklyn 1, N. Y., is the No. 410 Cinderella Manicure kit for the youngsters "make believe" market. A 23c retailer, it is now receiving partial distribution in W. T. Grant, J. F. Newberry, and G. M. S. Stores. Colorful kit makes for good counter display and includes: plastic tweezers, nail file, cuticle pusher, nail buffer in blue, and emery board.

Repeater Water Pistol

beautiful design and visible water supply. It is a 33c retailer.

Other water pistols in the company line are: the 350 shot repeater at 49c, and the Jr. Ranger at 59c.

Hopalong Cassidy Games Linked by Bradley with Fall Promotion

Milton Bradley Co., Springfield, Mass., are featuring an extensive line of Hopalong Cassidy games that tie in with the big Hopalong Cassidy promotion that will be launched this Fall. This promotion will include a nationwide tour of the Hopalong Cassidy Television Caravan originating in Los Angeles, with the first stop at Boston on September 8-9. A new series of Hoppy NBC-TV films is now being produced and previews will be held for leading retailers at Chuck Wagon luncheons in the various cities visited by the Caravan.

Notable among the Milton Bradley offerings is an exciting thriller of the old West called "Hopalong Cassidy Game," designed for youngsters of 4 to 12, which places emphasis on law and order. During the action of this game Sheriff Cassidy engages in a wild chase of a dozen desperadoes, the game ending in the capture of the entire gang. This game contains 8 metal cowboys on horseback, 12 bandits, over 8,000 dollars of Hopalong Cassidy reward money, special Hopalong Cassidy dial spinner, colorful 18½ x 18½ playing board and is designed for two to four players. The cover size is 19" by 9½" and the retail price $2.00.

Then there is a youthful imagination stimulator called "Western Frontier Set," illustrated herewith, which depicts a typical western frontier town of the wild and woolly era which the youngster can easily assemble. This play village consists of large three-dimensional figures and buildings typical of frontier days all constructed of heavy cardboard, thus enabling the youngster to bring Hoppy and his friends to life in a typical frontier setting. This game retails for $3.00.

Another item in this popular series is a Chinese Checker game which embodies the novel feature of being played on a board which depicts Hoppy's sheriff's badge. It retails at $1.00. Western Dominos dresses up this old staple in western style, each number being symbolized by a Western motif, and it can be played two ways: young Hoppy fans can play a simple game by matching these symbols or it can be played as regular dominos with the dominos held in the players' hands like playing cards. This game is selling at retail at $1.00.

Interesting Hopalong Cassidy puzzles which retail at 60 cents and $1.00 are also giving an excellent account of themselves. All of these games and puzzles are packed in colorful display boxes depicting Hoppy and "Topper" in action scenes reminiscent of the old west. Complete catalog of the Milton Bradley line is available from the company on request.

HERMAN ISKIN CATALOG READY

Herman Iskin & Co., Inc., exclusive licensee for Hopalong Cassidy Cowboy and Cowgirl Outfits, and sole manufacturer of Pla-Master Play Clothes, including authentic western wear, has announced completion of a new catalog for fall and winter. So inclusive is the new catalog, states the company, it will be used as a guide to more play suit and western business by retailers everywhere. Copies can be had free of charge by writing Herman Iskin & Co., Inc., 200 Fifth Ave., New York 10, N. Y.

LITTLE COUNTRY DOCTOR PLASTIC VISITING KIT

The Transogram Company, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y., has an item which promises to hold many hours of enjoyment for imaginative children who like to assume adult roles in their play. For the make-believe "doctors and nurses" the company has fashioned a simulated leather, rigid plastic visiting kit which includes a washable vinyl plastic uniform; a microscope, plastic stethoscope to hear heartbeats; three way X-ray scope, otoscope; sprung hypodermic; thermometer and other safe-for-children, plastic implements.

An added feature of the kit is that it offers numerous uses for play or utility service when empty.

The company is also producing a Little Play Nurse Kit for Sister. The items will retail at $3.00 with others selling at $1 and $2.

BRADLEY CORPORATION'S "SPACE RANGER" WATCH

Bradley Time Corp. 19 West 24th St., New York City, is presenting the new "Space Ranger" wrist watch in a timely approach to today's trend toward outer space.

Reported accurate and reliable, this attractively designed watch comes in a lustrous chrome-plated case with a non-shatter crystal and genuine leather strap with a decorative space design.

Depicted in full color on the dial is an illustration of "Rocky Jones," popular space ranger. Designed to stimulate the imagination, this unique but practical timekeeper will make, it is predicted, an immediate hit with all young boys and girls. It's good for keeping time on hikes, camping trips, fishing trips or in school. The "Space Ranger" is built to take rough handling and combines novelty with eye-catching appeal through expert styling. It is priced to retail at $4.50 plus tax.

MARY HARTLINE DOLL. Made in the image of Mary Hartline, glamorous star of the ABC-TV "Super Circus," by Ideal Toy Corporation. . . . The doll is a triumph of lifelike reproduction, and stands 16" tall. Head and body are of unbreakable plastic. Its hair is flowing golden blonde Dupont nylon, which can be repeatedly shampooed and play-waved. It is dressed in gorgeous red drum majorette's costume. Retail price is $12.

Toy Shows by Gamble-Skogmo

More than 2500 authorized Gamble store dealers in the mid-continent states, and Gamble's Western Auto Supply dealers in the mountain and Pacific Coast states, attended the 1952 Gamble-Skogmo toy and gift shows in nine cities during June, as follows: Minneapolis, Billings, Mont., Monmouth, Ill., Coldwater, Mich., Fremont, Neb., Vernon, Calif., Portland, Ore., and Ogden, Utah.

These toy and gift shows have become annual get-togethers of Gamble dealers from 26 states, where they see hundreds of items in Christmas toys, gift furniture, bicycles and trikes, and gift housewares.

Boeing P-26A Model

Latest control-line model of SCIENTIFIC MODEL AIRPLANE CO., 113 Monroe St., Newark 5, N. J., is an authentic semi-scale version of the U. S. Army's first all metal pursuit plane, the Boeing P-26A, to commemorate the famous Thunderbird and 94th Pursuit Squadron. The completely prefabricated kit brings to life the beautiful coloring associated with the original. In model form it is said to be a fast little ship that's highly maneuverable . . . a terrific control-line stunt and sport flyer. Kit features super-smooth carved balsa fuselage, wing and tail surfaces and a ready-formed metal drop ring that houses the engine.

Designed for small bore engines (.030 to .074), the unit has a wingspan of 18 inches, is 13 1/2 inches in length, and weighs 5 ounces. Retail price is $2.95.

New Toys on Parade

"Guns of the Future"

Commander Buzz Corry of "Space Patrol" fame, is pictured studying the new lectures of the Space Patrol Rocket Gun, as Dix Towell, president of U.S. PLASTIC CO., 2370 E. Welsch St., Pasadena, Calif., elaborates on his company's new innovations.

Instead of two message-carrying missiles with each gun, there will be one message carrier missile and a new war-head missile. The new missile explodes upon impact by use of ordinary caps, which are placed in the warhead. It is said to be the only missile of its kind which explodes upon impact when shot out of a toy pistol.

The new rocket jet water gun is streamlined, carries a big volume of water, and is claimed to have no rusting or clogging parts. Manufacturer points out that a special formula for construction prevents any "mis-fires," the only metal part being the rust-proof trigger spring.

These units may be seen at the company's exhibit in the Hotel New Yorker during the Toy Fair.

"Dunninger's Magic Tricks"

"Dunninger's Magic Tricks," a new, colorful book chock-full of interesting and entertaining feats of magic taken from the amazing repertoire of "The Master Mentalist," has been announced by THE SAAL FIELD PUBLISHING CO., Akron 1, Ohio.

The new book, recently released for national distribution, provides a clear, easily-understood explanation of a wide variety of simple, yet baffling magic tricks. It contains 144 pages . . . and well over 100 different feats of magic. Illustrations supplement Dunninger's own easy step-by-step description of how to do each trick.

"Dunninger's Magic Tricks" assures countless hours of fun and enjoyment for young and old from eight to 80. Each trick can be performed with a minimum of difficulty through the use of common everyday household items.

There are tricks of virtually all types and descriptions to fit any occasion—ranging from "the vanishing coin" and "balloons with a bang" to "geometric matches" and "the bottled egg."

Dunninger, who has been mystifying audiences with his incredible exhibitions of thought reading and magic, has written well over a quarter-century of magic and experience into the new book. "The readers of this new book are far more fortunate than I have been," writes Dunninger in the book's foreword. "Such a book was unobtainable, at any price, when I started my career," he adds. "There is nothing more enjoyable and interesting than the ability to do a few tricks . . . and do them well. With Saalfield's new book, practically anyone can become an amateur magician almost overnight."

New Dover Toy

Last year DOVER PRODUCTS COMPANY, 815 W. Arlington St., Chicago 7, Ill., introduced its delightful adaptation of a favorite candy, sound and vivid motion all together in the Peppermint Roll push toy. New wooden push toy to be introduced at this year's Toy Fair, Room 817, Hotel New Yorker, incorporates the candy stick rolls idea of last year, but is different in design. For children of pre-school age, this new toy has sound, motion and sparkles with bright colors. Handle, which is threaded into the frame for easy packing, is red with yellow knob. Green frame is set off by a decal and yellow wheels serve as striking color contrast to the candy stripe poles. Musical coil leads further verve to this wooden push toy, which will retail for around $1.00.

Plastic Peg-N-Pound

With the assistance of several child psychologists, a new conception in "pound" toys for ages one to four has been developed by J. Donald Siever, Inc., Philadelphia manufacturer of "Circus Parade" brand plastic block and pull toys. Unusually colored, this sturdily reinforced toy combines pleasure and education for the small ones just discovering their strength, logic and coordination. Plastic Peg-N-Pound has seven vary-shaped, vary-colored pegs and holes, and a revolving cylinder. It will retail, with its hammer, at about $2. All indications from an advance survey point to enthusiastic mother response. Approval by several child psychologists will be a selling feature.

Tally Keeper

average (they have gotten more), the system brings in about $360 per cow each year.

It costs about $235 to keep each cow going for a year, figuring feed (grain screenings, hay, pasture and red clover silage), calf losses, and veterinarian's fees. Subtract that from $360 gross return, and they have $125 left. That's $1.25 an hour for the 100 hours of work the Robisons put in per cow each year.

To compare that with milking (what they'd get from the same amount of feed, 140 hours of work per cow), they would make only 75 cents an hour. That's figured on selling milk on factory basis, not Grade A. (They doubt that Grade A men would want to switch to this program).

The Robisons just about went out of business the first year they tried the vealing system—too many calves died.

Now they have the problem pretty well licked. As soon as a calf is born or brought to the farm it gets a shot of scour bacterin, and is vaccinated against blackleg, malignant edema, (swelling of face, neck, legs) and shipping fever.

They lost only two calves last year—one because it wasn't vaccinated at all, and the other because it wasn't treated until two days after they brought it home. (They allow a 10% loss for calves in figuring their expenses.)

The Robisons are now using a Hereford bull on Jersey cows, but think they might switch to Ayrshire cows to get away from the rich milk, which seems to encourage scours.

Also, they think the calves would be larger and more profitable in their meat-producing program.

Close friends of Bob Hope say, "It's hard to believe he has a 'look-alike'... but lots of things do look alike, including batteries. So don't be fooled by appearances. It's the amazing Auto-Lite "Sta-Ful" Battery that needs water only 3 times a year in normal car use... and lasts longer too! Make your next battery an Auto-Lite "Sta-Ful."

You're wrong about movie stars if you thought the man shown above was Bob Hope. Although Leo R. Brennan of Monrovia, California, is frequently confused with Bob, there are no family ties. And if you want to be right about batteries, see your nearby Auto-Lite Battery Dealer because, "YOU'RE ALWAYS RIGHT WITH AUTO-LITE."

Phone Western Union... ask for "Operator 25"... she'll give you the name of your nearby Auto-Lite Battery Dealer. There is no charge for this service.

Nothing Equals the 1952 BARBOURS

15' VACATIONER

Especially designed for motors developing 30 H.P. to 50 H.P. to give swift, dry and smooth planing performance in any water. Lap-stroke construction and mahogany trim for life-time use. This is a real roomy boat with 66" beam and good seating capacity.

14' UTILITY

More freeboard has been incorporated in 1952 Utility models, as well as optional bow lockers. For large or small motors, heavy or light loads this lap-stroke boat is a big favorite. Center deck dash is fitted with roomy usable compartments.

12' UTILITY

A rugged lap-stroke boat with 58" beam and good seating capacity. Gives surprising performance, either trolling with 5 H.P. or speeding with 22 H.P. It's just the boat for all-around use. Has center deck with glove compartment. Bow locker optional.

11 1/2' SKIPPER

For motors up to 16 H.P. there is no boat of equal size or price which surpasses the 11 1/2' SKIPPER. It is just "tops" in its class. Has smooth sides, 51" beam and three seats.

11 1/2' FISHERMAN

A new addition to the Barbour fleet! Designed for easy car top transportation, and it's just about the most ideal boat you would want for fishing, gunning trips or dinghy service.

13 1/2' FISHERMAN

This is the senior size Barbour Fisherman, new this year! Both the 11 1/2' and 13 1/2' models feature removable cypress floor racks, three cypress cross seats, re-inforced transoms, oak keels, brass fastenings. You can't beat 'em for value.

The Famous Rockets

Right: 14' Senior Rocket

These are the boats that are making history on the race courses everywhere, both closed circuit and marathon. They are built for top speed, lasting endurance and safe performance. The 11 1/2' also is for 15 1/2 H.P. to 22 H.P. motors; the 13 1/2' and 14' models handle to perfection with the largest available motor.

Cabin is large, light and airy

Nineteen Feet of Cruising Comfort!

You'll give the new Barbour Sportsman Cruiser with its nineteen feet of cruising comfort your immediate approval because of its many outstanding features. It is big, rugged, seaworthy, dry, comfortable, inexpensive and performs to perfection with any outboard motor, 10 to 50 H.P., giving speeds up to 30 M.P.H. It is adaptable for inboard motors too! White cedar lap-strake construction, oak keel, brass and bronze fastenings make the Barbour Sportsman extra tough and strong to endure a life-time. Other features include safety glass windshield which opens full width, four large safety glass cabin windows, two 6' 8" hanks, 55" cabin headroom large bow locker, removable floor boards, 4' forward deck and 8' 4" aft cockpit. Hull and superstructure have contrasting color and all mahogany trim is natural finished.

PREDICTED LOG RACING

With both national organizations, the United States Power Squadrons, and the American Power Boat Association, energetically behind the revitalized program for predicted log racing, the program of articles on this subject being published in issues of The Capstan, North River Power Squadron, are taking on the appearance of best sellers.

The series was started by N. L. Hersey, Editor of The Capstan, way back last fall when he requested a number of persons who were familiar with and experienced in conducting predicted log races to contribute a series of articles on related topics for publication in forthcoming issues of The Capstan. The first article appeared in November last year and each month since a further article has been published. The Delaware River Power Squadron soon after also started to publish the articles in its publication, The Barometer.

These articles have attracted much favorable attention and plans are now underway to give them more extensive coverage by reprinting them in The Ensign, national publication of the U.S.P.S. and also in The Propeller, of the A.P.B.A. The subjects of the several articles are as follows:

Why the Predicted Log Race?

- P/C/C F. W. Horenburger, JN
- Vice Chairman, Cruiser Racing Commission A.P.B.A.
- Speed Curves and Leeway
- Commander Eric Pick (Hempstead)
- The Deviation Chart
- Commander Austin S. Brunjes (Manhasset Bay)
- Calculations by Contestants
- Commander H. L. Jewett (Potomac & Great South Bay)
- Conduct of the Race

- Sh/C E. M. Sutton (North River)
- Calculations by the Committee
- Commander J. D. Paris (New York) and the final wind-up article

Reviews, Revisions and Supplements.

It is also planned to have reprints prepared which will be available to contestants, committeemen and others.

NEW A.P.B.A. YEAR BOOK

The Executive Secretary's office of the American Power Boat Association in Detroit has done a grand job in completing the publication and distribution of the 1952 year book with the revised and corrected racing rules to date. This has always been a difficult task, mainly because of the delays in completing the rules revisions. With the distribution of the new rules there should be ample time for the outboard boys to prepare their outfits for the coming season's racing events. The New Year Book is sent to all A.P.B.A. members as a part of their membership but can also be secured by non-members at a charge of $1.50. The Executive Secretary, American Power Boat Association, 700 Canton Avenue, Detroit 7, Mich., will be glad to supply copies on request.

LURES THAT CHALLENGE GAME FISH

SALT AND FRESH WATER

ADJUSTABLE WING LURE

Sensational — A Sure Fire Killer! Can be used as surface bait—deep-running lure or spinner. Adjustable wings give desired action.

THE SPINNER SPOON

Two Lures in One for bass, pike, lake trout or muskies. Designed to get action in varied water conditions. Spoon is wobbler of variegated color, while spinner set in body of spoon is a flash.

OFF SIDE VANE

Invisible in water. For trolling off shore line or along tricky weed bed without grounding boat or fouling propeller. Keeps lure 25 feet to side of boat and 6-10 feet head of prop wash.

Dolls Bring Them To Cain-Sloan's Toy Department

By GENE S. TEAGUE

IN JULY, when many toy departments gathered dust, the Cain-Sloan toy department of Nashville, Tennessee, was swarming with customers from all over the state and from other parts of the country.

What brought the youngsters in from the swimming pools and camps and the oldsters out in the heat? It was Cain-Sloan's second doll contest, an event which has now become an annual promotion at the store. And it brought in thousands of customers in both 1950 and 1951, customers who continue, for the most part, to visit the store.

One ten-by-three-inch column newspaper advertisement, several spot radio announcements, and the "True to Life" methods of Mrs. Mary Lesueur, infants' wear and toy buyer for Cain-Sloan, have made it a success.

The advertisement Mrs. Lesueur ran in the paper showed an antique doll and simply said, "Bring in your doll and have it entered in the Doll Contest. No entry blank is needed, but be sure to tag your doll with your name, address, and the doll's age. Contest opens _____ and closes _____. All dolls will be shown in a glass case in our infants' wear and toy department. Dolls will be judged on age only." To stimulate interest, Mrs. Lesueur put in a window showing her own dolls, some of which are several hundred years old.

The results astounded her. Doll collectors from as far away as Oklahoma came to see the window, traffic was stalled by crowds in front of the window, and entries and customers poured in. The window display had to be left in two weeks, though Mrs. Lesueur thinks that ordinarily one week is enough. The contest lasted for three weeks.

The judges were local doll collectors who awarded prizes in three categories: oldest girl doll, oldest baby doll, and oldest lady doll. Mrs. Lesueur says, however, that experience has taught her that next time awards should be made on the oldest doll in each type of material from which it is made. Merchandise certificates in the amount of $10 were the prizes.

To understand how the doll contest is so successfully carried out, it is necessary to know how Mrs. Lesueur buys for and manages her toy department.

Basing her methods on the sound principle of child psychology which recognizes the inherent father and mother instinct in children, she bases her toy buying around her dolls, but not just any doll. Her dolls must have play value, have character, and be in proper proportion to real children. Arms too short, head too big—these are not good. "Oh," Mrs. Lesueur has found

Next, she builds her other toy selections around the same homemaking instincts. Beds, chests of drawers, cradles, clothing, all must be well made, durable, and diminutive replicas of life-sized furniture and clothing.

Salesgirls must sell as though handling the real product, too. One of Mrs. Lesueur's "True to Life" salesladies never picks a doll up by its arm and hands it to a child. She gently gathers it up as she would a real child, cuddles it, and places it in the customer's arms as she would a real baby.

Furniture is sold in terms of style, durability, and matching items just as real furniture is sold. Small sterling silver table silver is talked about in terms of a service for six, or four, etc.

The Cain-Sloan toy department is small and is integrated with the infants' wear department. "This serves two purposes: it has the clothing for large, life-size dolls right at hand; it brings the mothers and children in to see the toys and remain to buy clothing for the children, or in to buy clothing and stop to buy a toy as an afterthought."

No discussion of the department can get away from dolls, however, for it was Mrs. Lesueur's interest in them which led to the creation of a toy department for the store at all. Cain-Sloan used not to carry toys at all until Mrs. Lesueur got them to try dolls. Her success with those led to other toys.

APPOINTED TO BUYER

Richard C. Bond, executive vice-president and general merchandise manager of John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, has announced the appointment of Robert D. Harrison as toy buyer effective January 15th. Mr. Harrison succeeds Myron Menschel, toy buyer in the Philadelphia Store for three years, who has been appointed one of the home furnishings merchandise managers in the New York store.

Mr. Harrison joined Wanamaker's in 1949 as staff assistant to President John E. Raasch, devoting time to special projects and the development of Wilmington store plans. During the Christmas season of 1949, Mr. Harrison served in the toy department, returning to Mr. Raasch's staff until July 1, 1950, when he was made assistant buyer in the newly created kitchenwares department.

He was born in Des Moines, Iowa, on May 17, 1923, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Tip Harrison. Graduating from Roosevelt High in January, 1941, Mr. Harrison went on to attend Harvard University, where he majored in engineering and graduated cum laude, in March, 1944. At Harvard he was a member of the N C Club, the Engineering Club, and the swimming team.

Mr. Harrison spent two years in the U. S. Navy as a Lieutenant junior grade on a destroyer escort vessel. Leaving the service, he entered the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration to study marketing and was graduated with distinction in June, 1948. At this time he was married to the former Evelyn Berkeley of Norfolk, Virginia.

Before joining Wanamaker's, Mr. Harrison served as a research assistant to Malcolm P. McNair, who holds the Filene Chair of Retailing at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. During this time he worked on case research on department store operation.

335-Horsepower Performance from a 550-Pound Motor — GM engineers developed an entirely new light alloy engine for these cars. It is a V-8, with 20 to 1 compression ratio, supercharged by a blower designed by GM engineers for Diesel engines. Operates on premium grade fuel at normal speeds — premium fuel plus special fuel at higher speeds.

How GM engineers explore new horizons

HERE you see the XP-300 and LeSabre. The press likes to call them "cars of the future."

Thousands of people have flocked to see them, and the question most often asked is, "When will you build cars like these for the public?"

Well, the answer is—these aren't intended to show exactly what future cars will be like. They were built and rebuilt over a period of several years, to give our engineers and designers the chance to test out fresh and forward ideas, and get these ideas beyond the blueprint and laboratory stage.

You never know, till you get far-in-advance ideas to the point where you can road-test them and let folks look at them, how practical they'll be—and how the public will take them.

Many of today's commonplace features come right out of "tries" like these. And as time goes on, some of these advance features are sure to appear on cars in regular production. LeSabre and XP-300 are just the latest examples of how far we go to make the key to a GM car your key to greater value.

MANISTEE, MICHIGAN

Then come the junks; they are a sight. Their sails are most amazing. They are made of fiber (or worn and torn canvas) and are put together by ribs or slats. The skipper tells us that was so one section could carry away, and they would still have a sail to go on. The sails have curved leeches like a fan. The quarter deck is raised and a cabin is sometimes put there.

Then come the barges and local freighters that carry cargo down the river, to be loaded on larger ships and taken overseas. These ships are of every size and shape with all kinds of deck and wheelhouses on them. The one thing that they have in common is that they all have very shallow draft and broad beam so lots of cargo can be loaded on board and yet not have the ship draw much, because of the shallowness of the river. The river isn't marked as the mud flats change position all the time.

Work Boats Loaded to Capacity

Many of the small freighters have barges towing along behind them so that more cargo can be carried downstream under power of one ship. And are these ships laden! They are jammed with teak wood, rice, palm fronds, coal, fuel, bulging sacks—everything under the sun!

Then there are the ferry boats packed with people sitting upright and stiffly on wooden benches. These boats are long and narrow, and have a wooden roof open at the sides. As they weave in and out of the other ships, their load of passengers dressed in bright colorful clothes make a pleasant sight. We also saw some "school busses" early this morning. The children lean out and wave and shout at us and we wave back. There are countless tugs and fishing boats chugging up and down the river—to the accompaniment of loud chugs and puffs from their engines. Then the sampans—they are canoe-like but have an element of a gondola about them as they are propelled by the same method. The stern rises in a curved point which resembles a Chinaman's slipper.

Some of them have low thatched roofs over one end or amidships. They all seem to be heavily laden with wood, rice, fruit or thatch, etc. If the cargo allows it, there is no freeboard at all and water laps up over the hull. Other sampans carry passengers who in turn usually are carrying a broad umbrella for shade while the helmsman steps back and forth, back bent and arms pushing the oar in his slow rhythmic strokes. All of the ships and boats (except the large freighters) look as though they have come down through the ages and as if they have had long and adventurous histories, especially the junks. None of them look newly painted or as if they had gotten a new set of sails for many years.

Most of the motor boats carry a staysail for steadying purposes. It gives the effect of being among many sailing vessels and as though you had stepped back a couple of hundred years in time. Many of the ships have large and noble figureheads on their prows which adds to the idea of antiquity and tradition.

Ships Pose a Traffic Problem

There are so many ships all over the place that it seems as though we are constantly holding our breath and watching a near-collision. Two junks, moving entirely under sail, will tear straight toward each other full speed ahead and then just at the last minute one would slack and veer off, gently missing the other vessel by a hair! It's nerve-racking and it happens all the time.

Hundreds of sampans amble across our path and every time I am sure we are going to hit them, but each time they make it out of our way just in time and, what is most amazing, they are so unconcerned about it all! Then come the even smaller boats which are really just skiffs—no centerboard, keel or anything—almost a canoe, only flat-bottomed.

These are usually manned by small children who haven't a stitch on. They sit on the bottom—grins on their faces and arms over the side paddling madly in the water. These boats

COLONIAL CRUISERS

Step aboard one of the new 33 foot Colonial Cruisers and we know that you will agree that they are the finest in their size.

Your first reaction will be that the craftsmanship and rich luxurious finishes are unsurpassed. You will then be amazed at the feeling of exceptional roominess. You will like the privacy of the new twin-stateroom arrangement. The more you study the various details that have been planned for your comfort afloat you will notice that the large clothes locker provides plenty of room, that the galley with the home-like 13 cubic foot capacity refrigerator is ample to store sufficient food to satisfy those huge appetites you will have afloat. The dinette is larger than the average—the deeply upholstered berth cushions with their attractive covering are not only pleasing to the eye but are also as comfortable as your home furniture.

Investigate still further and you will notice that the 'time-tested' construction is exceptionally heavy. The husky oak keel and frames and swamp cedar planking with Everdur fastenings and hand caulked seams all help to make Colonial the strongest and heaviest boat on the market.

In spite of their unusual weight the Colonials are fast with moderate horse-power. The exclusive design, a combination of vee and round bottoms, has been developed by Colonial engineers over a period of many years. Look carefully at the clean bottom lines and exceptional flare. You will then realize why Colonials can maintain good speed, even when the going is rough and also why they are unusually dry.

For 1952 we are concentrating only on this new 33 footer. Select the Sport Cruiser as sketched above—or the sedan Wanderer that will also be available—depending upon your boating needs and get set for years of "Care Free Cruising."

COLONIAL CRUISERS

HERE is the way the 33 foot Colonial Sport Cruiser looked in the recent New York Motor Boat Show. No wonder why Colonial won such praise.

Look at the seaworthy lines of this outstanding vee bottom cruiser. Note the forward escape hatch from which it is easy to handle anchor and lines.

But—if you missed the show—you also missed seeing the real hit of the show! You should step aboard and see the enormous amount of livable room in the Colonial. You should see why women fell in love with this boat. The men too realized that this was a real family boat with plenty of room. The large home-like refrigerator amazed people. The clothes locker is so large that two people can step into it at one time! And the twin stateroom privacy was a new innovation. No other make has so many desirable features.

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF TO SEE THE COLONIAL THE MOST TALKED OF BOAT OF THE SHOW

Sorry to disappoint hundreds of families!

Until the present defense emergency arose, every year hundreds of families enjoyed their new Cruis-Alongs, proud of the finest little craft afloat.

Naturally we'd rather be turning out Cruis-Alongs—but we've turned our yard and crew to tending the nation's #1 business, building for the U. S. Navy.

Until we can return to building Cruis-Alongs for you, please rely on your Cruis-Along dealer to keep your craft in top condition.

Like you, we hope that this present emergency will soon be over. Until then, join us in tending the nation's business—and invest in your country's defense by buying United States Defense Bonds.

boat's length. This includes both the power plant and the hull with their accessories and equipment. A 25-footer, for example, of average type will require in the neighborhood of 6 to 8 days to commission.

"Speaking of cleanliness, warm water is often difficult to come by in the average yard. If you are fortunate in having a stove aboard which will provide you the means for heating sufficient water, the work of cleaning and scrubbing will be that much easier. It is truly remarkable the impression good warm water and a present day non-streaking detergent can make."

Now for the Paint Work

Upon completion of the preliminary, but highly essential, work of cleaning, the paint work should follow. I should advise securing a copy of any of the leading paint manufacturers' manuals. The International Paint Company, for example, has a book entitled Directions for use of Interlux Marine Finishes which is of great value. The Woolsey people will be glad to send you, upon receipt of 25¢, a copy of their booklet entitled How To Paint Your Boat. In the latter tools of the trade are described as well as methods to follow for their proper care. The correct procedure from beginning to completion is presented in a pleasant-to-read style. Methods of determining the amounts of paint (refer to accompanying chart) required for boats of various overall dimensions are

Average Quantities of Paints and Other Items Required in Outfitting Boats of Various Sizes and Types

	18-FOOT RUN- ABOUT	25-FOOT RUN- ABOUT	30-FOOT CRUISER	36-FOOT CRUISER
Deck: Two coats, including cockpit floor	1 quart	2 quarts	3 quarts	1 gallon
Topsides: One coat yacht white and two coats enamel	1 pint 1 quart	1 pint 1 quart	1 quart 2 quarts	2 quarts 1 gallon
Bottom: Two coats of red copper (or other color)	2 quarts	2 quarts	3 quarts	1½ gallons
Bright work: 3 coats spar varnish, coamings, woodwork, etc.	1 quart	2 quarts	1 gallon	1½ gallons
Seam composition	1 pound	1 pound	2 pounds	3 pounds

included as well as all manner of valuable details presented for the benefit of the amateur.

The application of paint or varnish to any other than a dry and clean surface is futile. It will result only in blistering, peeling and complete disappointment. This applies both inside and outside the hull.

Specific problems which arise in the process of readying the boat for launching involving complications outside the realm of "fitting-out" may well be answered in MoToR Boating's latest publication entitled Boat Maintenance Aloft and Ashore, Parts I and II. An investment in these excellent books will be repaid many times over by this most valuable presentation of practical advice.

Proper Ventilation Important

To continue with the general problems of fitting out we must not neglect the important function of proper ventilation. An improperly ventilated boat is quite likely to be very damp inside with a film of sticky, salt-laden moisture on bulkheads and elsewhere. The exposed metal on the engine and other fittings may be badly rusted because of this condition. The ever-changing temperature outside the boat with the interior accepting these changes at a slower rate will create sweat (condensation) which is capable of doing considerable damage. It is therefore advisable to open up as much of the cabin as possible—with all locker doors open, floor boards up, hatches left ajar—to allow a circulation of air

Low France's motto:

"Marlin or bust"

"...and no other boat could catch her or match her!"

"On our 24-foot Miss Delmar Cruis-Along we made Ocean City, Maryland, from Baltimore, in 9 hours, 20 minutes.

"Experts said we were too small for serious fishing. But many times we were the envy of big charter boat skippers.

"Twenty to 40 miles off-shore... we caught ten marlin... came back flying proudly the blue marlin flag—highest score of any private or pleasure boat in the fleet... have certificates and pictures to prove it!

"The fishingest little boat I've ever owned! Fastest in the fleet... no other could catch her or match Miss Delmar."

During the first three or four days, 21 caterpillars developed, each with 16-18 Trn. on large areas. A few caterpillars died, but the others fed voraciously, feeding only on the leaf tissue. Caterpillars molted 6-8 times before pupation, and pupated in 19-21 days. No caterpillars were seen feeding on the large white areas. In further observations, a caterpillar covered nearly 7" x 1" in diameter. It was 1.6-1.8 inches wide, .41" in length.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, DAYTONA BEACH, FLORIDA

Island which is commonly used by all those interested in determining real speed. Other courses in various parts of our waterfronts are often indicated on government charts. It is customary to run the boat both directions over the measured course, accurately timing it on both runs, and then taking the mean (average) of the two separate speeds (not times) thus found. In the absence of a measured course the distance between two government fixed skeleton markers (or buoys) may be used. The distance between these may be taken off a chart and may be depended upon for accuracy—providing, however, in the case of buoys, there have not been any violent storms which may have moved them from their regular positions. It is unlikely to be an even distance between markers, or buoys, so the time of the run must be considered with the particular length of the course. To determine the speed in miles per hour over a course which we will assume to be .3 of a mile it is necessary to clock the time and convert these figures in to miles per hour:

$$\begin{array}{r} \text{Run .8 of a mile in 2 minutes} \\ 2 \cdot .8 \cdot 60 : x \\ 8 \times 60 \quad - 24 \text{ miles per hour.} \\ 2 \end{array}$$

The revolutions may be determined by a standard marine tachometer or, if the motor is not so equipped, a hand revolution counter may be used in conjunction with a split-second hand watch.

When the true speed of the boat and the r.p.m. of the motor at a given speed are determined, convert the miles per hour (or knots) to feet per minute. [88 feet per minute equal 1 mile per hour—101.33 feet per minute equal 1 knot.] Next calculate travel of propeller wheel in one minute in feet simply by multiplying the pitch in inches by the r.p.m. and dividing by 12. Subtract the number of feet the boat actually traveled from the distance the propeller wheel traveled in pitch and the result is slip in feet per minute. The wheel will be slipping a certain number of feet per minute. This may be converted to the percentage of slip by dividing the distance the boat traveled into the difference of boat travel and wheel travel as indicated in the following example:

Propeller wheel has approximately 23 per cent slip. If the slip falls between 15 and 20 per cent for wheels turning under 1500 r.p.m., or if it falls between 20 and 25 per cent for wheels turning more than 1500 r.p.m. it may be assumed the amount of slip is not too much out of the way and that the pitch and revolutions are within practical slip limits. However, if the propeller slip exceeds the above averages it may be advisable to change the wheel to one of less pitch and possibly greater diameter. If it comes somewhere within reason of the above percentages you may feel reasonably satisfied at having the proper dimensioned wheel.

A great deal of money in conducting wheel experiments can be saved, as well as a great deal of time, by having a reconditioning expert, such as Otis Palmer out in East Moriches, L. I., change the pitch of an existing wheel. Mr. Palmer, by the way, has been active in the field of boats and marine engines (and particularly propeller wheels) for a great many years and undoubtedly knows more about this intricate subject than most of us. If, from the results of preliminary experiments, you discover serious discrepancies in the correct performance of your boat's propeller efficiency the service of such an expert is well worth while.

AT THE TOY FAIR

"YES, we came to the Toy Fair. We decided the Toy Fair was top attraction in New York City for 1952, and none of us wanted to miss it." Dick Tracy, famous comic strip detective, said when interviewed by TOYS & NOVELTIES reporter.

"Oh, sure, I brought the family. Tess and Junior would never miss an affair like this. B. O. Plenty, Gravel Gertie, Sparkle, and Flintheart also insisted on coming; so we are all here," Dick continued.

"Hotel McAlpin was mighty accommodating. Room 851, right in the middle of things! We are with Austin Art Studios' Hallowe'en Masks because we knew all our friends would visit their exhibit, and we want to see them all. We know we have a lot of friends but didn't realize how many until we visited among the jobber and chain store buyers. Famous Artists Syndicate chose the Austin Art Studios to make us up in rubber masks because they wanted the very best!" Tracy said.

"Oh, yes, we've had a wonderful year," Dick said in answer to our reporter's question. "We really made a lot of new friends—in fact they tell me we are tops in all comic strip characters in public popularity. Of course, you will admit we have solved some interesting cases lately, and we did a mighty neat job of upholding law and order when Dick Tracy was called in," Dick modestly added.

"Well, I must be going. See us as rubber masks, Room 851, Hotel McAlpin," he said as he stepped into the elevator.

Trade Shows in Los Angeles

• Dates for several fall shows managed by the Los Angeles Trade Fair, Inc., Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, 1151 S. Broadway, Los Angeles 15, Cal., will be as follows: 35th California Gift Show, July 20-25, Merchandise Mart, Brack Shops, individual showrooms. Biltmore and Alexandria hotels. Fourth Western Housewares Show, Sept. 14-17, Biltmore Hotel.

• Concurrent with Marshall Field & Co.'s recognition of its centennial, a book, "Through Charley's Door," by Emily Kimbrough, has been published by Harper. Title is said to come from Miss Kimbrough's own pre-Field days, when her mother and their friends designated the 28 E. Washington St. entrance as Charley's Door, because of the doorman. Charles Pritzlaff, who had come to Field's in 1890. Miss Kimbrough herself was a Field employe between 1923 and 1927, writing for the store's publication, Fashions of the Hour, which she eventually edited.

Many New Toys Designed by Chicago Firm

Twenty-seven new toys will be designed and engineered by Marvin Glass & Associates, 57 E. Ohio St., Chicago, Ill., during 1952. A toy design and engineering organization, headed by Marvin Glass as president, this firm covers the whole field—from rough sketch to finished product. Six men are employed.

Marvin Glass speaks from experience when he says, "In designing a toy, a maximum effect must be created for a minimum cost." It is his contention that many toy manufacturers believe any engineer or artist is capable of designing toys. This is not true, he states, because the toy business is different, in that a novel, good-looking, usable product must be produced at little cost. "Our whole problem is simplifying," he stated. Between five or six men take from two to three months in the origination and final production of a toy. All lend their abilities to its perfection.

Marvin Glass & Associates work on a royalty basis. A patent research is made on every item the firm considers for production. If it has features not "thought of before," a patent is obtained. Each item is licensed to a manufacturer on a royalty basis.

Among toys created by this organization and licensed to various manufacturers are: Busy Biddy, Merry-Go-Sip, Moody Mutt, Jack in the Bank, Fireboat, Firefly, an action ash tray, toy miner's light, a pencil pistol, Hatchin' Hen, Peg a Jack, and Cleo the Clown.

Presently, they are working on a new doll and are designing a pull toy which should be out in June. Other "news" now being designed and engineered include an airplane model and new type of top game, as well as an electric typewriter, the latter being designed by this organization.

FISH don't come too big for EVINRUDE BIG TWIN

(not even giant blue-fin tuna)

BIG TWIN throttles in the right speed for any kind of trolling. The start of the battle with the big tuna off East Cay, Bahama islands HOOKED! The long chase that followed was clocked by a consort cruiser at close to 28 miles an hour.

GRAND FINALE! Big Twin's reverse helps take the last trace of fight out of the giant blue fin.

DOCKING for the weigh-in! Thrilling color movie, "Teamwork on Tuna" photographed by Lansdell Anderson, available to Sportsmen's Clubs. See your Evinrude dealer for booking.

Even aboard a super-powered big-game cruiser, catching a 600-pound torpedo of fighting blue fin tuna takes a lot of doing! But Lansdell Anderson, Boating Editor of Field & Stream, figured that an Evinrude Big Twin had plenty of stuff to handle the job. He was right! And his story, "Big Fish from Small Boats," tells how...

"Solidly hooked into that coal-burning blue fin... no trouble chasing it at close to 28 miles an hour... sticking right on its tail until the angler could force it out of the school, there was power and speed to burn...

when the fracas boiled down to a stalemate, the motor's reverse feature made it possible to kill the tuna almost as fast as though the angler were fighting from Miss Chevy II." About Big Twin's grand bonus of speed, Anderson observed: "And it's always more fun to come home at a fast clip! Just sort of makes a fellow feel better with the whole world—even if he doesn't have any fish scales aboard."

SEE YOUR EVINRUDE DEALER—look for his name under "Outboard Motors" in the yellow pages of your phone book. For free catalog of the complete Evinrude line, 3 to 25 H.P., write EVINRUDE MOTORS, 4645 North 27th Street, Milwaukee 16, Wisconsin.

In Canada: Manufactured by Evinrude Motors, Peterborough, Ontario

FIRST IN OUTBOARDS... 43rd YEAR

one run—and you know!

IT'S EASY to settle on the outboard you want... it's easy... it's fast... and it's fun! Take a look at the Evinrude that's hustling this "fisherman's express"... take a run with Big Twin! Try it!... and you'll never settle for less!

Take over the controls and see for yourself! Start in Neutral and back away... Big Twin's gearshift makes dockside maneuvering simple as handling your car! Shift to Forward—flick the Roto-Matic Control—Big Twin's blazing power smacks your boat to top speed in breathless seconds! You're streaking along at a 30-mile clip—smooth, quiet and steady! Far-off fishing spots are only minutes away... with Big Twin, the run is the biggest part of the fun!

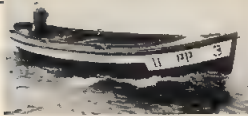

Like trolling? Close your throttle 'way down... you whisper along with bare steerage way... hour after hour if you wish... for Big Twin is the 30-miler that trolls like a small motor. On every count... for those who want the last word in fine outboard performance... Big Twin is the motor! One run—and you know!

SEE YOUR EVINRUDE DEALER—and get the good news on price... the 25 horsepower* Big Twin is yours at lowest price per horsepower of any outboard motor. If you'd like Big Twin's kind of performance for smaller boats, it's yours in two companion models—the 14 H.P. Fastwin and the Fleetwin, 7.5 H.P. Look for your dealer's name under "Outboard Motors" in the yellow pages of your phone book. CATALOG FREE! Write today for big, full-color catalog describing the complete line of Evinrude models for 1952. Address EVINRUDE MOTORS, 4804 North 27th Street, Milwaukee 16, Wisconsin.

In Canada: Manufactured by Evinrude Motors, Peterborough, Ont.

*Power ratings are O.B.C. certified brake H.P. at 4000 R.P.M.

RUGGED WORK IN ALASKA! This boat is one of a fleet of more than a thousand pilasters fishing the stormy waters of Bristol Bay, Alaska. Formerly restricted to the use of sail only, the fleet is now being rapidly converted to power. The Evinrude 75 H.P. Big Twin mounted in the stern provides reliable power in roughest going—saves space, saves weight—sees can—and drives this heavily converted 35-footer at approximately the same speed as a 40 H.P. inboard engine.

EVINRUDE

FIRST IN OUTBOARDS... 43rd YEAR

you can GO PLACES ...with an Evinrude!

Fact is, you can wander all over the chart... with speed, comfort, minimum cost... in a snug and able cruiser powered by Big Twin! Furthermore, you can "trailer" your boat anywhere, to waters of your choice. Your cruising horizons are limitless!

Big Twin is the motor outboard cruising had been waiting for. A motor with abundant power to reel off the knots on substantial cruising hulls. A motor with Gearshift for neutral starting and full maneuverability, and engineered for complete remote control. Above all, a motor with stamina for trouble-free performance from shove-off to home-again!

In a single season, on coastal and inland waters everywhere, Big Twin has won its place as the motor for practical, low-cost cruising. If you'd like the whole story, see your Evinrude dealer! FAIRFORM FLYER

THE CARIBBEAN 58 is a sister ship, partaking of the highly successful characteristics of the OCEANIC 52, in nowise superseding her but with the greater accommodations obtainable in longer length and with many added features possible in this larger yacht

Her accommodations are delightful. Her Owners Suite compares favorably with those of the hitherto 80 footer. She also carries six guests in three Cabins. Her Crew Quarters are more extensive and comfortable than ever before found on a yacht of this size. She has a restful Deckhouse and sheltered Sun Deck, each of about 100 square feet area. Protected Flying Bridge and Fairform precision fingertip controls. A fine Galley with Range, Automatic Hot Water and Electric Refrigeration.

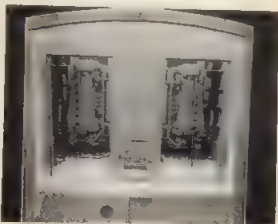

THE CARIBBEAN 58, with the long-ago integrated Quadraconic Hull, reaches a PLANING speed at 9 knots, and stays on top, with her superb buoyancy, with remarkable dryness, in the heaviest weather in which a yachtsman should ever venture or be caught out. Exceptionally fast — with standard equipment and normal cruising load, this yacht maintains a sea speed of 18 knots, at least 50% higher than any other yacht of the same size and power

Because of unprecedented demand for the Fairform Flyer, we are unable to offer more than one yacht of this size for next winter delivery. We solicit substantial inquiry from yachtsmen who might desire this

Avenue to Health and Happiness

The Deckhouse, large and airy, is the scene of comfort. Generous lockers, serving table and space for optional Fairform Fuel Oil Heating System

Two GM 6-11 Diesels in the extreme stern, in an entirely separate engine compartment. Propulsion is through the HUCKINS Spiral Bevel Vee Drive

OFFSHORE 52 • Undeniably the fastest seagoing yacht in the world. Dignified functional simplicity in design and finish of the Quadraconic Hull reduces upkeep cost. Sleeps six, has three Toilets, Shower and Bath. Twin Diesels-in-stern. Identical to Offshore 45 but larger Bridge. An outstanding example of the Fairform Flyer Fleet that has justly earned the highest reputation for safe seaworthy and satisfying performance. Eighteen standard models 34 through 58 feet, offer every feasible type of cruiser and Sportsman a man may desire.

PRO BONO 34 • Enclosed Deckhouse, large Aft Cockpit. Sleeps four in two Cabins. Twin Engines-in-stern. Cruising 23 knots. Top 30 MPH.

MENEMSHA 34 • Sport Fisherman, sleeps three or four. Flying Bridge, large Cockpit. Twin Engines-in-stern. Trol below 5 knots. Top 30 MPH. Fishing equipment optional.

GOURMET 34 • Day Boat and Weekender. Sleeps two. Galley and Toilet Room. Protected Bridge. Accommodates large party. Performance equals Pro Bono 34.

ORTEGA 40 • Complete cruising yacht. Sleeps four or six. Large Cockpit. Vee Drive engines. Cruise 23 knots. Top 30 MPH. Dual Elevated Controls optional.

DOGHOUSE 40 • Three Staterooms, sleeps six. Galley, Two Toilets and Shower. Flying Bridge. Aft Cockpit optional. Sustained cruising 20-23 knots. Top 26-29 MPH.

SPORTSMAN 40 • Similar to Doghouse 40 but with large Aft Cockpit. Sleeps four. Low fishing stern optional. Wide Side decks. Cruise 21-24 knots. Top 23-32 MPH.

GRAND MANAN 45 • Sedan Cruiser sleeps 6-8. Large Galley, two Toilets and Shower. Large Aft Cockpit. Twin Engines-in-stern. Extremely quiet. Cruises 20 knots. Top 28 MPH.

NEPTUNE 45 • Three Staterooms, sleeps six. Shower. Optional Aft Cockpit. Gasoline or Diesels. Cruises 18 knots. Top 27 MPH.

SPORTSMAN 45 • Deluxe deep sea fishing Cruiser. Sleeps four or five comfortably. Flying Bridge. Gasoline or Diesel. Trolls at 5 knots. Performance equals Neptune 45.

SEAFARER 48 • Accommodations like Offshore 52 except Inboard Controls. Sleeps six. Patio Deck and Aft Cockpit. Diesels-in-stern. 20 knot sustained cruising.

OCEANIC 52 • Dual Controls — all weather cruising. Sleeps eight in four Cabins. Galley and Crew art. Twin Diesels-in-stern. Aft Cockpit. 20 knot cruising.

CARIBBEAN 58 • Luxurious. Sleeps ten in five Cabins. 500 mile radius. Twin Diesels-in-stern. Cruising 18 knots. Top 24 MPH.

FAIRFORM FLYER

Three Remarkable Boats Same Quadraconic Hull

DOGHOUSE 40 • Long considered by many yachtsmen, the most desirable size of boat, the DOGHOUSE 40 is the smallest feasible triple-cabin cruising yacht. Although free from the sardine can school of Naval Architecture, she contains accommodations generally requiring a larger boat. She accommodates six persons, in three separate cabins, on wide lower berths in civilized, non-claustrophobic comfort. Her Galley will please the most critical seagoing wife. Her Flying Bridge provides excellent visibility. Equally at home at sea or on the Great Lakes, her performance is unmatched by other boats of equal size and power. She comfortably cruises at 22 knots with Twin Chrysler Royal Special Engines which are under the bridge, completely accessible, for servicing or easy removal without interference. An aft cockpit seat is optionally available.

SPORTSMAN 40-M • Built on the same Quadraconic Hull as the DOGHOUSE, this saucy SPORTSMAN has an unusually large cockpit for entertaining or fishing. Her bridge and accommodations forward are identical to the DOGHOUSE 40, providing lower berth sleeping for four, a complete Galley, Toilet Room, ample storage space and hanging lockers. Typical of all Fairform Flyers, she has home conveniences that include Electric Running Water, Electric Toilets, Innerspring Mattresses and Lounge Cushions—a home afloat. Gas Range, Water Heater and many other options available. Performance is slightly better than the DOGHOUSE 40 with equally superb sea-keeping ability.

SPORTSMAN 40-L • Although similar to the SPORTSMAN 40, this boat, with the low Cockpit, is a natural for deep sea sport fishing. Outriggers and an Extended Fishing Pulpit may be installed to make her the complete Fisherman, ready and able to go after anything that swims. Bridge is well aft with all-around visibility. Like all Fairform Flyers, she fully planes below half her cruising speed. Her smooth running characteristics are evidenced in the above untouched photograph, made when she was cruising at 22 knots. This is but one of the many models available in the Fairform Flyer Fleet from 34 to 58 feet in length.

you're in Clover

with an ALL-CROP Harvester

Ladino . . . sweet clover . . . subterranean . . . red clover . . . alsike! Luxuriant green clovers seeded with grain are the symbol of today's new and better way of farming.

Yet this green undergrowth of soil-building seed and forage crops can present a real problem at grain harvest time.

An easy, one-man harvest with a home-owned ALL-CROP Harvester is your answer. You can catch the grain at the exact point of full ripening, before green undergrowth is too high. Time it perfectly!

The wide, rubber-faced bar cylinder handles the full swath width with less chopping of damp green matter, less choking of sieves. Grain is drier, brighter, safer to store.

Power harvest your grain this year, valuable seed next year, from the same field . . . with your own ALL-CROP Harvester.

It's made-to-order for this advanced farming practice.

A THANK-YOU to Farmers Waiting for ALL-CROP Harvesters

Nation-wide demand for the ALL-CROP Harvester has made it the most keenly sought harvesting machine. Often in these days of material shortages, long waits have been necessary. Allis-Chalmers fully appreciates your cooperation and understanding. If you will place your order early this winter with your Allis-Chalmers dealer, it will help him toward furnishing you America's first-choice harvester in time for your 1952 crop.

ALL-CROP is an Allis-Chalmers trade-mark.

PRODUCE IT "SAFE"

FORAGE HARVESTER and NEW MOWER BAR UNIT

Yes, you can cut, chop and load short or tall crops in one operation, saving time, manpower and money. The Gehl Mower Bar handles such crops as Sweet Clover, Timothy, Alfalfa, Brome, as well as tall-growing Sudan Grass, Sorghum, Soybeans and Cane, sowed broadcast.

Makes you independent of the weather

You need not worry over the difficulty of making good hay in poor-drying weather, or loss of nutrients in rain-damaged hay. With a Gehl Chopper and Mower Bar unit, you can make grass silage that delivers more feeding value per acre. Even stacked or trench grass silage usually contains more nutrients than the best dried hay.

Engineered to do a better job

The Gehl is simple. Any "kid" who can run a tractor can get and operate it to cut clean and fine for silage... or long for dry hay. IT'S THE SHORT, CLEAN CUT THAT MAKES THE BEST SILAGE.

Quick Change-Over for 3-Way Harvesting. In a few minutes, you can change from Mower Bar, to Hay Pickup, or Row-crop Attachment. Either motor or power take-off drive.

Gehl Equipment Does a Complete Job, from Field to Storage... a better chopper... a powerful till-up blower... free plans for building your own self-unloading wagon box with Gehl Metal Parts Kit. Gehl has sold more forage harvesters than any other independent manufacturer. Get the best... get Gehl.

more than half an hour, Simpkins says. That's getting hog feeding down to a system.

Oats, Alfalfa, Rape Make Cheaper Hog Feed

Here are some ways to feed less grain all year—without cutting down on the amount of pork you get.

► You can use oats and alfalfa for half the ration for pregnant gilts, and three-fourths of the old sow's ration.

► Up to three-fourths of the nursing sow's feed can be oats, middlings, and alfalfa. A good mixture is 500 pounds ground corn, 800 pounds ground oats, 300 pounds middlings, 200 pounds ground alfalfa, and 200 pounds of a 40% protein supplement.

► Get your pigs to eating rolled or hulled oats at a week to ten days.

► Sow rape for emergency pasture. An acre of rape pasture or good legume will take the place of 1000 pounds of corn and 500 pounds of protein supplement.

► Carry sows bred for fall farrowing on legume pasture and self-fed whole oats.

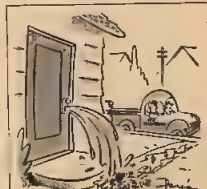

At Haller of Dane County, Wis., carried 100 bred sows on 9½ acres of ladino clover and alfalfa pasture from May 15 to August 15. All the corn he fed was two bushels a day for the last two weeks.

Do Small Sheep Flocks Make Money?

Native flocks averaging 42 head on 167 Illinois farms returned $177 for every $100 worth of feed they got last year.

Farmers there say that this size flock will make money on 10 or 15 acres of good bluegrass pasture, plus some hay and concentrates.

CEDRIA IS NO SISSY

was a wooden plug in the exhaust outlet to keep salt air and dampness out of the engine thereby preventing the likelihood of rust and sticking valves in the Spring. So the boat was towed over to the dock and secured with lines running not only to the dock but to the shore as well. Cedria was out in the cold for the winter.

I moved aboard and began to get settled once more. I could revel in the enjoyment of plenty of electricity at last, an undreamed of luxury during the past fifteen years aboard Cedria. There was a big dome light in the galley and another in the cockpit, and wall bracket lights in the forward cabin and the toilet room. There were outlets for table lamps and the radio in the deckhouse and more outlets in the galley and the forward cabin. I soon found that one of the most welcome advantages of the 110-volt system was the fact that I could use an electric blanket at night, practically a necessity to dispel the chill that crept along the edge of the bunk next to the hull.

Because Cedria would remain immobile at the dock for several months I could indulge in such impractical but feminine innovations as a row of books on the chart locker top, a dish garden on another locker top, a vase of flowers, and an arrangement of yellow and green gourds for a Thanksgiving motif.

The first bleak days of early November were ushered in with a wide-spread cold wave, the most severe on record for that time of year. Heavy snowstorms and 50-mile-an-hour gales raged throughout the mid-West, nor was New England spared from Winter's swift and early onslaught. Songs like Winter Wonderland and Jingle Bells were broadcast over the radio with demoralizing insistence. My spirits plummeted with the temperature in Cedria's deck cabin, but they rose again when the installation of an additional panel in the deck house and also an extra one in the forward cabin gave the necessary boost to the heating system.

The radiant panels which are made by the Continental Radiant Glass Heating Corporation of New York, were proving very satisfactory. Various articles I had read dealing with Winter living afloat had emphasized the fact that if the cabin sole could be kept warm it added immensely to one's comfort aboard. Cedria's cabin soles were consistently warm due to direct radiation from the panels. I hadn't suffered from cold feet at all, literally speaking if not figuratively.

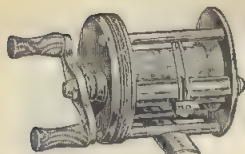

Sealing the cracks around the big deck house windows and windshield was a measure we had taken early in the Fall to add to the warmth aboard. However, the biggest help of all was the enclosure of the greater part of the cockpit with bomaote erected on a temporary frame. A hinged door with a glass panel to admit light gave access to the stern and to the deck. The increased comfort in the cabin was immediately apparent. Moreover there was a sense of protection from the elements that had been lacking before.

A narrow section at the after end of the cockpit still remained open to the rain and snow. To prevent ice damage in the scuppers a small line was extended the length of each scupper through to the water then brought up on the outside of the hull and the two ends secured. The compressibility of the rope would take care of ice expansion.

Insulating the overhead in the cabin would have been a wise procedure, no doubt, but I wanted to keep the finish as it was, if possible. We did, however, insulate the deck house bulkhead alongside the transom seat to good advantage.

Plastic Letters for Signs

New, molded styrene plastic letters, available in a wide range of sizes and several colors, are said to make sign making remarkably quick, easy and economical. Produced by J. E. Barron Associates, 224 E. 8th St., Cincinnati, O., the three-dimensional letters can be permanently affixed to sheet Lucite or Plexiglas in just three seconds. Another application method fixes the letters to glass, cardboard, metal and other surfaces but permits removal and re-use if desired.

Many interesting and eye-catching effects are possible with the letters. For example, signs made on translucent materials can be back-lighted for a heightened effect. Some users mount the bottom edges of the letter on a strip and eliminate the usual background.

Aid Retailers

Many retail stores have found Barron's Styrene Plastic Letters to be "naturals" for their varied sign problems. Not only do these letters produce unusually effective signs, but the letters have an added value in being re-usable for day-to-day promotions. A retailer would simply stock letters which could be used indefinitely, being rugged, long lasting and easy to keep clean.

The letters are available in 1, 1½, 2, 3, and 4-inch sizes in red, black and green. Numerals are available in silver, all sizes. Special colors are available on quantity orders. Using no metal, these letters can be shipped immediately, and in any desired quantity.

Plastic Jewelry

• Plasticast Company, P. O. Box 987, Palo Alto, Calif., is featuring a complete plastic jewelry-making kit to retail at $4.95. It contains enough transparent liquid plastic to make about $35 worth of beautiful imbedded jewelry and novelties. Simplified, illustrated instruction manual is included with each kit, and the carton is very attractive.

LAST-MINUTE REPORT

Pink Boll Worm On the Move

Cotton growers got both bad and good news at the Cotton Council's insect control conference this month.

The bad news: pink boll worm—the worst cotton pest there is—spread north and east this year to within 75 miles of the Arkansas border; now in tests 234 of the 800 counties where cotton is grown.

The good news: two new bug-killers promise to make the cotton insect fight easier. Compound 4049, a promising new boll weevil control, will be put out in limited amount this season by the American Cyanamid Company.

Compound 269, made by Julius Hyman and Co., looks good against the boll weevil, boll worm (not pink), and other cotton insects. It will be field-tested on a large scale this season.

One thing is sure—the boll worm must be fought.

"Farmer McKinley" Gets Run-Around

"Farmer McKinley" the Iowa potato grower who "oppressed" the U.S.A. when he asked the PMA some embarrassing questions, is still getting the run-around from the USDA. (Farm Journal, November 1951, page 31).

A new man in the case, Thomas J. Flavin, a legal officer in the USDA, has advised McKinley that he has reviewed the case and decided that it is "now moot." There's no point in having the hearing that McKinley wants, according to Flavin.

McKinley's attorney says that this is just more delayed-action, pass-the-buck treatment by which the USDA hopes that (1) McKinley will eventually tire and give up; and (2) the USDA will thereby avoid a public hearing, which would embarrass and "oppress" it even more.

Use these stamps to show how much government costs everybody. Write for free sheets, several kinds each.

in the country, you'll find many which have centerboards so sharp on the edges one must be careful not to cut his hand on the edge when the board is raised. The trailing edge is, if anything, more important than the leading edge—but both should be ground to an edge so as to present little drag.

Do the same with your rudder. Make it easy for the rudder to enter and leave the water with no resistance.

Paint both centerboard and rudder a light color—and with a hard-surfaced paint.

Avoid having too much play in either the centerboard or the rudder pintals. A block of wood shaped like a wedge will assist in holding the board steady against one side of the trunk and prevent the vibration which reduces speed of the boat through the water.

Both the bottom and the topsides must be as smooth as it is possible to make them. Remember that in a small boat of the centerboard type, you're sailing on the topsides as much as on the bottom. A good sanding job—and a good paint job—will repay you many times for the effort you spend.

Great care should be taken in placing the mast in the hull. Each boat will be somewhat different, since no two can possibly be built exactly alike—even in the most strictly enforced one-design classes. Certain rules govern in general, however. There cannot be any "a" curves or bends in the mast. Tuning cannot straighten a mast that is permanently bent or twisted. Be sure that your mast is straight before placing it in the boat.

You will find that the mast can be adjusted in four ways—1) by the steps at the bottom of the mast (control rake); 2) by the upper jumpers (control hook); 3) the stays (partially control hook); and 4) the shrouds (control leeward bend).

Most small boats will sail better with a slight rake aft to the mast. For instance, in a Lightning, it has been found that the afterside of the foot of the mast should be about 19¼ to 19½ inches from the center of the centerboard pin. This enables the mast to take a rake of some 12 to 14 inches (by plumb bob with the board down and no one aboard) . . . and still be in balance.

Your mast—with all shrouds loose—should stand perfectly straight. It must have no hooks, no twists, or "a" curves to it. While it is sometimes possible to take out some strains that show in the mast by proper tuning of the shrouds and stays, it is usually not successful. Therefore, make sure that your mast is perfectly straight before you fasten the shrouds or stays. Once you have made sure that it is perfectly straight, fasten the stays and shrouds—but leave them all very loose at first. This is important—and is where most small boat sailors make their biggest mistake. Don't take up on the shrouds or stays except to take the "slop" out of them. . . . Do not tighten them—leave them all very loose . . . so that you can actually pull the two shrouds together on each side so they will touch—both sides at once.

Now gradually take up the forestay . . . take it up fairly snug—watching the top of the mast all the time to make sure you don't put too much hook in it. How much is too much? Well, it is permissible at this stage for the mast to "hook" about 3 inches all above the jumpers—but no more. Now take up the backstay till it's snug. This will develop about a 4- or 5-inch hook on the mast. If more than this, tighten the jumpers. You must realize that a hook is controlled to a very large degree by the jumpers.

Next take up on the lower shrouds until they just start to straighten out the hook of the mast. You'll soon see that if you take up too much, the mast will straighten right up—too little will not effect the hook at all. (Cont. on p. 126)

...EXPERTLY FINISHED by HINCKLEY

Buy your BB-24' cruiser already finished and fitted with the best materials and equipment by the skilled craftsmen of the famous Hinckley yards. You'll be proud to own a boat so attractive, so economical, so safe, seaworthy and comfortable.

Commodious Cabin and Cockpit

Careful planning utilizes the cabin space to such excellent advantage that it seems as spacious as many larger boats. The headroom is a generous 6'1". Two full size berths are built in and two swinging may be added if desired. There is a completely enclosed toilet, ice box opening into both cabin and cockpit, two-burner alcohol stove and galley sink with pump. Much of the trim, both exterior and interior, is of luxurious mahogany.

Lifetime of Economical Upkeep

Because the hull of the BB-24' is molded of impregnated fiberglass in one seamless, leak-proof piece, permanently colored, it completely eliminates the expense, labor and inconvenience of annual upkeep. It can be stored outdoors in winter without damage. Truly, the BB-24' cabin cruiser will bring you a lifetime of sea-going enjoyment at an unbelievably low maintenance cost.

TRAILERS FEATURE LATEST DESIGN

Improved design, high quality materials and better manufacturing techniques promise to make the 1952 line of Little Giant boat trailers one of the most popular, according to the manufacturer, Chauvin Industries, Inc.

Several construction features developed by Chauvin are said to give the trailer greater versatility, durability and easier handling. Truck-type channel steel frames are used for greater strength. Cross members in the frames are so located that the keel of the boat can be supported at all strategic points, the firm reports.

Semi-elliptic springs reduce road shock, and rubber mounted shackles eliminate greasing and prevent freezing. The wheels are equipped with high speed Timken roller bearings complete with grease seals.

To facilitate loading and launching of boats, keel rollers and winches are offered by Chauvin as additional accessories for the smaller L.B. and M.B. models. Standard equipment on Little Giant trailers includes lifting handles, beaching skids, securing line hooks, fenders, reflectors and other items.

The 1952 Little Giant line consists of five models designed to transport boats ranging from light rowboats to craft weighing up to 5,000 pounds. For complete information write Chauvin Industries, Inc., 383 Shrewsbury St., Worcester, Mass.

X-CITER SPARK PLUG

The newly designed double-gap X-Citer Spark Plug especially designed for inboard and outboard engines has met enthusiastic response from boat owners and race drivers according to P. D. Jackson, president of Blue Crown Spark Plug Company, Chicago.

The patented double-gap design incorporates a double side electrode. The company states that placing the gap at the end of the center electrode produces a powerful double ionizing effect over the entire sparking area, resulting in a longer, stronger spark for extra power. Also, since all the fuel is burned, no foreign deposits remain, providing greater resistance to oil and carbon fouling. The new plugs are guaranteed to operate several times longer than ordinary plugs under fouling conditions.

Users claim Blue Crown X-Citers work exceptionally well on two-cycle engines and motor boats, giving engines quicker starting, smoother idling, faster acceleration and economy.

For additional information, write direct to Blue Crown Spark Plug Company, 1800 Winnemac Avenue, Chicago 40, Illinois.

TO BUILD STANDARDIZED STEEL CRUISERS

Olson Shipyard, Inc., on the Calumet River in Chicago, plans to go into production of a standardized steel 32-foot cruiser as soon as their new shops have been completed.

Since the war, this company has specialized in steel yachts, both sail and motor, with hulls of any shape. To date the entire output has been on a custom basis.

Much attention has been given to the development of techniques of fabrication, to the end that today their steel hulls, whether round or Vee, are as smooth as wooden boats that they couldn't take all work that has been offered to them at that time. Numerous yards report that inquiries on new building still are flowing in. These prospective owners have one eye on their boat plans and the other on the world situation, particularly the Korean war, the builders say. A Korean peace will prompt many to go ahead in ordering both custom and stock craft, builders and dealers predict.

Down at the Mt. Desert Island Yacht Yard, two more of the 30-foot, revolutionary-designed sloops are being built. They are known as the Controversy 30. The original pilot model, named Controversy, has been sold by the yard to Dr. F. C. Grant, Philadelphia and Mt. Desert Island. Although designed for comfortable cruising for four, the Controversy proved herself a good sailing machine at her initial appearance in the 120-mile Monhegan Island Yacht Race in Maine last year. She's a beautiful, streamlined craft, which appears like she could be converted into an ultra-modern cruiser if her spars were removed.

The big, streamlined sport fishermen for Allison Laythan, Paterson, New Jersey, is getting the finishing touches at the Camden Shipbuilding Company, Camden. This 60½-foot craft looks more like a streamlined yacht than a sword fisherman. She's built extensively of mahogany and has a sleek deckhouse. There are dual controls, both on the flying bridge and in the deckhouse. There are accommodations aft: for the crew of four forward, with a large galley and Shipmate gas range. Owners' stateroom is aft. She'll have all the modern navigational equipment, and radio telephone and fathometer.

Bunker & Ellis Boat Yard, Mt. Desert Island, has added another section to their boathouse, miles from the waterfront, to build a 39-foot cabin boat for Thomas Falvey, New York. They also will build a 35-foot motor yacht for Thomas Gates, New York and Mt. Desert Island. Neither Raymond Bunker nor Ralph Ellis build boats during the Summer, only in the Winter. Bunker was Gates' yachting captain, and Ellis went seining.

Henry R. Hinckley & Company, Southwest Harbor, is building more of his Sou'Westers, auxiliary sailing yachts, and Rousabouts, 24-foot inboard boats. The yard did the interior work on a 24-foot BB impregnated Fibreglas boat from the Beetle Boat Company, New Bedford, Massachusetts. Her power is a 110 h.p. Gray. She was equipped with water and gas tanks, a refrigerator which can be reached from cabin or cockpit, monel sink and pump, two cockpit seats, windshield, lights and four bunk berths. Like most Maine yards, Hinckley has twice the storage business this year.

Another 24-foot cruiser is being built by the Peaboocot Boat Works, Rockport, for Dr. Roger N. Ryley, Mystic, Connecticut. She'll be powered by a 50 h.p. Lathrop engine, sleep four and be equipped for tuna fishing off Montauk Point, Long Island. She'll carry a steady rig, with sails built in England. Her delivery date is May. The yard also is constructing a similar craft for Eric Sexton, New Canaan, Connecticut, and Camden, and a fishing boat for A. H. Chatfield, Jr., Rockport and Naples, Florida, an official of the Maine Yacht Racing Association. Sexton's boat, an adaptation of the firm's stock cruiser, will have a raised deck accommodation cabin, fitted with enclosed toilet and berths for two, a complete galley and, in the deckhouse, a third folding berth. Power will be a 105 h.p. Chris-Craft engine with 2 to 1 reduction gears.

A 36½-foot sport fisherman has been completed by Linwood R. Riber, Harpwell boat builder, for Dr. J. Kenneth Coffin, Lewiston. She has a cabin with two berths, bath and galley. She's planked with native cedar and Everdure-fastened.

William Frost, South Portland boat builder, is constructing a twin-screw, 38-foot cruiser for Dr. Louis Farley, Portland, and has finished plans for a 45-foot, diesel-powered cruiser. On the drawing boards is a rough draft of a 24-foot sport craft for a Rhode Island man, whose father had a boat built by Frost in 1931 when he was located at Jonesport.

Lyman Cutts Compensator. Shotgun Comps are supplied in a set consisting of the Comp, one pattern control tube, wrench and metal head front sight. Additional tubes to give various choke features will be supplied if desired. Attached to the shotgun, recoil and climb are not only greatly reduced, but a positive pattern control condition results, giving a wide range of uniform, dense and consistent patterns, never heretofore available. The uniformity of patterns given by the pattern control tubes is achieved by the elimination of "breaks" or "blows" in the shot patterns. AUTOMATIC SHOT GUN

3 Shot Automatic Shot Gun, Light Weight. For years upland game hunters found the original Savage Lightweight Automatic the ideal shot gun for eliminating the fatigue of carrying a full weight gun over miles of rough country. The use of an ionizing, light but strong metal in constructing the receiver of the gun decreased its weight by a full pound. The new streamlined Model 775 retains this feature and includes improvements in design which make it even more outstanding for quality, performance and dependability. Plain round barrel. Speed of steel stock and fore-end selected walnut. Checkered. Full pistol grip stock length 14 inch. 5 1/2" drop at heel, 13 1/4" inch at comb. Friction ring adjustment for light and heavy loads. Hydraulic Lift Multiplies Jeep's Farm Uses Field Work. The 4-Wheel-Drive Universal Jeep has the traction, right speed range and drawbar horsepower for operating either pull-type or hydraulic-lift implements. The Jeep's dependable performance under adverse weather conditions often means insurance against crop losses—saves time.

Hauling. No need to use a big truck to haul a few bags of feed. The Universal Jeep, with its steel pick-up bed and speed range up to 60 mph., is just right for fast, economical hauling. Its 4-wheel-drive traction takes you through road and weather conditions when other vehicles can't.

Towing. Handiest of all vehicles for towing, the Universal Jeep readily pulls a load of 5000 pounds in the field or on the road. The Jeep has speed, plenty of reserve power for grades and its 4-wheel-drive provides the extra traction so often needed for slippery fields or heavy pulling.

This farm power unit with hydraulic lift pays off because it does so many kinds of jobs and, at the same time, helps you do a bigger day's work—easier. The Universal Jeep is a general-utility vehicle for hauling, transport and towing as well as an efficient field tractor. With 6 forward speeds and selective 2- and 4-wheel drive, the Jeep has correct speeds for field work plus normal highway speeds for hauling. Its unmatched combination of 4-wheel-drive, wide speed range, drawbar and optional hydraulic lift make the Universal Jeep widely useful for hard, 365-day-a-year farm work. Ask your Willys dealer for a demonstration.

Sell Jacobsen Mowers

THE LINE THAT GIVES YOU ALL THE ANSWERS

It's sometimes hard to convince a prospect that the power mower you sell is the kind he needs. But you can eliminate this big sales hurdle with the complete Jacobsen line. Here's how it works:

"I have a medium-size city lawn."

"Here are three Jacobsens tailor-made for you. The 18-inch Pacer — a fine cutting machine, light and easy to handle. The 21-inch Bantam — a full-size power mower at a small mower price. The 21-inch Lawn Queen — built to stand up and take it under extreme conditions."

LAWN QUEEN
21-INCH
CUTTING WIDTH

"I have a highly landscaped lawn."

"This 21-inch, rear-drive Jacobsen Manor or 24-inch Estate will cut right up close to those flower beds and trees, and gives you a wonderfully smooth lawn."

MANOR
21-INCH
CUTTING WIDTH

"I have a large, rolling lawn."

"The 26-inch Lawn King does a really big day's work and don't worry about those hills. The King will take them and make it look easy. If you're interested in real mass-production cutting, the 30-inch Park 30 is your mower. It's the one that large commercial users choose for strength and speed."

LAWN KING
CUTTING WIDTH

"Besides my lawn, I have rough areas to keep trimmed."

"Let me show you the Worthington Rotary Disc Mower. This type of cutter does a nice job on lawns — and handles those rough, seldom-cut areas almost as easily. I can give you a choice of seven sizes from 18 to 62 inches."

18
18-INCH

"I wish someone would think of a way to make leaf disposal as easy as power mowing."

"Jacobsen has a look! This power Leaf Mill picks up your leaves, grinds them into fine flakes and returns them to the lawn. Once over with this machine and there's nothing more to do. And you can easily interchange the Leaf Mill with a Lawn Mower or Sickle Mower attachment."

"MOTO-MOWER"

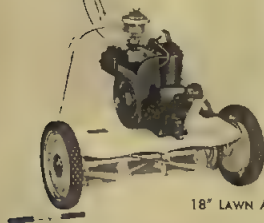

Best known name in power-lawn-mowing for thirty-three years

WEED TOPPER

The Weed-Topper, on the Moto-Boy and Scout, is an outstanding improvement over the conventional power lawn mower. A once-over cutting will leave a beautiful lawn—no obnoxious weeds, plantain, buckhorn or dandelions left uncut as the Weed-Topper cuts these ahead of the cutting reel . . . You, too, can have a lawn that is better done with the "Moto-Boy" or "Scout" with "Weed-Topper."

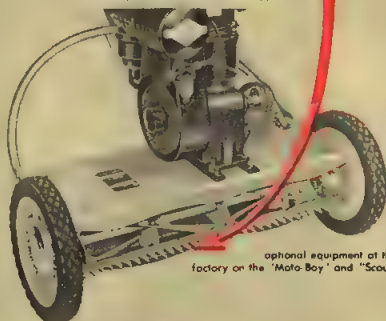

POWER CUT 17 1/2"

18" LAWN ACE

ROTO-MOWER 20"

optional equipment at the factory on the "Moto-Boy" and "Scout"

MOTO-MOWER, manufactured in the most modern plant in the industry employing all of the efficiencies of progressive conveyor production, is the standard of value in the power lawn mower field . . . Specifications that all four reel-type MOTO-MOWER models have in common: Reel, 6" diameter, 5 crucible steel blades, V-belt and chain drive; lever control at the handle bar. Cutting heights: 3/4" to 1 3/4" . . . Two Roto-Mower models 16" and 20" are driven by a vertical shaft engine which provides direct application of power to the horizontal whirl-blade of this type of mower, greatly simplifying its design and manufacture . . . The entire hardware line of MOTO-MOWERS consists of six different models; the four reel-types, sizes 17 1/2" to 22" . . . There is a model to take care of every size and type of lawn—to meet all competition . . . send for complete information.

MERCURY CRUISER

enjoy cruising at its carefree best

Exploring the far reaches of your favorite waterways or joining fellow skippers for a "round-up" at sundown there's fun and a life of ease for all hands aboard an outboard cruiser. New thousands are enjoying this fast growing sport and those who know outboards use Mercury for power.

The new Mercury "Cruiser" and several other Mercury models will power your cruiser safely and tirelessly—give you more performance per horsepower than any outboards on the market — bar none! The secret? Mercury engineering that puts power to work with the least loss, that converts torque to thrust, that puts more power at the prop where you want it. When you move up to a MERCURY you get a real bonus of horsepower.

Why not get in the "cruiser class" yourself? You'll be surprised how little it costs. Talk it over with your Mercury dealer or write for FREE catalogue "Move Up to a MERCURY". Kiekhaefer Corporation, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.

New MERCURY CRUISER with reverse gear and neutral. Outperforms outboards of more than twice its rated horsepower.

"41" SPORT CRUISER—the model for the off-shore fisherman. Sleeps 6—crew quarters for two—open cockpit 20 feet long. Hot water and shower available—flying bridge with dual controls if wanted.

"41" DELUXE SEDAN—the all around favorite of hundreds of yachtsmen. Sleeps 6—large aft cockpit for fishing—large enclosed and screened deckhouse. Two toilets and a world of locker space.

"41" FLYING BRIDGE DOUBLE CABIN—the thrilling new model everyone is raving about. New luxury for the whole family and the thrill of a flying bridge. Sleeps 6—two toilets—a super stateroom for the owner. Hot water, shower, and dual controls available.

Which model suits you best?

WHETHER you're a fishing "bug"—or a family cruising man, one of these three 1952 models of 41 footers will be your choice.

There is nothing that compares with a husky Matthews—acknowledged by yachtsmen everywhere to be in a class by itself—backed by 62 years of "know-how" with an untarnished record for quality, long life and highest resale value.

Some Matthews owners are now enjoying their 8th Matthews. It seems to be true that once you've owned one, no other cruiser can take its place.

Some prospective Matthews buyers will be disappointed this year because our production will be limited due to defense work. Check with your dealer today—he may be able to allocate a delivery to you.

finish line so the crews could find the finish line and be seen by the official committee as each finished the race. When the search lights were extinguished the California Bears and Stanford Indians were tied for the championship title as were the Pomona and USC teams for the second spot. During the day's racing both California and Stanford blew down the teams representing Pomona, Arizona, New Mexico and USC and wound up the day Even Stephen. All hands on the two top teams agreed to resuming hostilities on the 29th in order that the deadlock could be broken, and as the date for the sail-off was the same date as the start of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club's annual Christmas regatta it was decided by race committee officials that the sail-off would consist of the best two of three races, these to start at 10:00 a.m.

In this stanza of the Pacific Coast championship series the California Bears took two of the three races to win the 7th annual Pacific Coast Intercollegiate dinghy sailing championships. It was the fourth consecutive year for the Bears to capture the title and the third straight year for the Indians to wind up in the runner-up position. California's team had as its members Larry Shep, Leonard Smith and Drew Gram while the Stanford trio consisted of Paul Merrill, Mike Jaeger and Dan Elliott. Series high point scoring honors went to California's Leonard Smith whose teammate Larry Shep wound up this division of the competition in second place and Stanford's Paul Merrill in third position.

The Coed Contest

Seven coeds braved the heavy winds and cold rains which had marked the series to take part in the annual Betty Coed contests. It was a rough day for title-defending Jean Reed of Stanford who finished the feminine series in seventh spot while the title went to Barbara Turner of the California Bears. She had as her crew Drew Gram.

All of the races in the Pacific Coast and Betty Coed title series were sailed in Lehman class plastic dinghies.

With these two series out of the way all eyes were turned on the Rose Bowl races which, under normal circumstances, would have been between Stanford and Illinois. However, Illinois had no sailing team so Illinois' place on the program was taken by a crew of mighty good sailormen representing Purdue University, which team drove overland to engage in the important Battle of the Bilges. Purdue's team was made up of Jim Roberts, John McKeague and John Wolsifer and though the course and the class of boats sailed were both new to the Hoosiers they severely and unceremoniously trounced the Stanford team. Purdue's team won all the series races by wide margins. Leaders 16 slongs were used for this championship series.

Norman Pabst, who served the Southern California Yachting Association as its commodore in 1939, always said that that governing body was held together by nothing more than a gossamer thread. Regardless of the frailty of this binding material the association went along from its inception in 1921 until the last part of 1951 without showing any severe signs of disintegrating. That disintegration started in the early part of 1949 when a member of one of the association's smaller yacht clubs was elected to the high office of commodore. At the time of this election one of the association's oldest and staunchest supporters made the statement that "paper yacht clubs" were taking over the operation of the important body. The true meaning of that statement was that the club's which had nothing invested in real estate or building had taken over the operation of the Southern California Yachting Association and were going to plan and govern its destinies. In the same trend of thought, clubs affiliated with the Southern California Yachting Association which had thousands of dollars invested in land and buildings and which had at their disposal waters in which a major regatta could be held were going to have to follow the dictates of these "paper" yacht clubs.

Class A and B Clubs

Recently the major yacht clubs affiliated with SCYA mullied over the condition in which they found SCYA. Two of these major clubs worked out a plan of dividing the

WITH THE "Studio View" RECTANGULAR PICTURE TUBE

NOW you can enjoy "Living Image" Television, exactly as telecast . . . as real as life itself on a full 17-inch filter-face rectangular screen. You see all the picture with "studio view" realism—rich in contrast, detailed, sharp—kept absolutely steady by the automatic Synchro-Hold circuit feature. Automatic Gain Control assures photographic realism under all viewing conditions. Tuning is simplicity itself with the 12-position All-Channel Selector that brings both picture and sound in right "on the beam"—automatically synchronized. The built-in Magna-Tenna does away with awkward antenna installations in most locations. And for your complete enjoyment, the MITCHELL "Living Image" picture is watched by a quality of tone so realistic, so true, you'll feel you're hearing as well as seeing the program right in the studio. Your Mitchell Television receiver is housed in a custom-grade cabinet, using only the finest woods. Available in Blonde or Mahogany finish—hand-rubbed to smooth, lustrous perfection.

SYNCHRO-HOLD TUNING

BUILT-IN MAGNA-TENNA

Latest type built-in antenna, fixed for maximum signal pickup. No adjustments necessary. Outside antenna can be attached for fringe area use.

EASY BEAM TUNING

Single knob brings in sound and picture automatically synchronized. Fine adjustments, seldom necessary, are on front panel. Tunes all TV channels.

AUTOMATIC GAIN CONTROL

Keeps picture contrast and clarity constant. Holds sound volume uniform. Automatically bans flutter or "tearing" caused by electrical interference.

PIN-POINT FOCUS

Special circuit feature automatically builds up a sharp, strong, full-contrast picture. Glare-free 17" tube is virtually flat, shows no distortion.

SUPERB FM TONE

SPECIFICATIONS

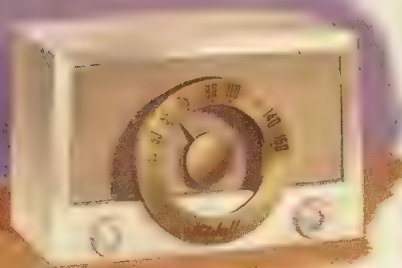

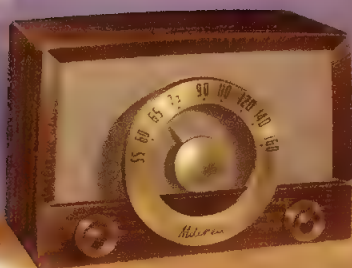

Advanced Television circuit design. Features: 17-inch Rectangular Dark Faces Picture Tube. Includes built-in Magna-Tenna, Synchro-Hold Picture Stabilizer, continuous type All-Channel Station Selector, Automatic Gain Control, Alnico PM Dynamic speaker, connection for attaching automatic record changer or phonograph player. Chassis incorporates twenty tubes including Kinescope and two rectifiers. Console measures 39" high, 22" wide, 19 1/4" deep. For 110-120 volt, 60 cycle A.C. only. Shpg. wt., 110 lbs.

now when to sell my share."

I couldn't take the job, but I told her that she was on the right track. "You need a professional farm manager, a good one whom you can trust. You needn't begrudge his fee, because your increased income—with no headaches—will pay his fee several times over on a sizable, productive farm."

IN THE 30 years I've been in this farm management work, I've known many women who own farms which they rent to tenant farmers. Most of these women are in a constant stew, and to put it mildly—they usually are a pain in the neck to their tenants, as well as their farm and financial advisers.

They'd go to a doctor if they had health problems. If they had legal difficulties, they'd consult a lawyer. But it's hard for them to realize that they also need professional help in the business that means their very livelihood!

Some object to the "high cost" of such a service. My reply is that any woman who needs a farm manager pays for one whether she hires him or not. If she goes without the expert help she needs, she merely takes a lower income. As a bonus, she reaps that worried look.

Take the case of the woman who built a $4,000 machine shed—when what she really needed was more grain storage. Another, who owned a cash grain farm, spent a lot of money building fences strong enough to turn a bull. Then there was the widow who rebuilt and made major repairs on buildings that were obsolete; she'd better have torn them down.

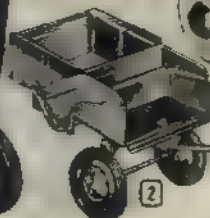

A common mistake made by women with farms on their hands is to allow their tenants to exploit the land with no effort to maintain its earning power. Unknowingly, they are "selling their land an inch at a time."

Or they'll write the kind of lease that leads to trouble, instead of one

THE CHALLENGE

from its proper place—more than likely into someone's lap!

Day-wise, we know we can re-start the engine or at worst drift the boat into some shelter from almost any spot we are likely to be in, provided we can do it in moderate comfort. Furthermore, we believe that any skipper who goes outside, with a single engine should provide some means of keeping his ship's head to the seas.

Obviously, the answer is to have a good sea-anchor on board!

Fresh Out of Sea Anchor

At about the time we made that startling discovery, every supply house within our reach was fresh out of sea-anchors, except one. We took one horrified look at the ring and cone that was offered and hastily decided that while it might make a beautiful wigwag for the kids to spend the summer in, on shore, it had no place in our seagoing lives, or on our boat.

But something always provides an answer! Within a week of that time we read an article on blue-water seamanship, wherein some seasoned sea-dog described an effective emergency sea anchor constructed from a small spare spar, a heavy blanket and a couple of pigs of ballast, set to a bridle and bent to a long line.

We don't carry any spars, much less spare ones, and pigs of ballast are also on our list of what not to carry. However we were convinced that if they could do it under emergency conditions, we could do at least as well with time on our hands.

We secured a piece of heavy canvas five feet square, clamped one doubled-over edge between two 2 x 3's five feet long, sewed and rivetted a length of 3/8-inch galvanized chain into the bottom hem, and stuck a shackle in each end through both canvas and chain, for the double purpose of keeping the chain stretched in place, and to provide attachment for lines or extra weights if we ever wanted to fasten them at those points. Finally, we bored holes through the ends of the 2 x 3's, spliced in a rope bridle, mildewproofed and waterproofed the whole thing, and it was done.

Stows Very Easily

Rolled around its own top-atics it is a marvel to stow. Ours goes under the aft seat cushions, on top of the gas tank, where it can be broken out at a moment's notice and launched from the cockpit, after being made fast to a line brought from forward.

This, of course, is no drogue, and can not be used as such. It is strictly a sea anchor. With 25 square feet of canvas hanging downward in the water under the pull of that chain, tests show that it sure will keep our nose up. We suspect that it is about twice as large as we need, but for this once we will not be stingy. We'd rather be comfortable.

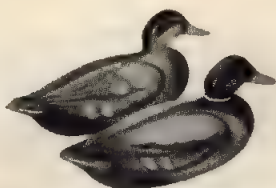

We have never yet brought lines back from those lower shackles. If we ever do, surely it will be suspended there a hundred feet ahead of our bow, like an underwater spinnaker!

Plugged Water Intakes

We spoke before of plugged water intakes. Never suffer one any longer than it takes to find that you have it!

See to it that your hull fitting has a straightaway sea-cock or gate valve made up to it (do not use a globe valve). Attach a brass Y fitting to the sea-cock, with a brass close nipple; connect the pump suction to the angle branch of the Y and screw a plug into the remaining opening.

If you suspect your intake is fouled, close the cock, screw out the plug, and open the cock again. If the intake is fouled, little or no water will flow into the hull. Frod down and around with a slender rod, kept handy for that purpose (3/16-inch welding rod is perfect). When the water starts to spout, close the cock, replace the plug, open the cock again and you are off.

Re-seeding Range Can Triple Beef Gains

If you re-seed a native pasture to one of the better grasses, it makes a big difference in the amount of beef you can raise there.

At the Oklahoma Experiment Station a bunch of Hereford steers gained only 47 pounds a head on native range, from November around to the next October. But a similar bunch on a pasture, re-seeded to weeping love grass, put on 148 pounds apiece.

Steers gained 109 pounds per acre on sand lovegrass, 91 pounds on a mixture of blue grama, side-outs grama, western wheat grass, and 61 pounds on buffalo grass. And they've averaged out about that way for 5 years.

Although weeping lovegrass made the best gains, it's less palatable, shorter-lived, and cattle grazing it graded lower.

As for sand lovegrass, calves usually doubled their weight on it from November to next October, but because it's more palatable it had to be watched for over-grazing damage.

Ewes on Good Ration Don't Need Extra B-12

Nursing ewes don't have to be fed extra amounts of vitamin B-12 if they are getting a good ration, so tests at the University of Wisconsin show.

Two groups of ewes there got the same alfalfa hay, corn silage, oats, wheat bran, and linseed meal, and had access to trace-mineralized salt. One group also got some vitamin supplement besides, but didn't seem to do any better.

There wasn't any noticeable difference in the health or thriftiness between the two bunches—either in the lambs or the ewes.

Saves A Man

One man can dock and castrate lambs, says Wayne Holloway of Gooding Co., Idaho, who rigged up this lamb holder. Just put lamb on its back (head up), hook hind legs down against belly.

It might indicate that when an animal is getting a ration that's properly balanced, it doesn't need high-priced "extras."

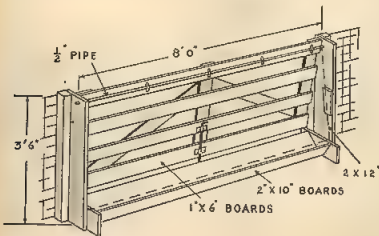

It's Easy to Avoid Salt Poisoning

Salt poisoning gets more blame for pigs dying than it deserves, says Prof. Robert Grammer of the University of Wisconsin.

Nevertheless pigs can die of poisoning if (1) they haven't had enough salt for a while and then are fed some; if (2) the hogs are slobbered so that they gulp down a lot in a short time; or (3) if the trough is too small, so that they have to fight for it and get what they can in a hurry.

The answer is to give them enough salt in the feed regularly, and give each pig a chance to eat enough. Then you'll likely avoid trouble.

Contributors to this month's Livestock Department: Ceno E. Emery, University of Nevada; Robert E. Hinton, Gooding, Idaho; Chet Randolph, Ankeny, Iowa.

You know what a temper-testing job feeding hogs can be. Here's a gate and trough combination that saves spilled feed and tempers at the same time. Swinging gate holds hogs away until trough is filled, then is swung back and hooked so they can eat. The drawing shows how to build it.

A NEW COMPLETE LINE OF OWENS FLAGSHIPS!

Decide now to check farther on the new complete line of Owens Flagships for 1953—before you invest in a new boat.

Learn the details of the wide selection of new Owens Flagships soon to be built in two price ranges.

For the discriminating few, the new Flagship Series offers the utmost in comfort and construction—yachts that bring genuine pride of ownership. The Flagship series are built to the very highest specifications known to the boating industry—with the character and poise, styling and seamanship traditionally Owens but now of a character, and quality finer than anything we have produced before.

For those who want big boat comfort within new standards of economy, the Owens Cruiser Series offers the ideal answer. They open the door to new boating pleasure for thousands—on the lakes and rivers and bays all over the country.

And yet each Owens is built to be first in Livability, first in Seaworthiness, first in Value! Built on salt water for open water use, Owens designs have lead the field for decades in the ability to take the toughest going tenderly like a lady. Feature for feature, Owens owners will tell you that here are yachts fashioned for greater comfort—with roomier interiors, larger more convenient galleys and toilets, wider berths and aisles.

You need only compare to determine for yourself that, because of more careful design, Owens offers a matchless blending of sturdy construction, sound seaworthiness, and solid comfort. But you must compare!

40' Flagship

A luxury yacht. Sleeps 6 in 4 cabins. Flying Bridge promenade deck, Twin Screw, gas or diesel.

30' Sedar

Two cabin privacy. All mahogany planked. Beautiful, well lighted galley. Big ice box. Speeds to 18 m.p.h. "Living room" deck cabin and spacious aft cockpit.

30' Express

All mahogany planked. Sleeps 6. Lavatory with 7" hand-room. Fly-bridge deck—one level 53 sq. ft. Speeds to 27 m.p.h. twin screw.

Broader Line of Owens Flagship Engines!

You may also look to Owens for a broader line of Flagship Marine Engines (gasoline and diesel)—engines proved for dependability and efficiency of performance in thousands of installations in this country and abroad and actually preferred by a wide margin of commercial boat operators.

24' Cruiser

GALLEY GAFF

Cheese as any easy cold weather meal—but add imagination as an ingredient. There's diced ham, mushrooms with a cream sauce, chopped olives, any of which make a new exciting dish out of inexpensive macaroni.

At Home Preparation: You'll need a basic cheese sauce. Use a heavy skillet or double boiler. Use equal weights of butter or margarine and flour. For instance, if you use 2 tablespoons of shortening you will want about 4 of flour. Heat slowly, stirring constantly. Add milk slowly and blend until smooth and fairly thin consistency. Remember, it will thicken after you have added cheese and it cools. Add diced or grated cheese, a few drops of Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper, and dry mustard if desired. You just have to taste this one while you are making it in order to get the seasoning right for you and your guests.

For plain macaroni and cheese, just add cooked macaroni to this sauce. Stir it gently but thoroughly and pour into greased baking dish. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, paprika and grated cheese. This will keep several days in the refrigerator.

Shipboard Preparation: If you don't have the oven facilities for heating this dish, try cutting one-inch slices, covering them in bread crumbs, then fry.

PELICAN HOOK

Rough weather may make eating somewhat of a hazard to freshly pressed trousers and socks. Those coffee mugs can be put to good use if filled with soup. And soup can be a rib-tickler and no one will deny that soup can be hot.

For a quickie right off the shelf over the stove, take a can of tomato soup and a can of pea soup. Dilute according to directions and stir together while heating. Then add a can of crabmeat. Charley calls it a "pelican hook" because you can get it ready so quickly and you can hang on, the colder the day the better. Melba toast or saltines are the thing to go with it, but if you're really hungry, serve pilot crackers.

"THE OLD MAN'S SOUP"

Another quickly prepared combination which can come out of stores is this filling mixture: Take two cans of tomato soup, dilute and stir in one can of cooked dry lima beans while heating. Peanut butter and chopped green pepper sandwiches top it off. Put this down in your shipboard recipe book as "The Old Man's Soup."

Chinese egg drop might seem out of place aboard a yacht but it can be the most warming of all soups. And it's easy to make, believe it or not. Use two cans of chicken broth with rice or noodles (not chicken soup). Heat to a point just below boiling and stir rapidly so that the broth is swirling in the pan. Drop in slowly one well-beaten egg. Egg drops will form. You can color and improve the flavor by adding a few drops of soy sauce. Serve with celery and carrot sticks, cottage cheese and apple pie.

When you finally do put the boat up—if you can't keep it in all year—plan a Sailing Party for Landlubbers. Charley will have a menu for the at-home rendezvous next time. Then you can reminisce to your heart's content over the summer's adventures and enjoy a day's cruise right in your own living room.

WILLARD B. COOK

Yachtsmen in many parts of the country will be sorry to learn of the death of Willard B. Cook at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y., on February 20.

Mr. Cook was an ardent boating enthusiast for most of his eighty years and had cruised extensively on Puget Sound, to Alaska, and on the East Coast as far north as Nova Scotia. With his family, Mr. Cook spent 26 summers afloat and his last cruiser, the 62-ft. Ivirna, was a familiar sight along the Intracoastal Waterway and on the canals of New York State.

IT MUSTN'T Happen Here!

CLOSED FOR LACK OF SCRAP

... YET SCRAP INVENTORIES ARE ALARMINGLY LOW. YOU ARE BEING COUNTED ON TO HELP KEEP THE FURNACES WORKING . . . TO AID DEFENSE

With our increased steel production, the furnaces are gobbling up an enormous amount of iron and steel scrap.

More—far more—scrap than is at present going into their scrap stockpiles.

Many mills are operating on a hand-to-mouth basis. Some are already threatened with shut-down—for lack of scrap.

The Danger Is Increasing

Will efforts to fill the tremendous demands for steel fail because of lack of scrap?

Steel is made from 50% scrap. We could be severely handicapped—in our aim to keep abreast of both military and civilian requirements—if scrap suppliers can't keep pace with productive capacity.

But they can keep pace . . . with your help!

Enough Scrap IS Available!

Yes—the only problem is to get the available extra scrap from where it is—to where it's needed.

Where is it?

In your business . . . in the form of old machines and equipment, tools, implements, dies, jigs, fixtures, outmoded structures, chains, valves, wheels, pulleys—any old iron and steel that's rusting away.

Six Million EXTRA Tons Needed!

By the end of 1952, we'll be producing steel at an annual rate of 20 million tons more than in 1950. That means we will need at least 6 million more tons of scrap than we've ever needed before.

It's up to you. Write at once to Advertising Council, 25 W 45 St., New York 19, N. Y., for a free copy of "Top Management: Your Program For Emergency Scrap Recovery".

Please write today—there's not a day to lose.

NON-FERROUS SCRAP IS NEEDED, TOO!

PENNSYLVANIAS ARE MADE

Intentionally Better!

When they do need sharpening, it is only necessary to remove 4 bolts to release the cutting unit; reassembly is equally easy. This saves time and money.

For 1953 this great line will offer even more advantages to those who sell lawn mowers as well as those who use them. Definitely, Pennsylvanias will again lead the field in quality and owner satisfaction.

As you know, people say the finest things about Pennsylvania power and hand mowers. In addition to friendly word of mouth advertising from satisfied owners, Pennsylvania will again carry on a strong national advertising campaign. Line up with a full Pennsylvania line in '53. Ask your wholesaler.

Frigidaire's "Thrifty-30"—low-priced cooking marvel—with a huge 6-pie oven!

Here's a range to make your eyes dance—the famous "Thrifty 30"! Just 30 inches wide—imagine! Yet the big, big oven takes a 30-pound turkey with ease—or bakes six pies at once. What's more, you'll enjoy automatic cooking. The exclusive Cook-Master Oven Clock Control master-minds an entire dinner, while you're out of the kitchen doing other things you want to do. New Radiantube Cooking Units give more heat on less current.

You'll love the smart good looks of this little beauty. And remember—Frigidaire craftsmen built it, covered it with easy-cleaning, good-looking Lifetime Porcelain finish, for a long, satisfying career in your home. See the "Thrifty-30"—biggest little range ever designed—at your Frigidaire Dealer's soon.

Only the Frigidaire "Wonder Oven" Range bakes and broils in the same oven—at the same time!

This is truly dream cooking! Right in the same oven—right at the same time—you bake as you broil or roast. Because here you have two good-sized ovens. Each with its own heat. Each doing its own job. Each making life easier, simpler, more fun! And in a matter of seconds you can transform these two ovens into one huge oven!

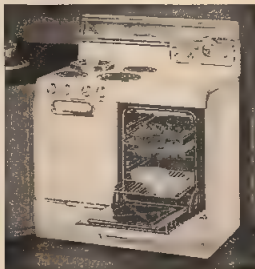

So many other conveniences, too. The famous Cook-Master Oven Clock Control lets you out of the kitchen while entire meals cook to mouth-watering goodness. You'll get more, and faster heat on less current with new 5-Speed Radiantube Surface Units. And Lifetime Porcelain finish, inside and out, gives you damp-cloth cleaning ease over a long, long lifetime of service. See the range that's built to be fun to use—Frigidaire's "Wonder Oven" right away!

Look! It's 2 ovens—Each with its own heat control. Top oven 10½" high, bottom oven 9½" high—plenty of room for every normal need.

Look at that steak—juicy, tender, broiling to appetizing goodness. And—you can believe your eyes—there's a cake, baking to moist, fluffy perfection in the same oven! That's "Wonder Oven" cooking ease!

UP IN POLLY'S ROOM.

Dear
Polly

Going to Camp—

Dear Polly: I'm going to camp for a week. What shall I take along?

JEANNE, IDAHO

• Ask whoever's in charge for a list of things you'll need. Usually you need a flashlight, tooth paste, soap in a covered dish, towels, wash-cloth, and camera.

In clothing, you'll probably want a bathing suit, shorts, dungarees, blouses and halters, a sweater or jacket, play shoes, and rain togs. Take one dress that doesn't show soil, for church.

Don't take along any valuables, since there'll probably be no place to keep them. Check to see if you'll need bedding—it depends on the camp.

Changing Schools—

Dear Polly: We've moved, and I'll go to a different school this fall. I'm scared at the thought of making all new friends, even though I have changed schools before, and have always been popular. Last year I was a cheer leader. Should I try out again? Can you offer any other suggestions?

JERRY, NEW MEXICO

• You've already learned that getting into school activities is a good way to make friends. By all means try out for cheer leader again. Even if you don't get the job, the kids will spot you as the friendly kind of girl who likes to do things.

Start now to make new friends. If you go to church and community affairs, you're sure to meet kids from your school. You'll find it easier to make friends a few at a time this summer, than all at once when you start at the new school.

Taking His Friend

Dear Polly: My boy friend asked me for a date to go to an amusement park. Later I found out he was planning to take another boy along, which I think would spoil our fun. But what can I do?

EVELYN, KENTUCKY

• You could suggest that you find another girl and make it a foursome. A double date can be lots of fun at an amusement park. But if that doesn't work out, be a good sport about it.

Meet Boys at Theater?

Dear Polly: My girl friends and I have been meeting our boy friends at the movie theater. Mother won't let me go, now that she knows we're meeting boys—she says nice girls don't meet fellows in town. What do you think?

ANNE, GEORGIA

• I agree with your mother—the boys should call for you at home.

Hand-Me-Downs . . .

Dear Polly: Ever since I can remember, I have worn hand-me-down clothes from my cousins. I'm almost 14 now, and would like to have new things, because the kids tease me about my clothes. How can I make mother understand this?

HELEN, DELAWARE

• Maybe mother does understand, but perhaps the budget won't stretch to cover all new clothes for you. If you talk it over with her, she might manage to get you a few new things.

But hand-me-downs can be really attractive, if you make them fit you. Add little touches of your own—a tricky scarf, a new belt, or a little tie—that will make a dress really yours.

feet and a jib of 168 square feet. "All I'm waiting for is Spring to come so we can rig her up and see what she can do against some of today's so-called hot rigs," says Peterson, whose yard has built some real big racing machines.

Boat Builders Working Hard

A 40-foot ketch from the designs of G. H. Stadel, Jr., Stamford, Conn., is being constructed at the Baum & Bonivito Boat Yard, Kennebunk. She's planked with mahogany, inch and a quarter, and has a half pine deck. Auxiliary power will be provided by a Jeep engine. She'll carry 3,900 pounds of iron ballast. The main spar will be 42 feet above the deck.

The Kollegewidgwok Yacht Club, Blue Hill Bay, has ordered a 26-foot motor boat from Frank L. Day & Sons Boat Yard, Sedgwick, for use as a launch and a committee boat. Designed by Leonard Richards, Wayne, Penna., she is scheduled for June delivery. Power will be provided by a 90-h.p. Scripps with 2 to 1 reduction, and will include a small storage cabin with toilet forward, and a shelter over the controls. There'll be seating facilities around the back and sides of the cockpit and on the engine box.

Another trim 34-foot cruiser, similar to Balaco built for a Portland physician last year, is being constructed by the Vincent Cavanaugh Boat Shop, Merchant's Wharf, Portland. He's building the hull on speculation and will finish the cabin work to meet requirements of a purchaser. Balaco produced a speed of 18 knots with a Palmer 120.

Activity at Mr. Desert Island boat yards continues, with no indication of a letdown. Bunker & Ellis Boat Yard have finished a 42-foot cruiser for Thomas Falvey, New York, and moved her out of the shed for launching this month. She's powered by a 165-h.p. Gray diesel, and equipped with a 25-watt Ray-Jefferson radio-telephone. Below decks she sleeps four and has a toilet and galley. She has a watertight cockpit and a steering shelter. The yard has started construction of a 35-foot cruiser for Roger Milliken, New York and Northeast Harbor. She'll be powered by a 160-h.p. Chrysler Majestic and be equipped with a 10-watt RCA radio-telephone.

Construction of two 22-foot Bass fishermen has been completed by Rich & Grindle Boat Yard for the Providence Foundry Co., R. I. The yard has an order for another one, but won't start her until it has completed a 32-foot sport fisherman for Henry Wass, Southwest Harbor. The Wass craft will be powered by a Gray 330. She's expected to be ready for launching this month.

Preparing for Launchings

Rich Boat Yard has finished the construction of a 28-foot motor boat for Boyd Lee Spahr, Philadelphia and Southwest Harbor. She'll be powered by a Chrysler engine, and be launched this month.

The Bass Harbor Boat Yard is building a 35-foot cruiser for J. P. Grace, New York. Her power will be a 160-h.p. Chrysler Majestic. She'll have accommodations for four and a galley and toilet in the mahogany trunk cabin. Her beam is 10 feet, draft 3 feet.

Already twenty 15-foot Kingfisher runabouts have been built and sold in a few months by the Henry R. Hincley & Company, Southwest Harbor, which is mass producing these craft along with active construction of Sou'Wester sailing sloops and Roustabout utilities. The big yard also is constructing the interiors for the Fiberglass cruisers of the Beetle Boat Company, New Bedford, Mass., on a mass production basis. Hincley reports that the handsome 50-foot auxiliary cutter Jean, which he personally used the past few years, has been sold to Charles Granville, Wilton, Conn. He's also sold the 32-foot auxiliary sloop Clipper II to Arthur Behal, New York City, and the Sou'Wester Betsy to William Richardson, Noroton, Conn.

Get these two new Saunders' action-toys on your counter and prepare for action! The No. 490 Stock Car shown at left, is equipped with a "revved up" friction motor the kids will go for. Made of durable, shock-resistant red plastic with contrasting detail numbers on each door, natural steel crash guard in front, aluminum sprayed grill and bumper. Removable hood shows simulated motor underneath. Car is $8\frac{1}{4}$ " long, 3" wide, and $3\frac{1}{4}$ " high. Individually boxed. Order No. 490.

Here's real speed and action in a toy—the Saunders' No. 700 Jaguar. Modeled after the popular Jaguar sports car, it is constructed of shock resistant red plastic. Features brand new speedy friction motor, a hood that lifts up to expose simulated motor and an exhaust opening from which sparks fly as car rolls along. Also equipped with man in driver's seat and windshield. 9" Long, $3\frac{3}{16}$ " Wide, and 3" High. Individually boxed. Order No. 700.

TOOL and DIE CO. ★ Aurora, Illinois

(live) from your pond to your hydrant, you'll need a silt box in the pond.

This screened wooden box at the inlet to the pipe should be located about a foot above the pond bottom. Then silt will not be pulled into the pipe and clog up your line when the pump starts throwing water.

If you can't find regular fire hydrants, you can get by with a pipe elbow with a standard fire hydrant thread.

If your pond is higher than the hydrants, be sure to get the kind equipped with a valve and drip to prevent freezing. If the hydrant is higher than the pond, the outlet must not be over 15 feet above water level.

You can see that a hydrant set-up is more expensive than a barrel, but it's permanent, and brings your water supply close to where you need it.

Howard Gilmore, Worcester County, Mass., apple grower, whose place is shown in the picture, has never had a fire, but he is ready for one. He has four hydrants connected to his pond.

One is near his home and the main farm buildings. Another is farther up the road near the dwellings for his son and the farm workers and a huge packing shed for the 110-acre apple orchard.

Two more hydrants are in the orchard itself, where Gilmore uses them to supply spray rigs and for irrigation.

This layout—hydrants, pipe lines, silt boxes and all—cost Gilmore close to $4,500. But he values his buildings, plus the crops and equipment in them, at roughly $125,000. Savings on insurance will soon pay for his set-up.

The fire department in town has tested his hydrants, even made practice runs and hook-ups. Just the satisfaction of protection like this alone is worth more than the $4,500, Gilmore feels.

If you don't have a pond, you could hook up to a creek. A place outside to hook onto your water system is a possibility, too. You need a connection to a main line with a valve underground to keep the outlet from freezing.

If you want to put in hydrants, better call in someone who knows something about water systems, says Gilmore. It's a technical job. Wilson O. Hill, technician with the Soil Conservation Service, helped Gilmore.

But until you get something better, you can rig up a brine barrel or "ever-ready hole" in your pond yourself—and you can do it right now. Before the winter's over, you may be mighty glad it's there!

SIMPLEX BALL BEARING SCREW JACKS

The drop forged steel cap rides on a chrome molybdenum steel ball, which rests on a hardened steel thrust washer. Frame of refined gray iron with a flared and reinforced base. Forged steel screw is exposed at the hand hole, so user can see how high load can be raised safely. The ball in the head reduces friction and increases power.

"SEEDS AND SPARK PLUGS HAVE MUCH IN COMMON"

SAYS MR. DICK McKENNA OF FERRY-MORSE

Mr. Dick McKenna, Superintendent of the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.'s headquarters, ranch at San Juan Bautista, California.

Plowing garden beds with special harvesting equipment, designed by Ferry-Morse, and built to their specifications.

Gilbert Bentley, scientist at Oakview trial grounds near Rochester, Michigan, records cucumber trials.

A self-propelled vine seed thrasher designed by and built for Ferry-Morse, threshes Zucchini Squash.

Here in the earthquake resistant proof vault are stored Ferry-Morse's irreplaceable foundation stocks.

John McKenna, Supt., and John Moran, Asst. Supt., record cabbage trials at Salinas (Cal.) trial grounds.

Air view of the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.'s 900-acre headquarters ranch at San Juan Bautista, California.

Founded in 1856, the Ferry-Morse Seed Co., has grown in fame until today its name is known throughout the world as a symbol of quality seeds.

At San Juan Bautista, California, Ferry-Morse operates 900 acres devoted exclusively and intensively to scientific growing of seed stocks. In addition, Ferry-Morse operates 430 acres of seed breeding station, and trial grounds in California, Florida, Idaho and Michigan, and uses over 40,000 acres of growing grounds in twenty states.

Quality control—testing, breeding, checking for truthness to type—and experimental work towards new strains and types are all part of the exacting routine.

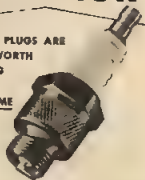

Mr. Dick McKenna, Superintendent at San Juan Bautista, says, "As I see it, spark plugs are very much like seeds. Each starts and sustains a vital function. The better the seed, the better the results and the better the spark plug, the better the performance."

"We use a wide variety of power equipment in running our farms on strict schedule. These cars, trucks, tractors and special farming machines are equipped with Champion Spark Plugs—exclusively. We have found that, year in and year out, Champions give us the ultimate in spark plug performance, economy and dependability."

SAIL IN '50

South American nitrate trade, out and back around the Horn. After World War I, during which period she was laid up at Santa Rosalia, Mexico, the Hans was taken over by the British Government. Later she was towed to San Francisco to become a part of the Robert Dollar Company fleet. However, a slump in shipping prevented her from sailing under her new house flag, and she stayed inactive for another eight years. In 1937 when she changed hands again, her towering rig was cut off completely, a house built over her main deck, and, re-named Tango, she became a gambling barge anchored off Long Beach, California. The law eventually closed her down, and once more she was laid up.

Abundance of Marine Growth

In 1941 when there was a shortage of shipping, Tango was re-rigged as a six-masted baldheaded schooner. When she was dry-docked for the first time in eighteen years, about forty tons of marine growth were removed from her underbody. In 1942 the huge schooner, the eighth largest fore-and-aft ever to have sailed, made her first passage under sail in twenty-eight years, carrying 3,000,000 board feet of Oregon pine to Cape Town by way of Cape Horn. She was 103 days at sea. Her freight income had been close to $20,000; her refit had been $100,000, but extremely high crew wages cut all profit. Her American owners were glad to get rid of her in 1943 when Portuguese buyers appeared on the scene. At the time she was at Durban, her new owners sailed her to Lorenzo Marques.

In 1944 she again changed hands but not flags. After a long delay, she loaded coal for Lobito. A storm drove her into Durban for repairs. On her way again, a second gale sent her into Cape Town, anchoring there December 30, 1945. Five months later a steamer towed her to Lobito. In August the same steamer towed her to Lisbon. She never went to sea again. In 1948 she was sold at auction, and soon after was dismantled; in 1950 her remains were sold to the ship breakers.

Old-Timers Destroyed

On the far side of the world, two old-timers were destroyed. The former iron bark Lutterworth, built as far back as 1868 at Hartlepool, England, was one of these. A speedy little vessel of 883 tons, she was once part of the well-known Shaw, Savill Line. For thirty years she traded between the United Kingdom and New Zealand. Her sailing days ended in 1906 when she was dismantled in Cook Straits. Abandoned by her crew who had been rescued by a steamer, the drifting hulk was picked up by a tiny coaster which towed her in to port. Used as a hulk in Wellington Harbor since then, she was sunk off the port by Royal New Zealand Air Force planes on June 26 when her tired old hull was of no further service. Another windjammer, this one sunk by the Royal Australian Air Force on June 7, was the Bankfields, last of the Free-mantle hulks. Launched as the 859-ton iron bark James Beazley in Sunderland, England, in 1876, she was owned in Liverpool for many years. Later she was in trade between New Zealand, Australia, and South Africa. She had been a hulk since 1910.

Several other former sailing ships were removed from the records on our West Coast. The Canadian barge Homeward Bound was scrapped by the Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Company in Seattle during November. A 2000-ton ship, she had been built as the Zemindar at Belfast, Ireland, in 1885 for the Brocklebanks to be used in the Calcutta jute trade. When Brocklebank gave up sail for steam, she went under the German flag as the Otto Gildermeister. After dismantling in 1901, she was re-rigged in San Francisco as a bark. With the cost of repairs so high, she was able to come under the U. S. flag. Her new owners, Hind, Ralph & Company, re-named her Homeward Bound. Eight years later she became a part of the Alaska Packers fleet as the Star of Holland. For the next two decades she made the annual run north

INFORMATION ON MARINE METAL PROBLEMS

A technical consultation center on metal problems such as corrosion resisting, non-magnetic, and high strength alloys is offered at this year's International Nickel Company display at the Show. Naval architects, builders, and yachtsmen will find answers to many questions about selection and preservation of marine metals during the present period of emergency.

Due to government restrictions, only boats that are essential to defense, such as naval vessels and commercial fishermen, can obtain the high nickel alloys such as Monel. But the exhibit shows basic applications for all marine and motor boat uses, including corrosion-resistant fuel and water tanks, constructed in accordance with National Fire Protection Association recommendations.

Although the annual exhibit of propeller shafts from Gold Cup winning, 160 m.p.h. racers like Slo-Mo-Shun IV and V are missing this year, the type of ring-toothed shank, corrosion-resistant nail which fastened the craft so firmly that not even the varnish cracked, is on display.

PARAGON'S 50TH ANNIVERSARY

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Paragon Gear Works, Taunton, Massachusetts.

This half-century of service to the marine industry has seen Paragon pioneering many improvements and developments to keep pace with the increasing speed of marine engines.

Paragon has always concentrated on reverse and reduction gears of the smaller capacities. Pleasure boats and small commercial craft have taken most of their output. During World War II many small landing craft used Paragon reverse gears, and their reliability and efficiency were demonstrated.

The Paragon manual type high speed reverse gear is an improvement and development of the KE-90 type, first brought out in 1928. Their reduction gears are of the offset type with helical reduction gears for added quietness. The Paragon hydraulic type transmission was introduced in 1950.

WALTER MACHINE SPECIALTIES

The C. Walter Machine Company of Jersey City, N. J., manufactures a complete line of reduction gears, transfer drives, reduction gear couplings, Clean-Flo cooling systems and propeller pullers.

Clean-Flo keel coolers, by keeping salt water out of the engine block, greatly prolong an engine's life, as well as giving better and more economical engine performance.

Walter gear drives offer a wide variety of applications, and among other things make better use of boat space than would be possible with direct drive.

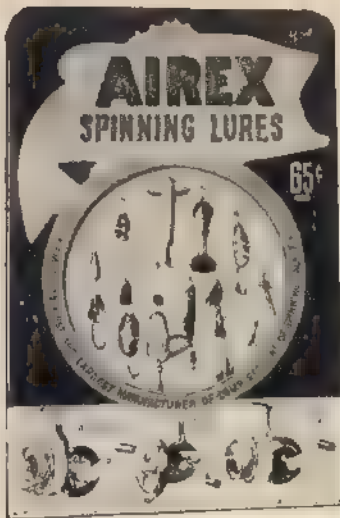

SMITH-MEEKER FEATURES ELECTRICAL ITEMS

 Southland Regatta, February 9-10, 1952
 Lightning Class Winter Championship, February 19-23, 1952
 St. Petersburg-Habana Race, March 8, 1952

For your BEST season of yachting and all around enjoyment of the best that Florida has to offer . . . come over to Sunny Sain' Pete. Make this friendly hospitable city your winter home port.

Here's the finest and most convenient waterfront you'll find anywhere . . . three large basins, right in the heart of the city, with adequate service and supply. Entertainment for ALL the family.

Weekly racing events for large and small sailing classes as well as power. Whether you cruise from the Eastern seaboard or the Great Lakes, you'll always meet familiar club burgees in St. Petersburg. Why not join them here?

and clever sailorette and a navigator. The rest tried it a few times, and, before mastering the trick, abandoned practicing. Most people do show a marked predilection for the launch or the outboard. Few realize that the news item I related might have had fatal consequences—and, very likely, for the would-be rescuers.

From the foregoing it may be surmised that I abhor gadgets and mechanical devices and encourage reliance on personal skill and prowess. Perish the thought! It is my pride to have double the required equipment at the Cruising Club Committee inspections in Newport, except for the life lines of which naturally I have one set, and single lines at that. I merely advocate familiarity with whatever devices are used so they can be handled with proficiency and skill and have a fair chance for their usefulness in an emergency.

Safety Devices

For the last year I became more conscious than ever about these safety devices because I have been a sympathetic and attentive listener to Henry W. Rubinkam who has been living with one unswerving idea for a long while, that is, to develop and perfect life-saving devices to rescue people in the water from boats and aircraft. Hank is well known among yachtsmen and is a capable and enthusiastic sailor. When we do not talk boats, he talks rescue. He talks with passionate fervor and works at it with unshakable faith. I am not acquainted with all the phases of his activities nor would I be competent enough to judge, especially when it comes to air rescue (of which I know nothing while he is a flier) but, from what he has explained or shown me, I believe he has hit on a sound principle—simplicity. Anybody can build a power house with untold complexities to accomplish a certain purpose, but such involved means could hardly be at everybody's disposal in all places because of their cost and their technical exigencies.

As sympathetic as I am, but greatly helpful with their skill and equipment are Ratsey, Nevins, Minneford, Trump, and others. I peeped in at Ratsey and at Nevins to look at some of the work under way, and I hope it can be soon brought to humanity's service.

Among Hank's devices there is one which will shoot a fantail from the taffrail of quilted, self-locking hoops four hundred feet away. Once a hand is slipped in one of these loops it cannot pull out. Furthermore, one quarter of a mile of cable is spooled out at the speed at which the ship is moving so that the man in the water is not drowned by his own bow wave. Meanwhile before the cable is all paid off the ship can be slowed down and maneuvered.

A Log Line Which Sleaped

Now, if Ted Stierks had had one of these loops within reach when he fell off the Apache in the last Honolulu race instead of the log line which promptly snapped, he would have avoided the nightmarish ordeal of swimming for thirty hours in a shark-infested sea. The story of this gallant man fighting for his life with just a knife for his defense sends chills through the most callous of us. At that, we are awfully glad he is amongst us to tell the story. He should be made a permanent member of all committees for safety and rescue at sea from the date this story comes out. His suggestions could not be taken lightly. He had a close shave.

I always was safety- and rescue-conscious and the building of an unsinkable dink, about which my article appeared in MoTOR BOATING, gives evidence of my concern, but the last events and Hank's talk have intensified my feeling on the score. Mindful that sailors are ready to argue a point—different ship, different splice, you know?—I slyly asked Hank what he thought if I went back to double life lines, and braced up for an argument.

"We should all carry double life lines," he shot back.

And double they will be. Iris may look like a chicken coop, but I shall be very grateful to Providence and to those encircling strings when I count my chicks and know that old Devil Sea has not rifled my roost.

A HIT! Ted Williams

truck drivers. Golly! They're a skillful tribe.

Saw one not long ago at a farm sale back a huge "semi" in on a curve between a fence and a loading chute. He didn't have six inches clearance on either side.

Those boys are sure handy. (One of the editors at Philadelphia suggests I should watch the truckers maneuver on that city's narrow streets. I have, and I'll take my hat off to them, and to the taxi drivers, too, but I still contend that the man who gets in and out of a muddy barnyard with a "semi" has them all beat.)

Sales make you think of free lunches, too. Had a penurious unmarried neighbor once who practically lived all winter by eating one meal free at a sale, then taking home an assortment of doughnuts, cookies, and hunks of bologna, scrounged from discarded paper sacks.

Kept his dog alive that way, too. Guess that's why that hound was so confounded mean. You never set foot on the place without first whistling the man up to call his dog off.

Free lunches at sales now are passé. They're out of style at saloons, too, so I'm told.

How would I know about saloons? Well, the sharpest impression from my first trip to Chicago as a kid was a bar as long as the pasture lane back home. This bar was on Halsted street near the stockyards, and at the far end was an astonishing spread of meats, rye bread, cheese, fried liver, hard-boiled eggs. I was too young to buy beer, but my older companions did. I laid into the food.

I still like food—worse luck, maybe. But I'm not awfully fond of the plush-up saloons that masquerade as restaurants these days.

There aren't too many right good eating places anymore where liquor isn't pushed at you. Three that I think of, and am especially fond of, are Lloyd's on Highway 30 south of Marshalltown, Iowa; Mrs. MacDonald's in Gallatin, Mo.; and Aunt Laura's at Smithland, Ky. There are more, of course.

I was astonished and completely rebuffed one evening recently in New York City when Paul Friggens (Western field editor for Farm Journal) and I dropped into three eating places on Park Avenue near the Grand Central station. I wanted milk toast. Do you suppose I could get it?

No. One waiter said "We don't have the facilities for milk toast, and besides it ain't on the card (menu)."

Greatest city in the world, and no facilities—at least in three restaurants—for heating milk.

I suspect there isn't much demand for, or money in, milk toast. More in 60-cent hamburger and 10-cent coffee.

"WE WOULDN'T FARM WITHOUT 'Cat' Diesel Tractors"

"We couldn't farm without 'Cat' Diesel Tractors. We've proved they save 60% on fuel bills, and do at least twice the work of any other tractor of equal horsepower on the place." E. A. J. Wick of Hutchinson, Minn. (His son, Gayle, is shown above.)

■ Each of the men shown here farms with a "Caterpillar" Diesel Tractor. "Caterpillar" ownership has netted them extra savings in fuel, manpower and field time... savings that would not have been possible with ordinary farm tractors. All agree, "We wouldn't farm without 'Cat' Diesel Tractors." Look forward to owning one. Talk it over with your "Caterpillar" Dealer. Since "Cat" Diesel Tractors are vital for national defense as well as other vital industries, you may have a short wait for delivery. Please be patient. You'll find them well worth waiting for!

"I wouldn't farm without my 'Cat' D2 Tractor... it operates for less than my smallest gasoline wheel tractor, yet has ample power for the big jobs. Our wheel tractor burned 25 gallons of gas daily, pulling 2-14" bottoms. This 25 drawbar h.p. D2 (new models have 32 h.p.) pulls 3-14" bottoms on 15 gallons of Diesel fuel."

Howard Myers, York, Pa.

"Wouldn't farm without a 'Cat' Diesel Tractor... nor would I sell mine for $20,000 if I couldn't get another. This wet bottom ground wouldn't raise much without the D4. In addition to our regular farm work, we've cleared about 250 acres of timberland with the D4. Use it more than any other tractor on the farm."

Fred Thomsen, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Diesel Farm Tractors

owners prove... more pull-power ...with a McCormick FARMALL® Super C

"It's a real lugger..."

The Super C delivers so much pull from its horsepower that owners say it's tops on every job. They like the way the Super C breezes along with 2-plow, 2-row mounted implements in toughest going. They marvel at the way Super C balanced weight provides traction for trailing implements and other heavy draw-bar loads. You get all-season, all-job pull-power with a Super C.

"My gas man is complaining..."

Try your IH dealer's Super C demonstrator on a day's hard work... measure the fuel you use. Owner after owner reports that the Super C does as much work as many other tractors on 15 to 25 per cent less fuel. That's because power of the thrifty valve-in-head engine is properly balanced with tractor weight, then converted into positive traction by the big, 54-inch-high tires.

"Slickest tractor for planting..."

Cross-check, hill-drop or drill up to 35 acres a day with a Super C and McCormick forward-mounted corn planter. With disc brakes and super-easy steering, you turn fast at the ends. You get biggest yields, too, because you can plant the exact number of kernels to match the fertility level of your soil, while applying just the amount of fertilizer you need.

You can prove it, too!

Prove to yourself that the Farmall Super C leads the 2-plow, 2-row field in pull-power, in fuel economy, in speed and quality of doing ALL farm work! ... Arrange with your IH dealer NOW for a Super C pull-power test on your own farm.

"I like the UP and DOWN hydraulic pressure..."

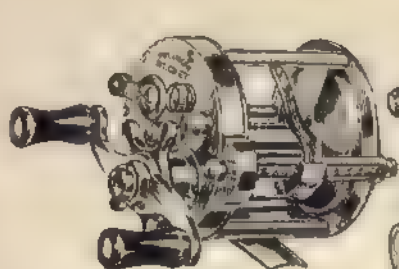

Farmall hydraulic Touch-Control lets you apply down pressure to either or both gangs of the Super C cultivator, individually. You also can raise or lower each cultivator gang separately, or use delayed lift for the rear section. Hydraulic pressure up or down is continuous, whether clutch is in or out, whenever the engine is running. Hydraulic Touch-Control is complete control!

Big-truck capacity and heavy-duty features — the ONLY half-ton pickup truck that has them all!

IT'S big—full 125½-inch wheelbase with 7 foot, 5 inch body—extra length that gives it "big truck" capacity.

But that's only part of the story!

GMC ALONE builds all the following 5 important, heavy-duty features into this model—features most manufacturers reserve for large, over-the-road trucks built to operate 100,000 miles a year:

They are (1) Tocco-Hardened Crankshaft, (2) full-floating piston pins, (3) rifle-drilled connecting rods, (4) steel-backed, airplane-type main and rod bearings, and (5) full-pressure lubrication to all main bearings and piston pins.

They pay off in durability and lower maintenance—fewer truck failures during critical farm periods. It's part of the extra value that goes with the real truck you'll get when you go to your nearest GMC dealer's!

THRIFTY STUDEBAKER TRUCKS STAND UP AMAZINGLY LONG

In the fields—or on the highways—a Studebaker truck stays solid and sound, no matter how hard you work it. What's more, there's no power-wasting excess weight in a Studebaker truck's husky structure.

This saves you plenty of gasoline year after year.

There's a size just right for every farmer's requirements in the comprehensive Studebaker truck line. Your range of choice runs from ½, ¾ and 1 ton pick-ups or stakes to the powerful 1½ and 2 ton models.

Fast controlled ventilation cools the driver to keep the air in the cab fresh—provides extra cushion on hot days. Adjustable seat with an Adjusto-Air cushion. Light duty models have steering post gearshift.

Look how easy it is to load or unload a Studebaker pick up. The ubiquitous box of heavy gauge metal is just the right height. Tail-gate is securely hinged at center and each end. Big visibility rear window.

Enclosed steps are fully protected from slippery mud and muck. Low cab floor. Wide doors with automatic "buck open" steps. Window wings—tight gripping rotary switches.

BLUE FLAG  BOAT YARD

COST RECORD

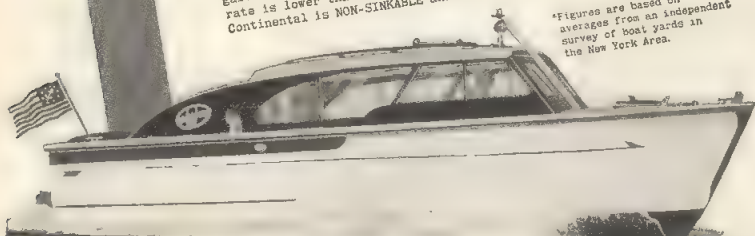

For yearly operation and maintenance of 26-foot
WELIN STEEL CRUISER*

$9.74 per week

Storage (includes hauling and launching).....	$ 64.50
Paint	44.40
Summer mooring	18.00
Gas & Oil (average running time: 67.8 hrs.).....	58.20
Insurance	305.00
Incidentals (winter motor/battery layup).....	18.30
52-WEEK TOTAL:	$506.40
1-WEEK'S COST:	$ 9.74

P.S.
Thought you'd like to know that your Welin riveted 'lifetime' hull is in perfect condition. It should be... that zinc-coated galvanized steel is really RUSTPROOF. I see that your insurance rate is lower than most others. Must be because your Welin Continental is NON-SINKABLE and the two gas tanks are above decks.

NOW—For the first time in power boat history...

Welin announces A NON-SINKABLE CRUISER

Two new 26-foot models added to the 1952 Welin Steel Fleet. The Welin Continental which provides comfortable cruising accommodations for four—and the Welin Sportsman, an ideal cruiser for fishing, with a huge cockpit and permanent shelter cabin

— AND BOTH ARE NON-SINKABLE

1. Stress-free, riveted construction.
2. Rust-proofed, 12 gauge, copper-bearing, galvanized steel life-time hull.
3. Lowest maintenance cost.
4. Ocean-tested design makes the Welin seaworthy as a sea gull.

Welin DAVIT AND BOAT

A DIVISION OF CONTINENTAL COPPER & STEEL INDUSTRIES, INC.
403 Market Street • Perth Amboy, N. J.

Four new model cruisers have been introduced by the Wells Davit and Boat Division of Continental Copper and Steel Industries, Perth Amboy, N. J. The non-sinkable feature is built into the Continental and Sportsman models. The Master Cruiser and Deluxe Sedan are other models in the series. All boats are 26 feet, the deckhouse superstructure of mahogany. A watertight bulkhead door seals the forward cabin and mates it a closed airtight space providing the non-sinkable feature. The engine compartment is sealed off and large air-tanks on each side provide added buoyancy.

THE NON-SINKABLE CRUISER

Two Welin models, the Continental and Sportsman, feature non-sinkable construction by sealed forward compartment

The Welin Continental, a 26-foot galvanized steel sedan cruiser, is the first stock boat to embody a non-sinkable feature. It is arranged to serve four persons in two separate cabins. Gray engines are used and provide speeds from 17 1/2 to 19 1/2 miles

The arrangement of all models is closely the same with the cabin space below fitted with two large berths. The main cabin is topside and is supplied with a dinette for four, which also serves as a double berth. The galley is located to port forward while the helm's position is opposite to starboard. The starboard after corner features a full headroom wash room. A panel in the side wall of the deckhouse serves also as a table top for six, and others conceal extra chairs, bedding and other gear.

WHY GAMBLE?

Make your safety a "sure-thing"
with Welin

Comfort and Economy go hand-in-hand aboard the 1952 Welin Cruisers.
Nonpounding and seaworthy,
Welins are 26-foot masterpieces of compact design. The Welin
is especially built for comfortable cruising. Look at these features:
comfortable bunks for four in two separate cabins, one-piece galley, private WC, dining table, full headroom and a spaciousness for real "living aboard" ordinarily found only in more expensive yachts...
AND... the lowest of maintenance costs — even insurance rates are lower for Welin Cruiser owners!

NON-SINKABLE CRUISERS

SINK-PROOF—Big air tanks and watertight compartments are built inside her "lifetime" hull. Even with 2700 gallons of water pumped aboard during tests, she ran under her own power.

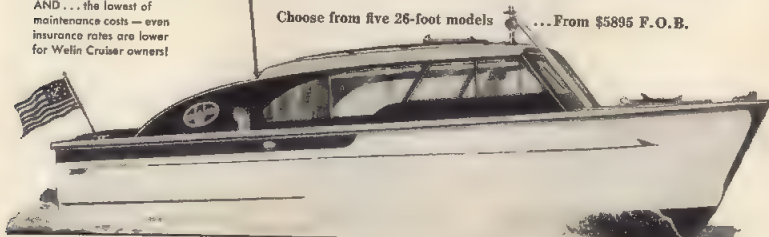

RUST-PROOF—Her 12-gauge, copper-bearing, steel plates are hot-dipped in zinc for corrosion resistance. Riveted construction makes a stress-free hull.

FIRE-PROOF—Two above-decks 35-gallon fuel tanks keep gasoline and fumes out of the bilges—even the engine is fully enclosed in a steel compartment.

PUNCTURE-PROOF—The smashing impact of .38 caliber bullets fired at point-blank range only slightly dented this sturdy steel hull.

No wonder the Welin Continental is boating's best—and safest buy!

Spacious mahogany interior of the Welin Continental main cabin.

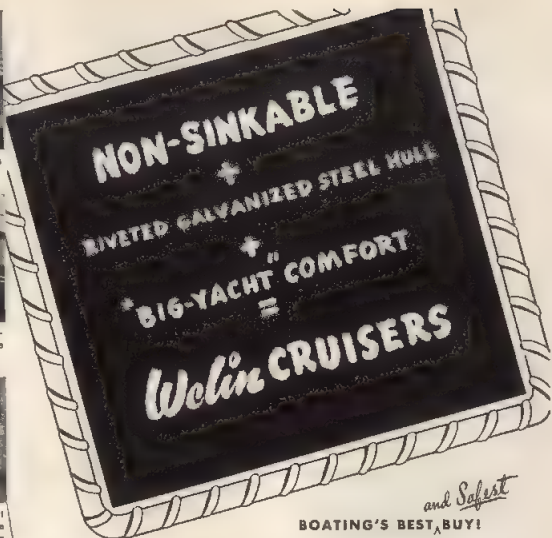

Deep cushions make comfortable double-bunk at night — broad seat and settee by day Forward cabin features two permanent 6'3" bunks with storage under. Note watertight bulkhead and door. One-piece compact galley to port.

Fac-ing aft in panelled main cabin with dining-chart table set up. Table folds away into paneling. Ample storage space throughout with concealed lighting.

Lifeboat non-sinkability is built into the husky, 26-foot, riveted, galvanized steel cruiser. Under the decks of this ocean-tested craft, with her "big-yacht" cruising accommodations for two couples, are big air tanks and watertight compartments. Two above-deck fuel tanks add a fire-prevention feature available on no other stock cruiser. Welin's half-century of building steel boats gives you lifetime safety, lower insurance rates and maintenance costs.

154.5 kilometers in 2 hours 18.9 minutes (about 42 MPH) was a world's record for speed set by Hubert Latham, at Rheims in 1909. This same year Latham made two unsuccessful attempts to fly the English Channel but was forced down each time when his engine stalled.

One of the newest of modern supersonic planes is the rocket-propelled D-558-2 Douglas Skyrocket. Launched from a B-29 bomber at an altitude of 35,000 feet in a recent test, the Skyrocket climbed to an undisclosed altitude which exceeded all previous altitude records for any type of aircraft.

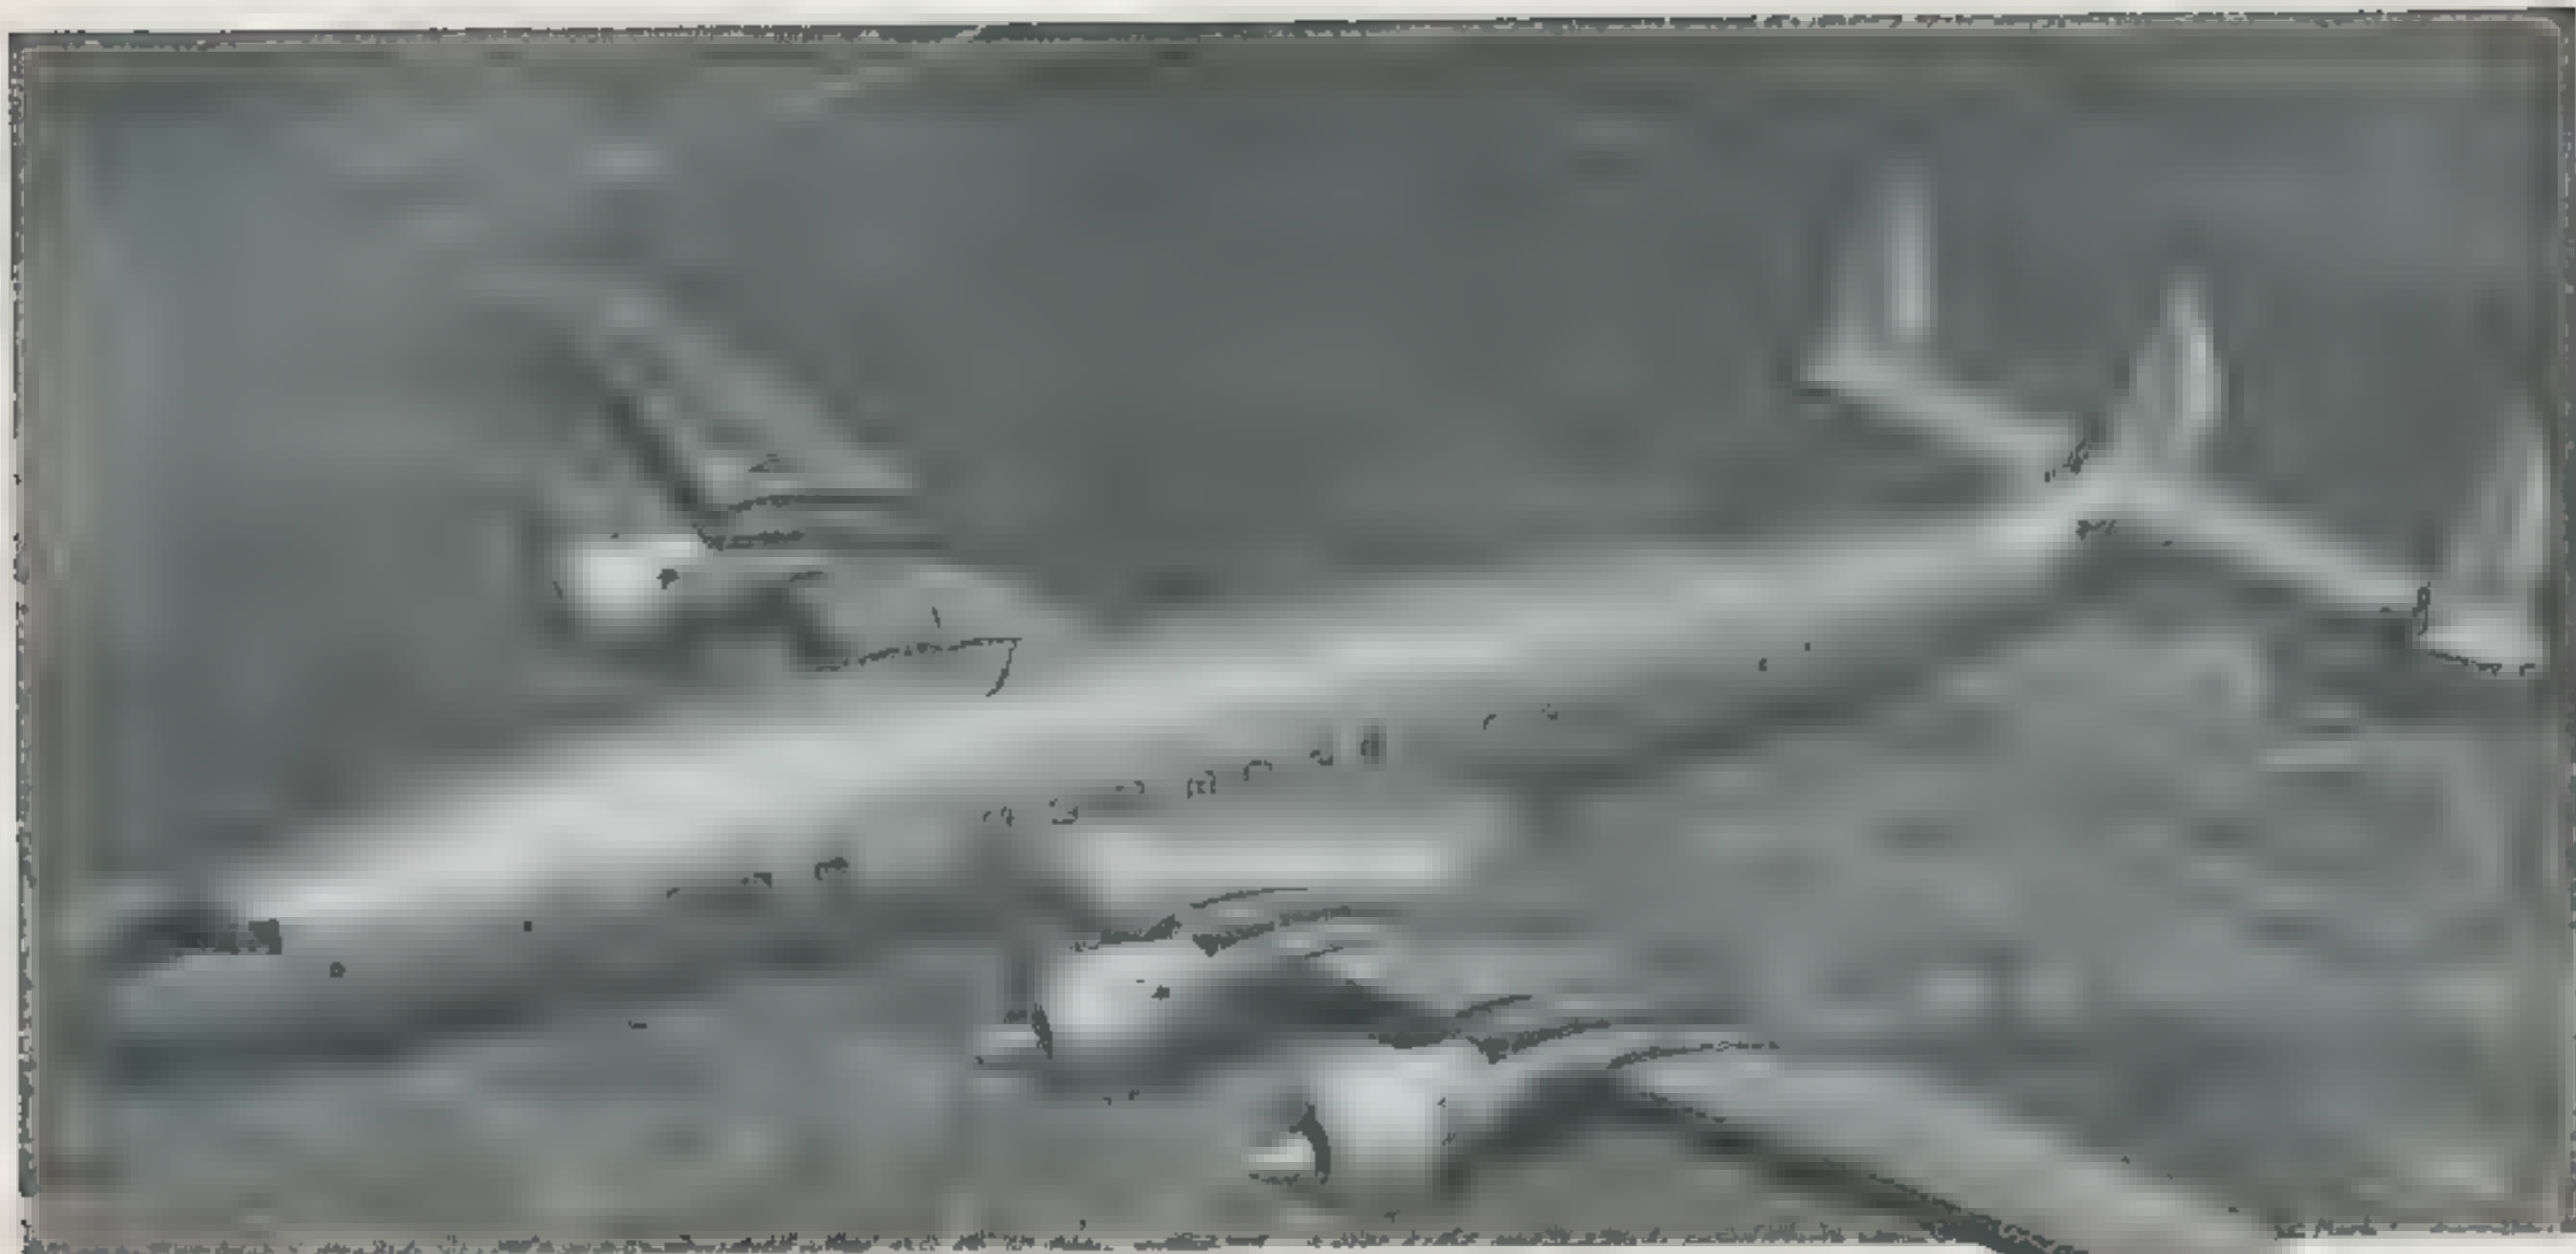

FROM THE EARLY yesterdays of aviation the name Phillips Petroleum Company has stood for dependable, high-quality products. Phillips Petroleum Company pioneered in the development of high-octane gasoline. Today Phillips is one of the largest gasoline suppliers for military, commercial and private planes. Phillips is also turning out fuels for turbo-props and jets. And in Phillips laboratories and testing fields, scientists are at work on new and tremendously more powerful fuels for the aircraft of tomorrow. For dependable aviation fuels and lubricants, think first of Phillips.

Lockheed's new Super Constellation features improved cockpit vision with Pittsburgh Flexseal Safety Glass

NEWEST addition to Lockheed's famous family of Constellations is this giant 1049 Super Constellation. Pilot vision came in for careful attention in designing this plane, and every possible step was taken to assure the best visibility in all directions under every flying condition.

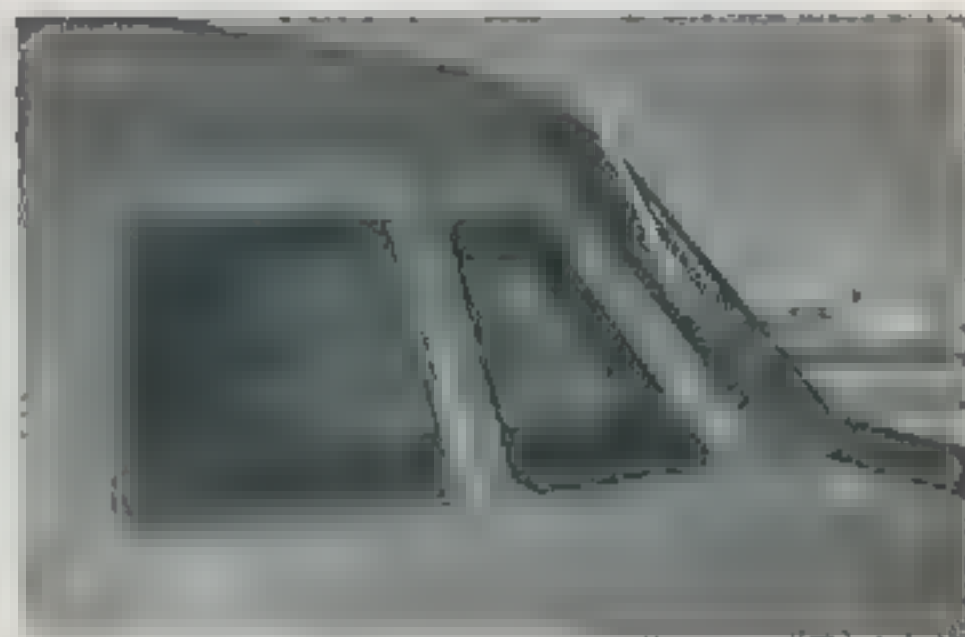

The seven openings in the cockpit are all glazed with flat Pittsburgh Flexseal Safety Glass. This glass and plastic lamination has been found ideal for the high-speed, high-altitude operation typical of the Constellations. It is flush-mounted with narrow posts that provide the least possible obstruction to vision and it is bird-resisting.

The three forward glass areas in the cockpit make use of electrically-heated Pittsburgh NESAGlass. This special type of Flexseal was installed after exhaustive tests of its heating and pressurizing cycles in Lockheed laboratories.

Thus the 88-passenger Super Constellation takes its place alongside many other commercial and military planes equipped with Safety Glass by Pittsburgh. Manufacturers consistently bring their glazing problems to Pittsburgh, knowing they'll receive competent engineering assistance along with Safety Glass specifically designed for the job it must perform.

We invite you to submit your Safety Glass and glazing problems to Pittsburgh engineers; they'll receive the most careful attention. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Room 2035-2, Grant Building, Pittsburgh 19, Pa.

Flight view of the Lockheed 1049 Super Constellation, the newest member of the famous family of Constellations that are in service on 16 major world airlines. All glass in the cockpit is Pittsburgh Flexseal Safety Glass.

A close-up view of the side windows of the Super Constellation's cockpit. Note the unobstructed vision insured by an advanced joining method that permits the use of extremely narrow posts.

These three forward glass areas are electrically-heated NESAGlass to assure the best vision under every flying condition.

Bent FLEXSEAL Safety Glass solves difficult optical problem on North American's newest Sabre jet

THIS NEWEST VERSION of North American Aviation's Sabre jet, the F 86D, uses Pittsburgh Multiplate and Pittsburgh Flexseal Safety Glass. It features the same sweptback wing with its high lift and low drag that helped an earlier Sabre set a world's speed record. A more powerful jet engine gives it even greater performance characteristics.

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION's new F-86D Sabre jet features even greater speeds and higher altitudes than its Sabre predecessors. These performance improvements presented a difficult optical problem that Pittsburgh engineers helped to solve.

To give the pilot the greatest possible freedom from vision distortion, Pittsburgh engineers designed special bent panels of Pittsburgh Flexseal

The windshield of the Sabre makes use of Pittsburgh Multiplate Safety Glass, a bullet-resisting, gunsight reflector-type glass.

Manufacturers of the nation's first-line military and commercial planes bring their glass and glazing problems to Pittsburgh. They know they'll receive competent design assistance as well as the finest Safety Glass that modern research and manufacturing methods can produce. We invite your inquiries, too. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Room 2066-2, Grant Building, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania.

CONVAIR T-29...

at the Consolidated Vultee Plant in San Diego, Calif.

T-29 navigation trainers (based on the Convair-Liner commercial transport) are continuing to roll off Consolidated Vultee's assembly line in San Diego. Eight of the twin-engine (2400-hp Pratt & Whitney) planes are shown nearing completion above. This high speed "Flying Classroom" is the first plane designed especially for training navigators in groups.

Your railroad...The Rock Island ...and mass production

Your railroad is proud of its capacity to support, through efficient distribution, the amazing growth in productivity of fourteen of our Nation's greatest States.

8000 miles of rail and 5000 miles of coordinated truck routes provide direct service to this great area that constitutes the heart of America.

Diesel-powered Rocket Freights that speed shipments over the road—centralized Traffic Control that make one track do the work of two, two tracks do the work of four—Hump-retarder Yards that makes possible the rapid classification of carload shipments—these and countless other improvements in methods and equipment have enabled Your Railroad to support the constantly increasing productivity of the area it serves, and through its connections, to distribute this production to all America.

Eyes of flight—the PLEXIGLAS canopies, domes, noses, windows on today's fighters, bombers, transports, helicopters. Through these transparent shields against wind and weather, the men who fly our country's planes obtain their all-important unobstructed view.

Some of these PLEXIGLAS enclosures are monolithic, some are laminated. Many are formed from PLEXIGLAS II, the improved grade of this acrylic plastic, with its increased resistance to heat, weather, and crazing. All of them have the clarity, strength, light weight, formability, dimensional stability, and weather-resistance that have established PLEXIGLAS as aviation's standard transparent plastic.

To make the most efficient use of PLEXIGLAS in aircraft applications, call on the Rohm & Haas service staff and technical representatives. Their services are backed by years of close cooperation with the aircraft industry on the design and installation of PLEXIGLAS enclosures.

PLEXIGLAS is a trade mark. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. and in other principal countries of the Western Hemisphere.

Congratulations
Chicago & Southern Air Lines on your outstanding engine service record!

With an all-time record of 500 consecutive days' and 109,000 engine hours' operation without a single DC-3 engine failure, Chicago & Southern Air Lines rates a big round of praise from the aviation industry.

Singled out for special tribute are the operation, maintenance and engineering men whose job it is to "keep 'em flying."

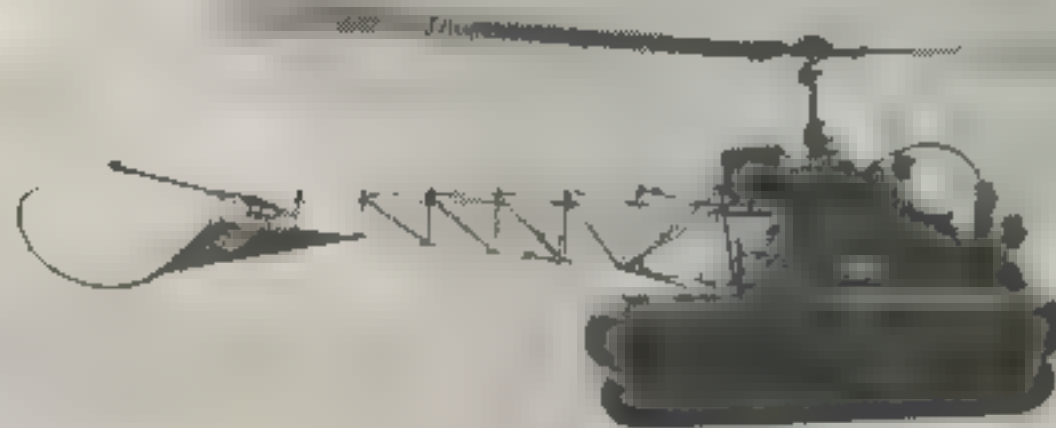

Such a record deserves a salute . . . and Shell, as the supplier of AeroShell[®] Oil used in these engines, is happy to be among the first to say "Well done, Chicago & Southern!"

GEARS

PROVEN BY TEST

Accuracy lets aircraft gear users keep down gear size, weight. This means little gears, giant loads. But without proof that the accuracy is really there, this combination is an invitation to sudden failure. To prove gear accuracy, Sier-Bath records it. One type of recording, an involute tooth form chart, is shown here. It shows location and magnitude of errors to within 1/10,000 of an inch.

PROVEN BY USE

Small, light Sier-Bath Precision Gears are carrying heavy loads in today's major aircraft. For example, in the famous Bell Aircraft Corporation helicopters (illustrated above).

Thermopane makes the Strata-Dome Practical!

Here's the B&O Columbian high in the Alleghenies. To make sure that passengers ride in insulated comfort—but miss none of the wild, primitive, heart-quickenning beauty of the mountains—the huge windows in this Strata-Dome train are glazed with *Thermopane insulating glass.

Thermopane is a practical choice for all railroads. Thermopane windows are not ordinary double-pane windows . . . Thermopane alone has the famous *Bondermetic Seal which prevents moisture and dirt from getting between the panes. This seal is metal-to-glass . . . no organic material that can deteriorate and leak.

That means better insulation and fog-free vision. And it means Thermopane windows are as inexpensive to clean as a single-pane window.

There are 2,500,000 Thermopane units in use today for a variety of glazing purposes. Such lines as the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, B&O and New York Central are taking advantage of it. Why don't you . . . for new cars and any modernizing you're planning. ®

TWIN COACH maintains its own aircraft carriers—a large fleet of modern over-the-road units for shipping complete assemblies

These company owned and operated vehicles, and specially designed carrying devices, are tailored for individual jobs... eliminate stresses and strains on precision-made parts. This assures prime contractors that assemblies built by Twin Coach arrive undamaged—on time.

This smooth efficiency is typical of Twin Coach Aircraft Division plants. It enables prime contractors to set and hold tight production schedules. Modern facilities, modern equipment and experienced manpower make Twin Coach a dependable source for every type of major airframe assembly.

Private Eye

50-SHOT REPEATING CAP PISTOL

The PRIVATE EYE is cleanly designed with balanced engraving and knurled grips. Its realistic "38 caliber design" will make every youngster want one on sight.

The PRIVATE EYE has a double-action of trigger and hammer which permits the hammer to be pulled back into locked position while the cap pistol is being loaded. Its bright, sparkling finish will stay so even after many months of hard play.

The PRIVATE EYE is a handsome, sturdily-built cap pistol and yet it retails for only about 69¢

Each PRIVATE EYE is individually packed in a bright, sales-producing, 3-color carton with special feature of a "push-out" PRIVATE EYE badge.

*Slightly higher west of the Rockies

The PRIVATE EYE gives every retailer the opportunity to sell Kilgore associated merchandise—holsters, spurs and cuffs.

Personal Interest

makes the difference

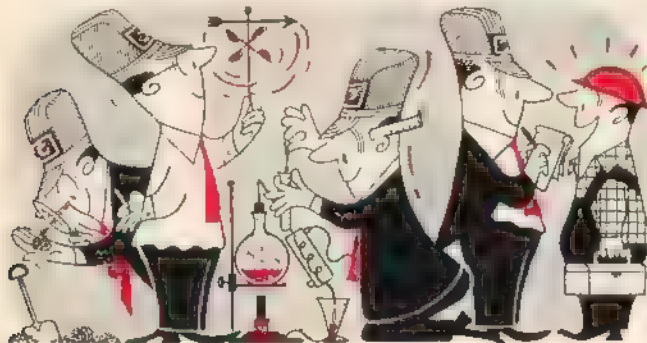

1. Mr. Ty Koon has just made two wise decisions: to build a branch plant in Northern California and to ask Western Pacific to help him find a strategic location for same.

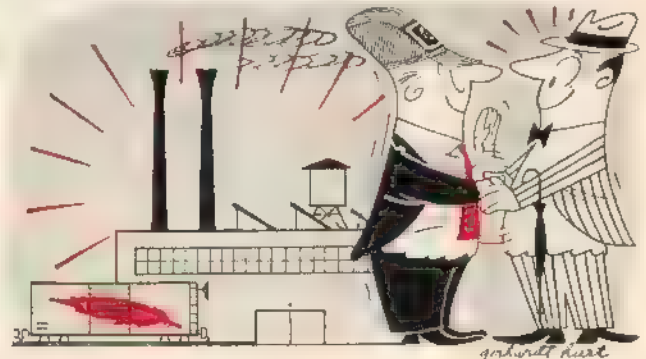

2. Here is Mr. Ty Koon discussing his requirements with Western Pacific's industrial development experts. Everything is very hush-hush so that Mr. Ty Koon's competitors won't get wind of his plans.

3. The search is on! Every possible site is checked and re-checked by Western Pacific's plant location specialists who have a long-time intimate knowledge of this territory.

4. Nothing's too much trouble when it's a question of helping a WP customer, present or potential. A mass of pertinent data is analyzed before a final recommendation is submitted to Mr. Ty Koon.

5. If you too are looking for a plant location in this area, be sure to get in touch with Western Pacific, the railroad that takes a personal interest in all the problems of its customers.

WILCOX ... Choice of EASTERN Air Lines

Wilcox Type 429A Glideslope Receiver Chosen for EASTERN'S Entire New Fleet of Martin 4-0-4's and Super Constellations

The safety and performance record of Eastern Air Lines' magnificent new fleet will depend upon the flawless operation of their I.L.S. navigation system. In selecting the Wilcox Type 429A Glideslope Receiver as an important part of this system, Eastern paid a great compliment to the dependability and performance of Wilcox equipment.

The Wilcox Type 429A Glideslope Receiver provides 90/150 CPS tone modulated glideslope signals in the 329-335 Mc. range.

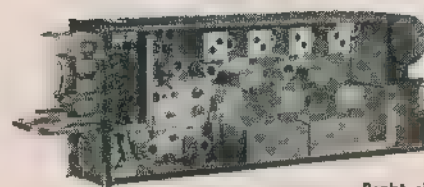

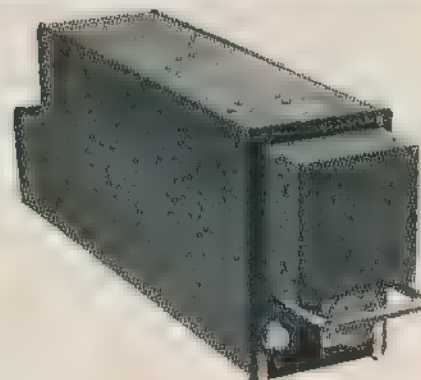

INSTANT ACCESSIBILITY FOR EASY MAINTENANCE

Routine inspection and service is made easy by the careful arrangement and instant accessibility of all tubes, components, and wiring.

AVAILABLE FOR D.C. OR A.C. POWER

The Type 429A is supplied for operation on either 28-volt D.C. or 110-volt A.C. 400-cycle current. D.C. or A.C. power supply occupies the same physical space interchangeably. The right-side illustration shows the Glideslope Receiver equipped for D.C. operation with dynamotor, and the left-hand photo as supplied for A.C. input. Thus it fits the requirements for all commercial, military, and private use.

● NO. 85 CARROM BOARD. The outstanding leader in today's Carrom Board line. Plays 85 games, including many of the time favorites as well as some new and novel ones. Other models from 20 to 110 games per board. Traditional Carrom quality construction.

● DART BOARDS. Conventional and original designs offer interesting variety. All boards are reversible with a different game on each side. Designs include "Triple Ring", "Spinola", "Dart Ball", and "20 Point". Size: 18" square. Supplied complete with darts and rules sheet.

● WHACK-IT. Loads of fun for total As assorted color pips are panned into hole on top, another "pips out" at other end. Set includes strong bench, extra pips and mallet. Attractively designed. 5 1/2" x 9".

● HAMMER SET. Tots, ages 2 to 5, are amazed for hours. Tight-fitting colored pips are pounded down on one side, bench is turned over and pips are pounded down again. Finished in attractive colors and strongly made.

● MODELUMBER. Accurately processed "modeler design" play lumber with 41 holes drilled. Provides unlimited building "pips" for all sorts of real life models. Kit includes saw, miter box, sandpaper, mallet and nails and pin sheet. Two numbers.

● GUSHER. The million dollar oil game! Developed from an actual oil boom — players make oil leases, drill for oil, bid against each other, "make a bid on" or "go broke". Fun for teen-agers and grown-ups. An excellent party game. Size: 15" x 13 1/2" x 1 1/2". Packed 12 to shipping carton.

● SPIN BOWL. Combines skill and chance. Can be played by two or more persons. A top takes the place of a bowling ball. Game is scored the same as regular bowling. Equipment includes top and 10 pins. Size: 10" x 20" x 2 1/2". Plywood construction with hard board playing surface.

CATALOG SHEET

COMET MODEL HOBBYCRAFT, INC.

501 WEST 35th STREET CHICAGO 16, ILLINOIS

New Catalog by DeLuxe Game Corp.

DeLuxe Game Corp., Kingston, Pa., in its 1952 catalog, carries a message to customers telling that the company has combined its four plants under one roof, affording 130,000 square feet containing modern manufacturing facilities. It is further stated that DeLuxe Game Corp. has taken over a modern metal plant in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where it is now manufacturing "a full and comprehensive line of outdoor equipment."

The inside front cover of the catalog, which is 40 pages in size, contains an index to items contained therein. The third cover is in the form of an order blank, complete in every respect, and the back cover pictures the new home of the corporation in Kingston, Pa.

Listed are blackboards, school slate wallboards, synthetic wall blackboards, bulletin boards, peg and blackboard kits, desk and blackboard sets, adjustable artist easels, carpenter bench, bowling alley, 4-way alley game, steel peg table, wood peg table, chime horse, horse shoofly, horse glider, metal service station, games, doctor and nurse kits with uniforms, game kits, paint sets, sewing sets, etc.

STARTS TOY JOBBING BUSINESS AT HOME

Jumps From a Few Square Feet to 12,000 in Six Years

THIS is the story of a married couple who decided to enter the toy wholesaling business, and who established it in their own home. That was back in 1932, when the number of lines carried was obviously very limited. But they had the know-how and the necessary stick-to-it-iveness to put the business over, and so, about 5 years later, it became necessary to move into a small building with a showroom 20 x 20 feet and about 1500 square feet of storage space. Then, in May, 1938, they moved into their present downtown location, at 524 N. Water St., in Milwaukee, Wis., and the firm became known as Bertram Novelty Co. The present building has four floors and a basement—a total of 12,000 square feet.

At that time, they traveled four men. But in 1940, they discontinued traveling salesmen and confined their efforts entirely to mail orders, soliciting the dealer trade only.

In January, 1940, the business was incorporated, with the following officers: H. E. Bertram, president; Mrs. H. E. Bertram, vice president and secretary; and R. L. Moss, treasurer. In 1945, the firm purchased the building, and in 1951 remodeled its showroom.

The company still continues to operate strictly by mail, and for the past several years it has published a general Fall catalog for the Christmas trade; also Valentine, Easter, Spring and Summer flyers.

This year, it is planning the publication of a toy promotion catalog for dealer-customers, consisting of about 32 pages and listing only the lower-priced, quick-selling toys. The catalog will also be offered to some jobbers in territories not conflicting with Bertram's.

Tonka Logger Toy

Mound Metalcraft, Inc., Mound, Minn., manufacturers of the well known line of "Tonka Toys" went to the Toy Fair this year with a surprise package in their new No. 575 Tonka Logger Toy.

The toy is unusual in that it is an approximate scale of the popular commercial loggers used by America's great timber industry to transport logs from cutting site to mill, detail heretofore found only in much higher priced toys. A large load of logs is completely assembled on the truck bed, ready for display on removal from the carton.

The high percentage of orders received at the Toy Fair for this number, according to L. E. Baker, president, proves that buyers are quick to recognize unusual value.

Coin-Operated Pony

In an article, "Now . . . Kids Can Be 'Taken for a Ride'!", which appeared in the April, 1952, issue of TOYS & NOVELTIES, and which concerned the "Big Bronco" mechanical saddle horse of The Exhibit Supply Co., 4218 W. Lake St., Chicago 24, it was stated:

"It is a paying proposition, even without figuring the merchandise sales which directly result, and there is no investment for the dealer. The income from the operation is simply divided—part to the manufacturer; part to the dealer; and the display is installed by a local operator."

Actually, the operator buys "Big Bronco" from The Exhibit Supply Co., and installs him in the retail store on a percentage basis.

case, Japan not only produced with great accuracy an American brand of checkers, but it also duplicated the carton in which they were put up, and "Made in USA" appeared on the carton. Not only this, but the checkers were offered at retail for exactly one-half the price of the American product!

Now it happens that the duty of 70 per cent no longer obtains in the case of many toy products, including parts, and the result has been to injure American industry.

Since our American toy industry pays large sums in taxes, whereas manufacturers in other countries pay us no taxes at all, it will be seen that our first and foremost consideration should be the American toy industry. Much as we would like to see foreign nations get on their own feet, we do not feel that this should be accomplished at the expense of an American industry which has been built up since 1918.

Hobby Men at Toy Fair

IN looking over the registration lists of the American Toy Fair held in New York last March, it is surprising to find so many hobby and craft jobbers and dealers who registered there, thus showing that they are very much interested in toy merchandise.

Of course, there is no reason why they should not be, and those hobby jobbers and dealers who, for the sake of diversification, added certain types of toys a year or more ago, have really made good with them. In the case of some hobbycraft jobbers, toys now comprise at least 50 per cent of their stocks.

Just as the hobby jobber and dealer is increasingly interested in handling toys, so the toy jobber and dealer should be interested in stocking hobbies and crafts. The reason for this is that the latter type of merchandise is sold to practically the same age group as toys.

Both types of jobbers and dealers could readily do a larger volume of business if both lines of merchandise were carried.

Workers' Wages

INCREASE in wages throughout the industry, including steel, is a direct stimulus to business, since workers, with new money in their pockets, are likely to beat a path to the stores. Yet, the increased sales resulting from the larger spending, will not necessarily mean increased profits. The nation's wage bill is bound to rise by more than $10 billion. Wages and salaries are now running about $13 billion over a year ago.

"We are considering the use of a hand puppet as a premium item for one of our clients. The puppet we have in mind would be a replica of a trade-mark character. It might be made of rubber or a pliable plastic, or perhaps out of some inexpensive pile fabric."—The S. A. Levyne Co., Advertising, 343 St. Paul Place, Baltimore 2, Md.

Ride The Winner—
It's "OLD TIMERS!"
Fastest-Seller and The Easiest Profit-Maker!

YOU, MR. DEALER—can make more profits—by featuring these "Old Timers" antique auto sets in your windows.

THIS FASCINATING LINE is sweeping the country—and it's bigger now than ever before! Thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of publicity—in magazines and newspapers, in radio and on television—has made these miniature antique auto models the most talked-about line in its field! In addition, they are pre-sold for you by the most consistent advertising and promotional program.

NO WONDER that at $1.95 to $3.95 these "Old Timers" sell like hot cakes! Every set comes with pre-shaped parts, plastic wheels, horn, radiator, lamps, etc. Sets include step-by-step instructions that a 10-year-old can follow with ease!

SO—"LET'S GO!" with "Old Timers"—the big Profit-Maker! You can do a whole lot of sales job this month—in June—and every month of the year—with the cutest things on wheels—"OLD TIMERS!"

DON'T FORGET to feature "Old Timers" for Father's Day—June 16th! They're perfect year-round as birthday and anniversary gifts—and especially as gifts for shut-ins and convalescents!

Wee Family Dolls

Wee Family Dolls, a full doll house family, should be the retailers' answer for inhabitants of doll houses and doll house units sold over the counter every day of the year. Characters in these sets are of molded rubber, wire reinforced. They are washable, unbreakable and moveable . . . the arms and legs will bend and stay in any position. All are hand decorated, and clothing is removable.

Various pictured usages show how adaptable they are for doll house play.

There are four individually boxed groups—the Circus group with five characters; the Five Star American Family with six characters; the Cowboy Family with five characters, and the Wedding Party with five characters. Priced to retail from $2.00 to $2.25, they are being marketed by exclusive national sales representative, Charles H. Carroll, 1421 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

"Walkie-Talkie" Toy Set

For the second year, REMCO INDUSTRIES, INC., Newark, N. J., is featuring its Buck Rogers "25th Century" Electronics Communications Outfit, a $3.98 retailer. The toy operates like a telephone, and comes packaged in a 3-color, prize-winning setup box which includes two personalized Buck Rogers phones, 25 feet of double wire, secret dial decoder and an operator's certificate. It is said to be completely safe—with no parts to wear out or replace—as power comes from a permanent Alnico magnet, requiring no batteries or electrical connections.

Cross-Word Card Game

The SARK SALES CO., 251 Fourth Ave., New York 10, N. Y., has taken over the exclusive manufacture and distribution of Sark, cross-word card game. Plans for nation-wide distribution backed by extensive promotion are now under way.

The game combines both elements of chance and skill. It is simple to play with participants forming three, four or five letter words on the boxed score sheets from letters drawn from the card deck. Each set contains a deck of cards and a score pad. Retail price is $1. Extra score pads, each containing 200 score sheets, retail for 25c.

Howdy Doody Cap

The Howdy Doody Peanut Gallery cap, of red-and-white gabardine combination with Howdy Doody plastic pin on its peak, comes in sizes small, medium, large and extra-large, at a retail of from $1.79 to $1.95. It was introduced in March when 2500 were presented to moppets at Howdy's gala 1000th show. Manufactured exclusively by the firm of SMOLOWITZ & BENKEL, 50 Bond St., New York, under license from KAGHAN CORP., 4 W. 58th St., New York 19, N. Y., the cap is modeled along the lines of the Confederate Cap of which S & B sold more than 100,000 dozen last year.

Weather Forecaster and Thermometer

"Tickley Pigley" weather forecaster and thermometer is a novel utilitarian item manufactured by A. M. SPORS CO., Dept. TNT, LeCenter, Minn. Sculptured in detail and handpainted in five colors, the mama pig has the weather forecaster on her back. Magic chemical in this changes from blue for fair and sunny weather to pink for cloudy or rainy weather. Triple tested thermometer is said to give accurate room temperature. Unit, which is 6" high and 3 1/4" wide, can be set on table or mantle, or can be hung on wall. Comes in three color gift box for $1.89, postpaid.
